OVER 50 DEAD; FIRES RAGE ON

Above 100 Missing and 200 Injured in Fight with Flames in Three States.

RELIEF TRAINS CUT OFF

Stalled Between Burning Bridges with Refugees—Remnant of Wallace Is Safe.

MANY VILLAGES ABANDONED

Washington Rushes More Soldiers—Taft Sends Message to Governors Suggesting Use of State Troops.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 22.—With more than fifty persons known to be dead, more than one hundred missing, 200 injured, half of Wallace burned, and two or three villages obliterated, forest fires to-night continue to threaten death and destruction over a large territory in Northern Idaho, Eastern Washington, and Western Montana. Half a dozen villages are seriously threatened by the flames and their inhabitants by hundreds are hurrying to places of safety. Relief trains are helpless in many cases, owing to burned bridges and fires that lap the tracks. What is left of Wallace is now safe and no towns are burning.

The situation is most acute in the Coeur d'Alene region of Northern Idaho. Reports from other parts of the Northwest are more encouraging than they were yesterday.

Some of the fires have been controlled, others are less threatening in the absence of wind, while in some places the fire fighters have diverted the course of the flames from towns that were threatened. The new fires that have sprung up in the last twenty-four hours have not proved serious thus far.

A report to-day that the Colville fire in Eastern Washington had broken out with renewed energy is untrue. The fire in the Wallawalla reserve in Oregon appears to be under control. A fire in the Wenah reserve in Southeastern Washington became dangerous yesterday, and it is still raging with undiminished fury.

In Eastern Oregon, between Baker City and La Grande, are several fires which are doing serious damage to live timber.

There are a few sporadic fires in Western Washington and Oregon and in Northern California, but they are not yet serious.

Despite the efforts of 750 fire fighters, among whom are 250 more regular soldiers from American Lake, Wash., who arrived to-day, none of the fires has been put out.

All the men available have been drafted into service to backfire and trench.

Oregon Fires Incendiary.

The fires in Southern Oregon, in many cases, are said to be of incendiary origin. This has been a matter of general gossip in Medford for several days, but it became officially published to-day through dispatches from Washington.

No hope of rain is yet given by the United States Weather Bureau. The prediction of the District Forecaster for to-night and to-morrow is for fair weather throughout Washington, Oregon, and Idaho.

The conservative estimate which placed the death roll in the Coer d'Alene region at "over fifty" is based on the report to Forestry officials that thirty firefighters had burned to death on Big Creek and at least half as many more at other points.

Word also came to-day that 106 men near Avery on the St. Joe River had perished, but a later report said that all but four came out safely. Among the dead reported were six men killed in the Placer Creek fire, three miles from Wallace, Idaho; three near Mullan, and three at Wallace. The whole country from here to the St. Joe River, twenty-five miles, has been burned over.

Men Two Days Under Water.

Several persons reported burned, today reached St. Joe after a perilous trip. The fire is only six miles from St. Joe to-night, and large cinders are falling in town.

Twenty-five men probably are surrounded if not consumed by fires on La Ture Creek. From Trout Creek, two travelers arrived at St. Joe to-day after a terrible experience. For two days these men lay in the creek, their heads under water except when they were compelled to breathe. Fires raged on both sides of the creek.

The hospital at St. Joe is filled with refugees, suffering with injuries and burns. There are 100 refugees in St. Joe to-night.

The forest fire in the Snow Mountains of Montana has broken out afresh, and is now eating its way down the side of the range. W. H. Merriam, District Freight and Passenger Agent of the Northern Pacific Railroad, to-night received a dispatch to the effect that the trouble near Tuscora, Mon., occasioned by forest fires, would be overcome to-night, and that delayed trains would start moving.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound Railroad lost a trestle by fire near Portal, Mon. This bridge was 110 feet high and more than 200 feet long.

The loss at Wallace still stands at $1,000,000. One hundred buildings were destroyed. The hospitals are full of wounded, a number of them being blind.

The St. Joe and the St. Marie Valleys, in the heart of the richest timber belt in Idaho, are swept by flames. Already 100 homesteaders there have been burned out. Five hundred men are fighting the blaze. St. Joe River steamboats are kept ready to take the people to safety. Gould, seventeen miles from Helena, is entirely sur-

FIERCE FIGHT IN A FLAT.

Two Men Bitten, One Dangerously Hurt—All In Hospital.

Persons in the vicinity of 3,032 Third Avenue last night heard a fierce struggle going on there in the apartment of Mrs. Louise Hauschild. Patrolman James Morrison of the Morrisiana Station, entering the apartment, found Frank Hock, a brewery employe, lying on the floor unconscious, and Dr. Mahler of Lebanon Hospital, who was summoned, said he was suffering from a fracture of the skull, a fracture of the lower jaw, and bruises of the body. According to Patrolman Morrison, Hock accused Mrs. Hauschild's son John and an unidentified man of entering the apartment and beating him.

Dr. Mahler told the policeman that two men had called at Lebanon Hospital just before he left there and that they had remained to have wounds of the hands treated. The policeman accompanied the surgeon and his patient to the hospital.

Hock said he had been boarding with Mrs. Hauschild and that she has been taken to Lebanon Hospital a week ago for treatment.

The two men mentioned by the surgeon were taken before Hock. He identified them as his assailants. They were then arrested.

One was John Hauschild, a clerk, and the other was Joseph Commiskey, a special watchman employed by the Manhattan Amusement Company at 155th Street and Eighth Avenue.

The right thumbs of both Hauschild and Commiskey were badly torn. They said Hock had bitten them.

When searched at the station Commiskey handed over a revolver and club.

NEW STEEL BY-PRODUCT.

Carnegie Steel Company to Utilize Ore Dust in Making Pig Iron.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 22.—The United States Steel Corporation has discovered another by-product in the steelmaking industry that will save hundreds of thousands of dollars a year. Vast quantities of ore dust, for which no use has heretofore been found, are to be utilized through a discovery of the engineering department of the Carnegie Steel Company, and the process is to be put into operation at once at the mills of the latter company at Homestead.

The ore dust is to be made into briquettes and utilized in making pig iron. It is claimed its use will effect a reduction in the cost of pig iron. The dust, under the tremendous pressure of the blast, is caught at the top of the furnace, and then carried to the base of the stack, to be carted away.

Along the terminal railroads of the Carnegie Steel Company 200,000 tons of ore dust are piled, which, with ore at $4 a ton, would represent a saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars. Construction of a plant for the transformation of the ore dust is being expedited.

YALE STUDENT A SUICIDE.

Body at Buffalo Identified as That of Ralph E. Coleman.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 22.—The young man who died in a hospital in this city last night shortly after being found in Delaware Park with a bullet wound in his head, was identified to-day as Ralph E. Coleman of Saranac Lake, N. Y., a sophomore at Yale University.

"I was so pleased to receive your letter and to know that you were enjoying yourself," wrote Miss Edith A. Krom of Johnstown, N. Y., to Coleman under date of Aug. 12.

"I have tried to live and to succeed, but have failed. I have known no happiness since April 1," wrote Coleman just before he shot himself through the head with an automatic revolver. Both messages were found on the young man's body.

Among the contents of Coleman's pockets, which were emptied in good faith by the policeman who found the body and turned it over to the Morgue authorities only yesterday morning, were a valuable gold watch, several badges and ornaments, including a star and crescent pin of the Alpha Delta Phi Greek letter society of Yale, the half of a railroad trunk check, snapshots of girls and students, letters, and a notebook.

The father identified the body to-day.

HUSBAND TRAILS MRS. HORN.

Accuses Wife Who Made Insanity Defense In Divorce Suit.

Mrs. Kathleen Horn, who not long ago met the suit for absolute divorce brought by her husband, William O. Horn, a wealthy neckwear manufacturer, by introducing the novel plea of insanity, is in more trouble, it was learned yesterday, as the result of what is alleged to have taken place in the Hotel Werner, in West Forty-fifth Street, in the small hours of Sunday morning. By the aid of detectives whom Mr. Horn had engaged to gather evidence for another trial Mrs. Horn was traced there from Asbury Park.

She is said to have entered the hotel in the company of a well-known New York professional man, and their discovery by Mr. Horn furnished the guests of the hotel a few moments of excitement. Mr. Horn said all that he had to say loud enough to attract all the witnesses he could have desired.

In the action which he brought before Justice Newburger the jury agreed, about two months ago, on the first question submitted to them, that Mrs. Horn had committed the acts on which her husband sought a decree, but it was unable to decide whether or not she was insane.

GORED BY BULL, MAY DIE.

Philadelphia Bank Employe Is Internally Injured on a Wisconsin Farm.

Special to The New York Times.

WAUKESHA, Wis., Aug. 22.—Maurice Blockman, a bank employe of Philadelphia, who has been spending the Summer vacation on the dairy farm of Herman Kuenzli, cashier of the Pewaukee State Bank, met on Sunday with a serious and perhaps fatal accident. He left the house to drive home the cows. In about a half hour he staggered home, and just as he reached the house dropped unconscious. He had been attacked by a vicious bull.

Dr. H. T. Barnes of the village of Pewaukee was called and found that Blockman was a mass of cuts, bruises, and broken bones, every rib on one side being broken. His face was so bruised and knocked out of shape that it was unrecognizable. He had also internal injuries, from which he may die. He is now at the home of his employer in an unconscious condition.

MANAGUA FALLS AND MADRIZ FLEES

Insurgent Forces Enter Capital Without Conflict, but Situation Is Critical.

ALL THE CONVICTS ESCAPE

Pittman at the American Consulate—The Presidency Turned Over to Brother of Gen. Estrada.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—News of the fall of Managua without resistance to-day, following the entry of the insurgent forces, is contained in a cablegram received to-night by the Acting Consul of Madriz at New Orleans.

The town was surrendered without any conflict, it is stated.

It has been generally understood since the revolution started that Gen. Juan Estrada was made nominal head of the Provisional Government at Bluefields largely on account of the position he held under the Zelaya administration. President Zelaya had appointed Estrada Governor of the eastern half of Nicaragua.

Although the revolution has been a success and Estrada is nominally President of the supposedly reunited republic, it is not believed in Managua that he will retain the support of the Conservative Party.

The Chamorros have always been the leaders of the most conservative of the Conservatives. Their party includes the large planters of the interior, who said of Zelaya was robbing them and the country generally of all that he could lay his hands on.

A cable dispatch says that on this account sympathizers with all parties are expressing the hope that the United States will take a hand and lend its support to a fair election. They declare that conditions are unsettled in Managua; that many serious threats are made on all sides, and that they are fearful of the consequences until a strong outside nation demands that peace be made permanent.

BLUEFIELDS, Aug. 22.—Gen. Estrada to-day cabled to Secretary of State Knox at Washington an assurance to the American people of his warm regard and an offer to make amends for the execution of the Americans Cannon and Groce and other unfriendly acts toward the United States on the part of Presidents Zelaya and Madriz.

Gen. Chamorro, acting as delegate for Gen. Estrada, is now Provisional President of the republic, and is awaiting the arrival of Gen. Estrada at Managua.

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Aug. 22.—President Madriz, Dr. Irias, Gens. Ortiz, Toledo, Valdes, Lara, Chavarria, Chavez, and Perdomo, and several others of Madriz's chief lieutenants, have left Corinto on board the Pacific Mail steamer San José for Amapala, Honduras.

It is said here that Gen. Estrada will turn over the Presidency of the republic to the revolutionary General Macis.

Six hundred political prisoners in Managua were liberated on Friday and 100 from the Island of Cardon yesterday.

All is quiet at Corinto, Leon, Managua, and Chinandega, but there is still fighting around the town of Granada.

MANAGUA, Aug. 22.—The advance guard of the revolutionists is now one mile from Managua.

President Madriz left the capital last night for Corinto, accompanied by his chief advisers.

William Pittman, the captured American engineer, who was accused of laying mines for Estrada, is free at the American Consulate.

All the prisoners in the penitentiary have made their escape.

There was rioting last night, but it was quickly quelled.

The situation is critical.

Before departing for Corinto with Gens. Toledo, Vasquez, Ortio, and Montenegro, and Dr. Julian Irias, Madriz turned the Presidency over to José Dolores Estrada, a brother of Gen. Juan Estrada, the leader of the revolution. Immediately afterward José Estrada issued a proclamation saying that he would give the office to his brother, and started a peace commission, composed of foreign Consuls for Granada to inform Gen. Estrada of his intention. The commission was compelled to return to Managua, however, as the railroad tracks had been torn up.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—In a communication to the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES to-day Sebastian Salinas, one of the two Madriz envoys to the United States, blames this country in part for the disorder that has raged for eleven months in Nicaragua. He and his colleague, Dr. Barrios, he says, have been laboring to obtain the "good offices" of the United States. They have offered "generous terms," but have failed of the desired result.

Dr. Barrios, however, did not sign the letter. In the course of a conversation this afternoon he said: "Well, I suppose they have got Managua by now. What do you think?"

After denying that he and his colleague have conceded the defeat of their leader, Señor Salinas in his letter says: "We believe that the Madriz Government is strong enough to defeat the revolutionists even if they do receive supplies and ammunition from the United States, like those carried by the Hornet. No official news has come from Nicaragua of the capture of Granada, Masaya, or Managua by Estrada's army, and we do not believe that the news reported via Bluefields will be confirmed."

Up to a late hour to-day dispatches received at the State Department simply confirmed yesterday's reports of the battles and of Estrada's continued successes. Nothing has come yet concerning the political developments that may be expected as a result of Estrada's victory.

State Department officials to-day decline to discuss the developments in Nicaragua. It is well known, however, that they are pleased at the downfall of Madriz and that they look with favor on

SIBLEY DRAWS OUT OF CONGRESS FIGHT

Quits on Eve of Inquiry Into His $42,500 Expenses at the Primary.

SAYS HIS HEALTH IS BAD

But Enemies Declare He Has Been Driven Out—Wheeler or Whitla May Get the Nomination.

Special to The New York Times.

FRANKLIN, Penn., Aug. 22.—Former Congressman Joseph C. Sibley of Franklin, Penn., after a period of retirement, recently re-entered the political arena and won his fight for the Republican nomination as Congressional candidate in the Twenty-eighth District, created consternation among his friends and brought joy to his enemies when he announced at noon to-day his withdrawal from the present bitter Congressional campaign.

Mr. Sibley defeated Congressman N. P. Wheeler for the nomination, and upon the filing of $42,500 as election expenses, an audit of Mr. Sibley's account was demanded and ordered by the courts. Scores of witnesses have been summoned to appear before Judge Criswell when the investigation starts next Monday.

In a public statement Mr. Sibley assigns ill-health as his reason for withdrawing. After spending some weeks at his country home at Valcour, on Lake Champlain, he returned to Pennsylvania ten days ago. Since then he has kept to the house almost entirely, heart trouble interfering with his desire to take part in business and political activities. None of his friends, however, thought of Mr. Sibley's withdrawal from the Congressional field as a possibility.

The two most likely successors to the candidacy on the Republican ticket are Nelson P. Wheeler, the present Congressional incumbent, and James P. Whitla of Sharon, father of Willie Whitla, whose kidnapping several years ago created a country-wide sensation. Whitla is understood to enjoy the support of Sibley.

Enemies of Sibley are inclined to boast that he has been driven out under fire, but those who know Sibley as a fighter jest at this. Whether the investigation of Mr. Sibley's expense account will now be pushed or dropped is not known. There is a rumor that the case will not be pushed.

DOG ATTACKS LITTLE GIRL.

Gets Her Down and Bites Her Repeatedly Before He Is Driven Off.

A large white bulldog owned by Mrs. Mary Digner, janitress of the building at 620 East 161st Street, watched out of the corners of his flabby eyes three small girls who were playing hide and seek in the rear yard last night. The girls in their play darted toward the hallway, and the dog, with a growl, ran after them. Two of them turned and saw him, then rushed through one of the hall doors. The third, eleven-year-old Francis Gow of 616 East 161st Street, did not see him until he was upon her, throwing his fore paws on her neck and sinking his teeth into her shoulder.

Hearing the child's screams, Mrs. Digner rushed into the yard just in time to see the dog drag the little girl to the ground and sink his teeth again into her shoulder. She tried to call him away and then to pull him off, but the dog clung to the child. Only when several men, summoned by the other girls, ran up and beat the brute with clubs did he let go.

The girl was removed to the office of Dr. James A. Newson, at 375 East 158th Street, who found she had been bitten in ten places, four of them in the shoulder several inches deep. He cauterized the wounds. The dog was taken to the Morrisania Station by Policeman Farrell, and will be examined for rabies. He was said by neighbors to have bitten several other children recently.

HELPLESS IN A LAUNCH

Brooklyn Man, Hurt by Fall Against the Engine, Rescued Off South Beach.

Alexander Anderson, 30 years old, of 152 Seventy-sixth Street, Brooklyn, was found, disabled and helpless, in the bottom of a thirty-five-foot naphtha launch, drifting seaward in the channel off South Beach, S. I., late yesterday afternoon by four men in another launch.

The launch was towed into South Beach and the injured man was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, at Livingston, where it was found that his right shoulder was dislocated and that he had suffered internal injuries.

Anderson said he left Brooklyn early yesterday with two other men to go fishing. On the way back in the afternoon they stopped at South Beach. When he wanted to start for home, between 5 and 6 o'clock, his companions refused to leave, and he started to Brooklyn in the launch alone. Engine trouble developed and while he was fixing it the swell from a passing steamer threw him off his feet and he fell on the engine and was injured.

Torpedo Boat Destroyer Launched.

BATH, Me., Aug. 22.—With fair promise of being the fastest navel vessel afloat not built especially for speed, the torpedo-boat destroyer Drayton, sister ship of the Flusser, Reid, and Paulding, which already have been launched here, took her initial plung to-day. BURGLARS TRY TO KILL THE BEDFORDS

Turn Gas Jets on Full in Going Through Connecticut Home of Standard Oil Official.

FLEE WHEN WOMAN SCREAMED

They Got Little Loot—Mr. Bedford and Others Were Found Unconscious, but Afterward Revived.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENS FARMS, Conn., Aug. 22.—Detectives from Bridgeport and Norwalk, midway between which towns this place lies, are trying to locate the gang of burglars who entered the home of Charles E. Bedford, manager of the Marine Oil Department of the Standard Oil Company, and attempted to asphyxiate Mr. Bedford's family and several guests at his Summer home, The Lookout. The burglars were driven off with little loot beyond small sums of money which they had taken from the clothing of the family and guests.

Three of Mr. Bedford's young children, several nurses, a male friend stopping at the house, and others were overcome by gas and had narrow escapes from death.

The burglars were discovered at work by a woman guest at the house. She was awakened by the movements of the burglars as they slipped out of her room after having gone through the bureau drawers and the clothing of herself and her husband. Her screams aroused the household, and sent the burglars scurrying to safety.

Those who were awakened by the woman's cries found that in every sleeping room in the house the gas jets had been turned on full, and it was when they endeavored to awaken the others they discovered Mr. Bedford and some of his family and guests unconscious. They worked over them for some time with the help of a physician, who was summoned immediately, and finally all were resuscitated. The house was searched then and the small extent of the robbery discovered.

"I am anxious," said Mr. Bedford tonight, "that this robbery, which at the same time was nothing less than an attempt on the lives of myself, my family, and my guests, should have all the publicity possible. The robbery occurred on Friday night, after the household had retired, and no trace of the burglars has been found yet.

"Probably they never may be discovered, but at least I want to warn my neighbors and other residents of country houses to be on their guard against similar attacks. Our investigation, after we had been awakened and saved from certain death, showed that the intruders had gained entrance to the house by climbing to the roof of the porch, which extends for 150 feet around two sides of the house, and from this vantage point entered the open windows of the six bedrooms which open on the top of the porch.

"Apparently the first care of the burglars was to turn on full every gas jet in the sleeping rooms and then to begin their search of the house. Nothing but the fact that one of my guests is a light sleeper, and was aroused by the burglars leaving her room, saved the lives of my children and their nurses as well as others of the household. All of us in fact probably would have been asphyxiated but for the warning.

"I suppose that thieves as daring as these probably came to this quiet place from New York. Probably, therefore, they never will be caught, but if every person in this or any other secluded neighborhood shall be warned by my experience I shall be content."

TAFT'S TRIP TO PANAMA.

To Make It in Two Weeks in November by Swift Scout Cruisers.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 22.—It is now practically certain that President Taft will make his proposed trip to the Isthmus of Panama in November. The trip will be curtailed considerably, however, and the time of the President's absence may be cut down from twenty days to two weeks. In order to do this it is proposed to make the journey to the Isthmus and back at the rate of 21 knots an hour, a speed that can be maintained with the scout cruisers Chester, Salem, and Birmingham. It is now believed that two of these swift vessels will be used to convey the party.

President Taft received a committee from the Metal Trades Union to-day regarding longer vacations for some classes of workmen on the canal. The committee consisted of A. J. Berres, James L. Gernon, and William H. Johnson. They asked that the men paid by piece work be granted the same vacations as the men on monthly salaries. The piece men now get only two weeks, while the salaried workmen are allowed six. Two weeks is declared to be too brief to be of benefit or to allow of a change to a cooler climate in the period of recuperation. Mr. Taft told his callers that the matter was on its way to him through official channels, and that when he came to act he would grant a further hearing.

FIGHT IN THEATRE BALCONY.

Spectator and Moving-Picture Operator Cause Uproar in the Dewey.

An argument over a seat in the Dewey Theatre, a moving picture concern at 136 East Fourteenth Street, led to a fight and a disturbance among the 1,100 people present last night. Charles Hecko, 23 years old, a waiter, who says he lives at Coney Island, was arrested and fined $10 in the night Court by Magistrate House.

All the seats in the theatre are the same price, and when Hecko and his wife, Helen, arrived, they tried to get a seat in the orchestra stalls. They were directed to the balcony, but the balcony was already full. Hecko, with his wife, took a seat perilously near the moving picture machine in the balcony. One of the machine operators, Max Cohen, 17 years old, of 336 First Avenue, told him to move and Hecko and his wife refused. From an argument they came to blows, the woman taking part in the fight.

When Patrolman Randolph of the Fifth Street Station arrived he found the men rolling on the floor of the balcony. Women and children were fleeing from the fighters.

SHERMAN WON'T REPLY.

"I Have Nothing to Say"—Declines to Read Taft's Letter.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Vice President Sherman, at his home here to-night, was advised of President Taft's letter to Lloyd C. Griscom and the statements by ex-President Roosevelt and Mr. Griscom on the recent election of a Temporary Chairman of the Republican State Convention. He said he did not desire to see copies of them and declined absolutely to make any sort of comment. He simply declared: "I have nothing whatever to say."

Mr. Sherman is not going to New York to-morrow, but will go to Watertown, N. Y., on business, and will not see Col. Roosevelt when he comes here to-morrow to address the Grangers. He starts West on Friday on a tour of campaign speaking.

BIG GAIN FOR TOLEDO.

Ohio City Now Has Population of 168,497, Against 131,822 In 1900.

The population of Toledo, Ohio, according to the new census, is 168,497, an increase of 36,675, or 27.8 per cent., as compared with 131,822 in 1900.

The population of Wallace, Idaho, which has been devastated by forest fires, was 3,000, as compared with 2,265 in 1900, when census enumerators made their poll of the city for the thirteenth decennial census.

NO ROCKEFELLER WARNING.

Friends Deny That He Advised Against Building In Next Two Years.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 22.—Friends of John D. Rockefeller, who accompanied him on recent drives about the country near his Forest Hills estate, deny that he warned a neighbor to postpone building a new home for two years.

The story was that Mr. Rockefeller had given such advice seriously. His friends say the incident never occurred.

A HEARST PARTY TICKET.

Independence League Gives Notice of Intention to Get Into State Campaign.

ALBANY, Aug. 22.—The Independence League, through its Chairman, John J. Hopper of New York, notified Secretary of State Koenig to-day of its intention to hold primaries and conventions to place in nomination State, judicial, Congressional, and Senatorial tickets, as well as candidates for various county offices. The basis of representation at the State Convention, to be called later, is to be in accordance with the vote cast for Clarence J. Shearn, the league's candidate for Governor in 1908.

MAY BE SHOT IF EXTRADITED.

Russian Letter Carrier Faces Military Execution, His Counsel Says.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—According to his counsel, Thothile Pabluthek, a former letter carrier of Zacharievka, in the Province of Kherson, Russia, may be shot if he is extradited to that country. Pabluthek, who was arrested at Chelsea last night as a fugitive from justice, was held without bail by United States Commissioner Hayes to-day until a deposition from the Russian Government is received.

The prisoner is charged in Russia with the larceny of 6,380 rubles (about $3,175) in January, 1908, when he disappeared.

Counsel for the defense told Commissioner Hayes that the postal telegraphic service in Russia is a branch of the militia system of Russia, and that in the event of a court-martial finding Pabluthek guilty, he would undoubtedly be shot.

GERM-PROOF BILLS OUT.

Spokane Bank Circulates $50,000 Worth Signed with Carbolic Ink.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—To the old National Bank of Spokane, Wash., belongs the distinction of circulating the first antiseptic, germ-proof National banknotes. The United States Treasury is still experimenting with devices intended to launder dirty banknotes into bright, crisp ones, but the Spokane bank has the first sanitary money on record.

Fifty thousand dollars in bills just put out by the bank were signed with an ink which consisted largely of carbolic acid. The result is the bills are saturated with an agency which means death to the most vigorous germ.

HOKE SMITH FIGHTS HARD.

His Attempt to Get Nomination for Governor Arouses Bitter Feeling.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 22.—The Democrats of Georgia to-morrow will nominate a Governor to succeed Joseph M. Brown. The nominee will be either the present Governor or ex-Gov. Hoke Smith—the third candidate, Edward H. Walker, being unquestionably eliminated by reason of the close drawn factional lines.

With two rival torchlight processions that taxed the police force of the city the campaign in Atlanta saw a spectacular finish. To prevent a clash between the two armies of Smith and Brown marchers, each body was pledged to obey the orders of the mounted police at the head of either column, and as a further precaution the Smith men were compelled, by order of the Mayor, to go for blocks out of their way in order to prevent the two bodies coming together in front of the Governor's mansion, where Gov. Brown was addressing his followers.

The managers of the campaigns of Gov. Brown and ex-Gov. Smith to-night gave out statements, both of which breathed confidence of victory.

In the contest for the other State offices very little interest has been manifested. Heated fights are on, however, in several of the Congressional districts and in two of these, Congressman Hardwick and Congresman Livingston faced bitter contests.

The polls in the cities will close at 7 o'clock and in the country precints earlier. The results should be known by 10 o'clock to-morrow night.

TAFT DENIES HE AIDED SHERMAN

Favored Roosevelt for Temporary Chairman, He Says in Reply to Griscom's Message.

HIS TELEGRAM SUPPRESSED

Advised the Vice President to Consult the Colonel, but He Was Ignored.

THE OLD GUARD ALARMED

Griscom Threatens to Make Roosevelt Chairman in Spite of Their Alleged Double-Dealing.

President William H. Taft has broken his long silence concerning the part he has taken in the present muddle of Republican politics in this State.

In a long letter to Lloyd C. Griscom, President of the Republican State Committee, written last Saturday at Beverly and made public last night by Mr. Griscom, the President emphatically denies that he aided or abetted in any way in the turning down of Col. Theodore Roosevelt as Temporary Chairman of the Republican State Committee by the members of the New York State Republican machine on Tuesday, Aug. 16, or that he even knew that Vice President James S. Sherman was to be selected for the place.

The President goes further and makes public a copy of the telegram which he sent to Mr. Sherman before the meeting of the committee and in which he, the President, advised the Vice President before taking any action first to see William L. Ward and Timothy Woodruff and then all three have a full conference with Mr. Roosevelt. This is the telegram which M. K. Hart, ex-Assemblyman from Oneida County, at Utica on Saturday charged Mr. Sherman with deliberately suppressing.

Mr. Sherman did not carry out the wishes of the President. Neither he nor Mr. Ward nor Mr. Woodruff went near Col. Roosevelt until after the committee meeting, nor did they indicate to him in any way that Mr. Sherman's name was to be considered by the committee and not his own.

The President further states that on the day before the committee meeting Mr. Sherman telephoned him from New York that a movement was on foot to oppose Col. Roosevelt for temporary Chairman, but that the only other name mentioned for the place was that of Elihu Root.

Mr. Griscom in a statement issued last night charged that the President's advice had been ignored and his attitude misrepresented "in order that those who misrepresented him might appear as the defenders of his Administration." He prophesied that the action of the State Committee would be reversed and that Col. Roosevelt, if his engagements will permit him to accept, will act as temporary Chairman of the convention.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt at Oyster Bay last night, after reading the letter from President Taft, expressed himself as being pleased with it. He said that before the meeting of the State Committee he had expressed his desire to meet the various State leaders, but after the meeting he did not see any particular object in conferring with them.

"I had never desired the Chairmanship," said the Colonel, "and consented to have my name considered on the condition only that, in platform and candidate alike, the party should endeavor to achieve success in the only way worth trying."

The Colonel added that he would be at the office of The Outlook early this morning, before starting on the Western trip, and make a more detailed statement.

It was the opinion of Republican leaders in the city last night that it was now up to Vice President Sherman either to vindicate himself or resign from the Temporary Chairmanship.

What the President Says.

This is President Taft's letter:

"The White House,
"Washington.

"Beverly, Mass., Aug. 20, 1910.

"My dear Mr. Griscom: As you know from your telephone conversations with my office, I have steadily refused to admit the propriety or necessity of the President's replying to newspaper statements which are not based on any act or authorized word of his and have no sponsor. I am entirely willing, however, to reply categorically to your telegram of Aug. 19, which has just arrived and which is as follows:

I am informed and believe that several members of the New York Republican State Committee who voted for Vice President Sherman over ex-President Roosevelt as nominee for temporary Chairman of the State Convention were influenced by statements that the Vice President's name was presented to defeat Col. Roosevelt in accordance with your wish. A member of the State Committee declared to me before the meeting that Mr. Sherman's candidacy had been arranged with you by telephone the previous day. Efforts have been made to create an impression that you favor a particular candidate for election as State Chairman. I want you to know that the injection of the name of a high member of your Administration into a factional conflict has produced a most complicated situation, and the absence of any authoritative information as to your attitude is seriously misleading many Republicans and impairing a movement for progressive party leadership and clean government in this State. I know you desire us to have a fair field, and hope that this may be made clear to the public.

"The suggestion that I have ever expressed a wish to defeat Col. Roosevelt for the temporary Chairmanship of the convention or have ever taken the slightest step to do so is wholly untrue. I never heard Mr. Sherman's name suggested as temporary Chairman of the State Convention until I saw in the newspapers of Aug. 16 that he had been selected at the meeting of the committee.

"When you called at my house Saturday evening, Aug. 13, you told me that Col. Roosevelt intended to go to the convention as a delegate, and you suggested incidentally his being made temporary Chairman—a suggestion in which I acquiesced. It did not occur to me that any one would oppose it. This was the first time the subject of the temporary Chairmanship was mentioned to me by any one. You did not ask me to take any action whatever with respect to it.

The Suppressed Telegram.

"After a full discussion of the New York State situation, I drafted in your presence the following telegram and sent it to Mr. Sherman.

The Hon. James S. Sherman, Vice President, Utica, N. Y.:

Please say to Ward and Woodruff that I have had a long conference with Griscom. He confirms my judgment already expressed to you that the whole situation in New York may be saved without humiliation to any one and with victory for the party by a full conference with Mr. Roosevelt and reasonable concessions with reference to platform and candidates.

The thing of all others that ought to be avoided is a controversy in the convention. I am told by Mr. Griscom that such a conference with Mr. Roosevelt might conveniently be had and would be welcomed by him before the State Committee meets on Tuesday. Hope you will be able to report satisfactory solution when you come on Wednesday. WILLIAM H. TAFT.

"On the afternoon of Monday, Aug. 15, Mr. Sherman telephoned me from New York, and for the first time apprised me of the fact that there was a proposal to oppose Col. Roosevelt for the temporary Chairmanship, and that with Mr. Root's name. No other name than Mr. Root's was mentioned. I protested against the idea of a contest on such a matter, peremptorily declined to be drawn into a fight against Col. Roosevelt, and again renewed my urgent advice that there be prompt and full personal conference with Col. Roosevelt before the committee meeting with a view to securing harmony and victory for the party.

"Mr. Sherman called upon me here on the 17th inst. to meet an engagement of a week's standing made with him and Mr. Loudenslager to discuss the Congressional campaign text book. Mr. Loudenslager was prevented from coming by illness. During the conference with Mr. Sherman I told him that I deplored the result of the meeting of the New York State Committee, because, unless the break were repaired, it meant division between New York Republicans and probable defeat.

Longworth as Peacemaker.

"Upon leaving me Mr. Sherman agreed to go into a conference with Col. Roosevelt, provided he were invited to do so, with a view to adjusting the situation, if possible, even at that late date. Nicholas Longworth was present and said he would send a telegram to bring about a conference. What the result has been I do not know.

"Finally, in your telegram received this morning, you state that efforts have been made to create the impression that I favor a particular candidate for election as State Chairman. This is absolutely untrue. I have expressed no opinion on the subject since an effort was made last Winter by the New York Congressional delegation to secure Mr. Woodruff's retirement, which failed.

"I am very sorry, indeed, to observe columns of unfounded assertions in the newspapers concerning my attitude in respect to the New York situation. You know, however, as well as other New York leaders, that whenever my advice or assistance in reaching a satisfactory adjustment of the difficulties arising has been sought, I have urged the necessity for the fullest conference with Col. Roosevelt by the members of the organization, and, with due deference to honest difference of opinion, have expressed the view which I still entertain, that the solution of the direct primary issue can be found in provisions similar to those of the Cobb bill as amended in accord with the memorial signed by Mr. Seth Low, Mr. Joseph Choate, and other prominent Republicans of New York City. Sincerely yours, WILLIAM H. TAFT.

"Hon Lloyd C. Griscom, President Republican County Committee.
"No. 1 Madison Avenue, New York."

Griscom's Own Statement.

Mr. Griscom went to Fairview, Conn., last Friday night. He returned to New York yesterday morning. It was in his absence that he communicated with President Taft. The President, it is said, did not know of the many rumors in this city and Oyster Bay regarding the part he had played in the committee proceedings and was completely surprised to learn that his attitude had been deliberately misrepresented and that Col. Roosevelt was thoroughly angry. It was this matter of the Colonel's lacerated feelings, it is said, which prompted the President, as much as anything, to make a full explanation.

Mr. Griscom seemed to be very much pleased as he handed out the President's letter. This is his statement:

"The methods used to accomplish the defeat of Mr. Roosevelt when his name was before the State Committee are now clear to the public and may be judged by the public.

"Those personally acquainted with Mr. Taft's views were, of course, never in doubt that his advice had been ignored and that his attitude was misrepresented in order that those who misrepresented him might appear as the defenders of his Administration.

"I have not the slightest doubt that the action of the State Committee will be reversed and that Mr. Roosevelt, if his engagements will permit him to accept, will act as temporary Chairman of the convention, making the key-note speech. As President of the New York Republican County Committee I shall actively cooperate with Republicans throughout the State, who believe in the interests of the party that this result be brought about.

"Mr. Taft's reply to my telegram discloses that the reports, industriously circulated of a supposed conflict between the President and the ex-President on New York State matters, are baseless.

"The way is clear now for the Republican Party in this State to take steps which will warrant and secure success at the polls in November. It is evident that some of the so-called Old Guard are not seeking Republican success at the coming election; they wish to perpetuate their control of the Republican organization at any cost to the party.

Attacks the Old Guard.

"The defeat which their plans invited they very willingly would have unloaded upon the shoulders of President Taft by making it appear that he failed to indorse the policies of Gov. Hughes and Mr. Roosevelt in this State.

"The alliance of some of the Old Guard leaders with Tammany Hall in the last two Legislatures was a disgrace and should be repudiated by the party.

"Substantially, all the Republican primaries are still to be held throughout the State. There can be no misunderstanding of the position taken by President Taft, ex-President Roosevelt, and Gov. Hughes for progressive leadership in the party and clean government. Opposed are Messrs. Barnes, Woodruff, Aldridge, Ward, and their associates. The voters in the primaries will have an opportunity of making their choice."

The fact that President Taft had virtually repudiated the selection of Vice President Sherman as Temporary Chairman of the State Convention spread with great rapidity in political quarters last night. It created the greatest alarm among the members of the Old Guard in the city and their friends; Mr. Griscom's friends, on the other hand, were jubilant. The President's letter was regarded among the latter as a greater victory for the County Chairman than even the selection of Mr. Roosevelt at the committee meeting could have been.

"The Old Guard kicked Griscom out of the committee, but he is far from being down and out. I guess Messrs. Barnes, Woodruff, and the others will do some tall thinking before they kick him again," was the way one of the County Chairman's friends put it.

The President's letter clears up a great deal that was left unexplained after Mr. Roosevelt had been turned down and Mr. Sherman selected. For one thing, Mr. Sherman's friends denied that he was in New York on the Monday before the committee met. It was charged that the Vice President had secretly hurried to New York and until long after midnight Monday night was in conference with Mr. Barnes, Mr. Ward, and Mr. Woodruff at the Manhattan Hotel. While there, it was said, he worked industriously trying to get delegates who would vote in his favor.

Root's Name Not Pressed.

It was from the Manhattan Hotel that President Taft states that Mr. Sherman called him up and imparted the information that the name of Elihu Root was being considered in place of Mr. Roosevelt's. There was no mention of Mr. Root for the place at the meeting next day. Neither was Mr. Root's name mentioned to Mr. Griscom.

The Vice President must have moved very lively on Tuesday morning. Tuesday afternoon he was in Utica and gave out a statement saying that he would accept the place to which he had been elected. Next day, Wednesday, he was in Beverly conferring with President Taft. At this conference the President states he advised Mr. Sherman to meet Mr. Roosevelt, and the Vice President agreed to do so, "provided he was invited." The invitation did not come, however. Mr. Roosevelt was very angry at the way things had turned out, and it was suggested last night that Mr. Sherman did not even ask to see the Colonel, as he had no desire to face the former President's wrath.

It was the general opinion last night among Republican politicians that President Taft's explanation would go a long way toward patching up the breech which has been rapidly widening between the President and the Colonel, in so far as New York State is concerned. It is known that Mr. Roosevelt does not agree with many of the Taft National policies, however, and the prospect of a permanent break between the two men on other than State questions remains about where it was a few days ago.

Mr. Griscom said last night that he would meet Mr. Roosevelt this morning when the Colonel passes through the city on his way to Utica and the West. He said he expected to go to Beverly for a conference with President Taft in the immediate future.

REAL CLASH WITH SHERMAN.

Taft's Relations with Vice President to be Merely Formal, Beverly Thinks.

Special to The New York Times

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 22.—President Taft's clash with Vice President Sherman over the selection of a Temporary Chairman of the Saratoga Convention is commented upon at Beverly as without a parallel in the history of the relations between the two highest Government officials.

When Vice President Sherman emerged from his conference with the President last Wednesday he talked with the correspondents who awaited him near the big elm close to the President's house. He took pains to say that he had no idea of resigning as Temporary Chairman to promote harmony, and added with a smile: "I intend to serve in the interest of harmony."

These statements were made within a few minutes after he had left the President's cottage, when, according to the President's letter to Chairman Griscom, the Vice President was urged in the presence of Representative Longworth to return to New York, seek a conference with Col. Roosevelt and if possible arrange for some adjustment of the situation. The President had also stated his advocacy of a progressive platform for the New York Republicans, but Mr. Sherman in an interview with the correspondents announced that the New York platform would be Republican without any qualifying adjectives.

No inkling of the President's attitude in the matter was allowed to reach the public from Veverly. The first news of his letter came to the Summer capital through the release of his letter by Chairman Griscom. He has said two or three times in recent days to questioners that his interest in the New York primaries was confined to persuading the factions to go into State Convention in a spirit of readiness to compromise their differences.

Vice President Sherman has been among the President's most trusted confidants both on political and legislative matters all during the Administration. He was called into most of the important conferences at the White House, and time and time again was delegated to compose differences between the Republican factions.

The President would give out no word about his future attitude toward the Vice President, but it is taken for granted that their relations hereafter are likely to be of the most formal character.

The incident gives a new turn from the Beverly standpoint to the President's attitude toward Col. Roosevelt and the insurgents and as to the prospects of Republican harmony in the campaign. Its exact significance depends upon developments which cannot yet be forecast. The anonymous dispatches from Oyster Bay about Roosevelt's wrath and intimations that he blamed President Taft came after President Griscom had gone from Beverly bearing very important statements as to what the President had said and about the instructions he had given regarding the nomination of Col. Roosevelt for the Temporary Chairmanship.

President Taft had many visitors to-day, among whom was Congressman W. W. Cocks. Col. Roosevelt is one of Mr. Cocks's constituents, and the latter sat in certain of the conferences at Sagamore Hill last week. He is a close friend of Col. Roosevelt, and when he was first seen at the Executive offices many believed he had come with some olive branch message.

This Mr. Cocks denied.

"There is no row," said he. "You can depend upon my word that there is peace."

He sat on the rail of the rear porch and promptly launched into a description of the hot time he and the Colonel had last week storing away two loads of hay in the top of the Colonel's barn. He disclaimed all idea that he came bearing any message. Mr. Cocks went on to Ipswich, where he planned to stop overnight with a kinsman.

After the conference President Taft said that his talk with Mr. Cocks had been most satisfactory. He rather significantly called attention to the fact that Mr. Cocks, being a Quaker, was essentially a man of peace.

As to recent stories from Oyster Bay, which the President resented as apparently untrue, Congressman Cocks declared to-day:

"Nothing was said or done by any one present at these conferences to justify the statements that were made in the press at the time. There certainly was no intimation from Col. Roosevelt or any one else of a break in the relations between the Colonel and the President.

"Neither was there the slightest foundation for any reference to 1912 and what Mr. Roosevelt might do at that time.

"I want to say further," Mr. Cocks continued, "that when Col. Roosevelt was about to leave the White House he called a number of us up there and told us he wanted us to work as hard as we could to make President Taft's Administration a success, and wanted us to stick to Mr. Taft no matter what happened. Not by word or suggestion has he at any time changed from this attitude."

Mr. Cocks deeply resented a newspaper insinuation that the friends of Roosevelt could not be the friends of Taft, and vice versa. He declared there were many people who would like to see trouble between Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft, but he did not think their "selfish wish would be gratified." Mr. Cocks said further that the fight in New York State was not one of the "regulars" and insurgents, according to the common conception of the terms. It was a fight, he declared, between the advocates of clean Government on the one side and the "old gang rule" and machine politics on the other. He said he never had a doubt of the President's attitude in such a struggle.

It was intimated here to-day that an effort to foment trouble between Col. Roosevelt and Gov. Hughes had also been made, but that it had been thwarted, as was the attempt to arrange the President and the only living ex-President.

As to stories that a split might come between Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt on the subject of Secretary Ballinger, Mr. Cocks declared that while he did not think Mr. Roosevelt was in sympathy with some of Mr. Ballinger's policies, he also did not believe that Mr. Roosevelt thought any wrongdoing had been proved against the Secretary of the Interior.

ROOSEVELT PLEASED.

But He Will Not Compromise on the State Fight.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Aug. 22.—Col. Roosevelt, after reading with attention the full text of President Taft's letter, issued this statement:

"I am very glad to see President Taft's statement and am pleased with it.

"Before the meeting of the State Committee I had repeatedly expressed to various leaders not merely my willingness but my desire to see them. Since the meeting I have not thought that there was any particular object in meeting them, as, owing to their action, the situation had become such as to admit of no compromise, and I had nothing to add to what I had already said. I may add that I have not changed my mind now.

"My position is perfectly definite, and I have nothing to change in it. I had never desired the Chairmanship, and consented to have my name considered on condition only that in platform and candidate alike the party should endeavor to achieve success in the only way worth trying—that is, by deserving, by making it evident that the Republican Party of the State of New York intends in good faith to save the interests of all the people of the State.

"I cannot speak definitely at the moment of my whole plans, because I do not know how far the situation will be changed by the President's letter, and so I can say nothing more definite tonight."

ROOSEVELT AT SARATOGA.

Will Have His Say in the Convention as a Delegate, Declares Dwight.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Congressman John W. Dwight, whip of the Republican Party in the House of Representatives, thinks that Theodore Roosevelt will have something to say at the Republican Convention at Saratoga as a delegate on the floor. Mr. Dwight, who was proxy for Col. George B. Dunn at the meeting of the State Committee, voted for Roosevelt for temporary Chairman. Since that time he has had long conferences with the Colonel, and is believed to be in sympathy with his plans for a progressive platform.

Congressman Dwight has boomed Jacob Gould Schurman, President of Cornell University, for Governor, and it is said in Republican circles here that the Western New York delegates will be for Dr. Schurman. Mr. Dwight said:

"Regardless of the fact that he was not chosen temporary Chairman Theodore Roosevelt will have a voice in the convention as a delegate. I do not think that Col. Roosevelt would now accept the Chairmanship, even if the delegates stampeded for him. He does not care whether he is Chairman or occupying a seat in the rear so long as he has a voice in the convention. That he will be a delegate is certain, and the chances are that he will hold a stronger position as a free lance delegate on the floor than he would if he occupied a seat on the platform."

rounded by fires. Wilburus, just over the mountain from Gould, is also threatened, and the inhabitants are leaving.

The town of Burke is reported in flames and certain of destruction. The fire rangers in that territory are exhausted. The 300 residents of the town are in flight toward Wallace. The negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth Regiment, who have done heroic service and saved many lives and much property in the vicinity of Wallace, have been engaged in continuous battle with the flames from 4 o'clock Sunday morning until to-day.

Thirty men out of a crew of forty-seven fire fighters in charge of Forest Ranger Lee Hollingshead are missing and are believed to have perished Saturday night, when their camp, on Big Creek, a tributary of the St. Joe River, sixteen miles from Avery, Idaho, was swept by flames. News of the loss of the men was brought to Spokane to-day by W. D. McLellan, a newspaper photographer. McLellan was one of the relief party which made the trip to Big Creek on Sunday to rescue survivors. The heat was so intense that the party was unable to approach the spot where the camp had stood.

According to the seventeen survivors who reached Avery, the fire came on them while they were sleeping and they were surrounded by flames. The men scattered and ran for safety. Little hope is entertained by the seventeen that their companions survived.

Forest Ranger Pulaski reports to Supervisor Weill that six of his men are dead, five having been smothered in the War Eagle Tunnel, where the crew took refuge.

Ranger Pulaski and forty-one men were forced to leave Big Creek and attempted to cover the ten miles to Wallace. Three miles from town they were forced by a wall of fire to crawl into mine tunnels near by and remain ten hours. Two men broke through the fire and staggered into Wallace. They reached there at 4 o'clock yesterday morning and gave the alarm, and a party of rescuers with a physician hastened to the War Eagle Mine, where the men were. One of the forty-one was found burned to a crisp on the trail. Five of those in the tunnel were suffocated and dead, and a dozen others were resuscitated only after an hour's work.

Twenty-five Trapped by Fire.

Ranger Bell reports 12 dead, 3 permanently blinded, and 13 with broken legs.

Bell had 25 men under him on Pine Creek. All were caught. Three were killed, three others were blinded for life, and five had their legs broken by falling trees. Three more men met death yesterday afternoon. They and twenty others were trapped in a fire on Boulder Creek, near Mullan. Four of the twenty managed to walk to the train to come here. Another man was killed on Placer Creek, a mile from Wallace. He and a companion, penned in by flames, took refuge in the creek and kept each other wet by throwing water with their hands. While thus engaged a falling tree struck one of them on the head and killed him instantly. His companion was able to escape to Wallace, but his clothing was burned off. He was stopped at the city limits by a policeman, who obtained clothing for the man before he would permit him to enter the city for treatment.

Harry Chamberlain was engaged in burying two trunks in the yard of his home in East Wallace when the flames swept around the corner of the house and burned him from head to foot.

The fire situation at Newport, Wash., remained unchanged at last reports, with fires closer to the town, but wind not so bad. Five deaths are known to have occurred there and at least forty settlers lost all buildings, crops, timber holdings, and household goods.

Mrs. Ernest Reinhardt, whose home was six miles north of Newport, is dead. Her husband and two sons escaped, but were severely burned. Mrs. Reinhardt broke away from her rescuers after they had borne her from her burning home and rushed back into the flames and her body was cremated.

George R. Campbell, three miles north of Penryth, was found dead in cabbage patch suffocated.

Great Northern conductor Vincent Brown, Jr., four miles north of Newport, is missing.

Census Enumerator William Zeigler of Kalispell Valley, in driving from Newport to his home, was overtaken by fire near Wolfred and is dead.

Several persons have been rendered temporarily insane.

The fire covered a territory from Diamond and Sachem Lakes to the Pen d'Oreille River, six miles wide.

Soldiers of the Twenty-fifth United States Infantry, colored, who are patrolling Wallace, Idaho, under the direction of Mayor Hansen, have been ordered to shoot vandals, whose depredations have become serious. Chicago, Milwaukee, and Puget Sound refugee trains through the burned region are furnished with guards of negro soldiers. The discipline, valor, and general efficiency of the negro troops are eliciting the highest praise from residents of the burned area.

A west-bound train of the Northern Pacific reached Spokane to-day after an exciting run through the flames. Every car was scorched.

Stalled Train Saved Town.

A correspondent gives the following account of the journey of a Northern Pacific special relief train:

"All the way from Mullan to St. Regis the Northern Pacific ran through two walls of burning timbers. The relief train got as far as Borax and was compelled to turn back on account of burning bridges.

"Getting back to Saltese, it was found that the bridges east had been burned. It was impossible to move either way. The train was compelled to stay at Saltese, and that fact saved the town, which soon began to burn. There were 150 men on the train. Bucket brigades were formed and men were set at work with shovels. The train was just half an hour ahead of the fire, and only six small houses on the west end of the town were burned."

At the Bullion mine eight men were burned to death, and two were probably fatally burned.

J. M. Boyd, formerly Northern Pacific agent at Wallace, met death in an effort to save his parrot. His son, Fire Captain Boyd, had forced the members of the family to flee from their home on the hillside when the flames drew near. The father went back to get the parrot and was not missed for fifteen minutes. When a search was made he was found lying face downward in the road, 100 yards from the house. He had been killed by the heat and smoke, but was not burned. The parrot was dead in its cage beside him. In the ruins of one house, two skulls, presumably of men, were found. Six men are known to have died in an attempt to reach Wallace from Big Creek, St. Joe County. Some assert that six more are lost. The names of only three of the lost are known. They are William Learmouth, Joseph Fern, and Harry Hamson, the latter of Racine, Wis. The other two were hired in Spokane through an agency.

In the hills near Sand Point, Idaho, Forest Ranger Van Dycke and a crew of sixty-five enlisted in Spokane are reported surrounded by flames. A woman and her daughter perished at Cabinet, Idaho.

Diverting Creek to Save Town.

All along the Great Northern and Northern Pacific tracks between Spokane and Helena numberless fires are known to be raging fiercely, but definite reports cannot be secured as the telegraph and telephone wires are down. Before communication with Libby, Mon., ended, it was reported that every male resident of the town was working with 200 paid fire fighters to divert Flower Creek to the south side of the village, as a protection against the flames driving up from that direction.

Towns and stations along the line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound are deserted. Two engines with their crews have sought refuge in the St. Paul Pass Tunnel, the great bore through the Bitter Root range, that marks the boundary of Montana and Idaho. The men are perfectly safe in that tunnel, which is about a mile long. Some additional equipment was also run into the tunnel. A number of bridges west of St. Regis have been destroyed.

In the Clearwater forest reserve in the hills east of Lewiston, Idaho, new fires create no excitement as the settlers have fled from the claims throughout the district and Forest Supervisor Fenn has refused to send any more fire fighters in unless he can get back trains to aid in getting supplies to them. A train of twenty-five horses was yesterday afternoon turned back in an attempt to reach a force of sixty-five men near Peck, which is known to have but two days' rations.

Five fires are burning on the shores of Coeur d'Alene Lake. One was threatening the village of Sunny Side, three miles from the town of Coeur d'Alene. Many Summer homes on the beach have been destroyed.

A serious fire is reported from the high woods to the east of Great Falls, but the region is remote and without direct communication.

Another fire is reported at Logging Creek, in the Little Belt Mountains, to the south.

At Fort Assiniboine a shower of ashes descended and covered the ground to the depth of half an inch. Assiniboine is 200 miles from the nearest forest fire.

Refugees from burned districts poured into Spokane last night. Seven hundred from Wallace crossed Lake Coeur d'Alene by boat and came to Spokane by electric line.

FIRE FIGHTERS WORN OUT.

Many Towns in Montana and Western Idaho Abandoned.

MISSOULA, Mon., Aug. 22.—From many points of Western Montana and Idaho to-day hundreds of weary men who for days have battled with the flames in the forests have been staggering to safety with bloodshot eyes and aching limbs, immersing themselves in streams or burying their faces in mud for protection from the intense heat. The only improvement in the situation is at Wallace, where the remnant of the town that is left seems to be safe from fire and at Mullan, where the town threatened all day yesterday is believed to be safe.

The flames have the upper hand of the situation in a score of places. Rain is the only salvation of hundreds of miles of timber and of many camps and small towns. Men have fought the flames to the limit of human endurance and are withdrawing from the contest in many places. Especially is the situation serious in the densely timbered country along the lines of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St Paul's wester nextension; here the railway has suffered tremendous loss from fire in the very region where snowslides wrought havoc all last Winter.

Bridges have been burned and stations wiped off the map. Wherever possible the railway company has brought the men to safety in special trains. Two trains on the St. Paul brought about 500 people to Missoula. Another on the Northern Pacific Coeur d'Alene branch brought 250 women and children, taken from the burned town of St. Regis.

The most disastrous fires in this district to-day are those in Sanders County, between Thompson and the Idaho line. These fires extend along an unbroken line for more than fifty miles, and are in dense timber. There are several towns in this district, built in the very midst of the timber.

Many Towns Abandoned.

St. Regis, Old Town, has been abandoned by the women, children, and disabled men, only a force of able-bodied fire fighters being retained under Supervisor Koch to make a stand against the flames, which are steadily advancing. Since daylight the wind has risen, and little hope is felt of saving the place. The breeze has veered slightly and is moving toward the city from the east, and it is probable the new town will fall first.

The towns of Rivulet, Superior, and Iron Mountain have been abandoned. The Iron Mountain Tunnel Company's mining property, located near Iron Mountain, caught fire to-day and was destroyed. Manager Pavey of the Bell Telephone Company was advised this afternoon that practically all persons have been taken from Iron Mountain. The fire which was bearing down upon that town had made eight miles of progress since last night and was traveling toward the village. A man had been dispatched on horseback to cover the territory between Iron Mountain and Quartz, to warn all ranchers to flee. The telephone line is down to the Kansas City Commercial Club's mines on Cedar Creek, and seven or eight men are known to be at the property. These men refused to leave when warned last night, and are believed to be in imminent danger.

The forestry officials report the Camas country east of Potomac as being the zone of a fire which is devastating forests and ranches.

A large force of men was started out by the big Blackfoot Milling Company last night for Potomac, and this morning 100 more left this city for Camas country.

Overando, further east, is surrounded by flames, which are only twelve miles from the town on either side. The village, however, is said to be adequately protected and in no danger.

In the Clinton district of the Missoula forest ten men are unaccounted for. A relief expedition was started out of Clinton to seek for the men.

In the Bitter Root Valley from Woodside to Darby, a distance of twenty miles, on the west side of the Bitter Root River, twenty-five fires broke out yesterday destroying a number of foot hill ranches.

Near Stevenville, the fire on Kootenai Creek is moving toward the railroad property on the west side of the river, but has assumed no alarming proportions.

At Woodside a large portion of the forests on Sweeney Creek was destroyed yesterday and six men were badly injured. These men are now in an improvised hospital at Woodside. A fire is moving down Lost Horse Cañon toward the City of Hamilton from the southwest, but is still some distance from the town. At Darby there is another big fire reported on Lick Creek, covering the entire summit of the range.

Fighting Twenty Miles of Fire.

Ranger Beatty took a large force of men to Miller Creek, about foruteen miles south of Missoula. This fire has a twenty-mile front and is sweeping into the east side of the Bitter Root Valley. This force will be used to save the towns and not to fight fires on the forest reserves, the latter policy having been abandoned where villages are threatened.

The railroads can handle 2,000 people with the equipment on the lines between here and the fire-swept district. Refugees are still pouring into this city, and many children are reported as separated from their parents.

When, at 9:30 yesterday morning, the first train from the Wallace district pulled into Missoula with its pitiful freight, a thousand or more of the people of Missoula, including many women and the leading business men of the city, were at the station to receive and minister to the refugees. Ambulances, automobiles, and public conveyances were pressed into service. Among the first to get off one of the box cars was a nurse, wearing her uniform and cap and carrying a tiny ten-day-old baby, at her heels was the mother. Following this trio came another nurse with a nine-day-old child, and another frightened mother. From the car ahead a desperately ill and fearfully weak man was lifted. By his side hobbled an old, wrinkled-faced pioneer, traveling on crutches. There were a half dozen other feeble ones. Workingmen, covered with grime, accompanied their families. Mrs. Otto Grafenburg, bringing four children, was weeping for her husband, and an eight-year-old son who missed the train. Two of her children were in their night clothes. The father ran back to try to save his home, and was left.

George Bryan came on the second rescue train from the fire district. His rough shirt was stiff with blood, his beard matted with the blood from wounds on his head and face, and from streams that had flowed from his nose and ears in the effort he put forth to bring out of the fire his injured brother, whose charred body he was at last forced to leave in the blazing forest above Mullan, where both had been prospecting. The two fled from the flames and the brother fell, breaking his leg. Then began the terrible struggle to save him. Through smoke and fire Bryan stumbled on, but the fire gained on him, and at length overcome him. Finally the injured brother became unconscious, and the other, hardly able to stagger, turned and fled.

RUSHING MORE FIRE FIGHTERS.

Army and Forestry Service Doing Their Best, but Force Is Inadequate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Continued reports of the terrible results of the forest fires in the Northwest called for quick action from the authorities here to-day. After a conference between the Chief of Staff, Major Gen. Wood; Adjt. Gen. Ainsworth and Associate Forester Potter, it was announced that the five remaining companies of soldiers available for the threatened area would be rushed to the scene of the fires at once, with pack trains and medical supplies for the injured. According to reports here, twenty-five forest rangers have already been killed by the flames.

The Forestry Service is convinced that the origin of many of the separate fires was incendiary. The difficulty in the present situation is that so many large fires have broken out at once that no adequate force can be found to fight them. The Forestry Service has enough men regularly employed to handle one big fire at a time, but in the present instance the force is utterly insufficient even with the great aid rendered by the regular army.

What the real motive is back of the incendiary efforts remains a mystery, though on the ground twenty scouts have already been detailed in an effort to capture the offenders.

Dr. Potter said to-day that while undoubtedly many of the fires are accidental the occurrence of so many at once points to incendiary causes. Ordinarily, he said, the theory is that people set fire to the woods so as to get employment from the Government in extinguishing the flames, but now the Government is employing all the men it can get, and still the fires are cropping out everywhere. Mr. Potter is inclined to think it is the work of persons interested in discrediting the work of the service in protecting the forests. Already there are about 2,300 rangers employed in fighting the fires, and more than twenty-four companies of regular troops have been rushed to their assistance. Still the fires are altogether beyond control. The most disastrous of these fires are in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Montana. The largest single conflagration is in the Coeur d'Alene National Forest, along the Idaho-Montana line. Here the blazing area includes enormous stretches in Shoshone County, Idaho, and Missoula, Mon. Six companies of troops are fighting the fire there, and 450 rangers are assisting them.

The greatest force of fire fighters, however, is in Flathead County, Montana, where in fires in the Glacier National Park and the Lewis and Clark National Forest 1,000 rangers and five companies of regulars are hard at work.

In Oregon the danger centres around Union, Union County, where two companies and 200 rangers are in charge of the situation, and in Jackson County, where in two detachments 500 rangers and 7 companies of troops are trying to save the population. The two danger centres there are around Butte Falls and Medford. According to Mr. Potter, the forestry men on the ground are doing splendid work, though they are terribly hampered by the number of fires going at once, the exceptionally dry season, and the many cases of obvious incendiarism.

"While we are in much better position now to protect the forests than we would have been a few years ago," said Mr. Potter, "it is like trying to handle a San Francisco or Baltimore fire with a hand bucket crew. In the Clearwater Forest, in Northern Idaho, where bad fires are burning now, the Supervisor has a total force of thirty-seven rangers and guards to protect 2,500,000 acres of forest. The country is so rough and wild and there are so few trails that it may take a week to get to the fire, and all supplies must be got to the fire fighters by pack trains or horses.

"There are not enough forest rangers and guards to protect the forest adequately, nor good enough means of communication. The Forestry Service is building roads, trails, and telephone lines as fast as it can with the money available, and has done surprisingly well, considering the means at its command, in putting out fires before they become formidable. The co-operation of railroad companies and private timber land owners in the Northwest, who have organized fire protection for their own holdings, has also been a great help.

"I believe the result of the present fires will be to make clearer the need for more protection. The destruction to private property will doubtless prove to have been appalling in the aggregate, to say nothing of the loss of life. Such losses can only be prevented by a sufficiently vigorous public opinion to prevent the careless starting of fires and by organized, efficient protection of all forest property, private, State, and National."

OREGON FIRES INCENDIARY.

Forester Cecil Says He Has Positive Evidence—Is Seeking Culprits.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Positive evidence that many of the forest fires in Oregon are of incendiary origin has been discovered by Government agents, according to a telegram received at the offices of the Forest Service here to-day from Associate District Forester Cecil of Portland.

Mr. Cecil says in his dispatch that there is no doubt that the fires in the Crater National Forest and at Medford resulted from incendiarism and that new fires are being set constantly. He reports that he has started twenty-five men on scout duty in an effort to catch the culprits.

Fires in the Crater National Forest in Southern Oregon and at Medford, Ore., are proving more serious every hour. There are 300 men there now under the forest service, the War Department already having 100 soldiers detailed in this district, and has ordered 250 more from American Lake. Assistant District Forester Buck has gone from Portland to take personal charge of the situation. He says that the troops will be used to protect life and property, and it will be hard to extinguish the fires without the aid of rain. Their efforts will be to protect the best timber. He confirms the report that every effort will be made to keep the fires on the eastern slope.

WORSE AT CRATER LAKE.

Fire Fighters Fall Asleep with Exhaustion on Fire Lines.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 22.—The forest fire situation in the Crater Lake National Forest Reserve grows steadily worse. Numbers of the present inadequate force of fire fighters are nearly exhausted, many falling asleep on the fire lines and only saved by friends from death in the flames.

Two hundred and fifty soldiers from Cosgrove, Wash., under command of Major Martin, arrived at Medford to-day and it is hoped that the situation can now be handled.

FIRES IN CALIFORNIA.

Raging in Hill Divide Forests—Fire Fighters' Efforts Vain.

AUBURN, Cal., Aug. 22.—Forest fires are raging in the Forest Hill Divide country in Placer County.

The buildings of the Hidden Treasure and the Whisky Hill Mines have been destroyed. Great damage has been done at other places. Large forces of men are unsuccessfully fighting the flames.

FIRE CLOSE TO TACOMA.

Threatens Workmen's Suburb and One Devoted to Fashion.

TACOMA, Aug. 22.—A brush fire is racing across the southwest limits of Tacoma. It is going 700 feet an hour before a thirty-five-mile wind.

Oakland, a suburb of workingmen's homes, is threatened. Unless the flames are checked Regents Park, a fashionable suburb, will suffer.

TAFT WIRES GOVERNORS.

Asks Them if State Troops Will Be Sent to Burning Districts.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 22.—President Taft has received alarming reports as to the situation in the forest fire districts of the West, and has directed Gen. Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff of the United States Army, to render every assistance in his power. In addition the President to-night sent the following telegrams to Govs. Brady of Idaho, Norris of Montana, and Hay of Washington:

Gen. Wood has sent thirty companies of Federal troops in addition to pack transportation and extra medical officers to the forest fire districts, and I have directed him to do everything in his power to cooperate in saving life and fighting fire. Will you telegraph me what the exact situation is? Do you intend to place State troops in the threatened towns to do police work? The reports which reach me are most serious, and I desire exact information. WILLIAM H. TAFT.

The President to-night received the following response from Gov. Brady of Idaho:

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 22.

To the President, Beverly, Mass.

Your telegram just received. Have been wiring all day for particulars. Understand wires down in Wallace. Associated Press dispatches approximately correct. Business section and portion of residence section Wallace have been saved. Fire reported to be under comparative control until wind changes. Will give you benefit of any information I am able to get. I thank you sincerely for aid you have sent and are sending. JAMES BRADY, Governor.

The entire situation as to Federal aid in the fire districts was put up to the President this afternoon by the War Department and his telegrams to the Governors followed.

TAFT COMPLETES CAMPAIGN LETTER

Asks Country to Give Him a Republican Congress to Carry on Work He Has Begun.

PLAN TO AID THE INDIANS

Commissioner Valentine Tells President of Plan to Keep Attorneys from Collecting Big Fees.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 22.—The last typewritten sheets of his letter for the Republican campaign book were placed before the President late this afternoon. He glanced over them, and then they were folded and placed in an envelope addressed to Representative William B. McKinley, Chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee. Then the President put on his big dust coat and was soon whirling away on an automobile ride.

The President sent the letter away with instructions that the committee might release it to the newspapers whenever Chairman McKinley sees fit. While the text is a matter of conjecture, it is known that the President stands upon the record he has made and appeals for a Republican Congress for the last two years of his Administration, that he may be able to carry forward the work he has undertaken.

To-morrow the President attacks anew his other political task of rounding out his St. Paul speech. If he can complete it by evening, as he now hopes to do, he will sally forth to the Myopia links on Wednesday and enjoy himself at golf.

Robert G. Valentine, Indian Commissioner, called again to-day and laid before the President a detailed plan for taking Indian claims out of the hands of attorneys and private agents and leaving Government officials in charge. This plan is expected to eliminate long delays and also the payment of enormous fees.

George Kirchway and Dwight W. Morrow called to ask the President to attend a fiftieth anniversary which the Columbia Law School celebrates this Autumn. The Rev. Herbert Edwin Lombard and Dr. Harda, respectively Dean and President of the Japanese University of Kyoto, paid their respects. Louis H. Gotch, a Cincinnati lawyer, saw Mr. Taft on a personal errand. A. J. Berres, James L. Gernon, and William H. Johnson, a committee representing the metal trades unions, asked in behalf of employes on the Panama Canal an annual vacation of six weeks.

Charles E. Hatfield, Chairman, and Charles S. Groves, Secretary of the Massachusetts Republican State Committee, came on a visit of courtesy and to report progress in the Bay State campaign. They made a similar visit to the President last year.

The much-advertised visit of Mayor Charles E. Trowt of Beverly was also made to-day. It was once postponed because the Mayor wished to go on a trip to Atlantic City. He was accompanied to-day by the City Treasurer and a few other Beverly officials.

WARNER TO QUIT SENATE.

Aged Missourian Announces That His Health Forbids Him to Seek Re-election

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Senator William Warner of Missouri announced to-night that he would not be a candidate for re-election to the United States Senate. The announcement was made in a formal statement addressed to the "Republicans of Missouri." It follows:

> I announce that I shall not be a candidate for re-election to the Senate of the United States. My health will not permit. The making of this announcement is to me a matter of deep regret, because I feel it will be disappointing to my friends, and more loyal or disinterested friends no man ever had. I make no attempt to convey to them my heartfelt thanks for the consideration shown me in the past, for such an attempt would but reveal the poverty of words at my command.

Senator Warner is in his seventy-first year and for several months has not been in good health. The strain of the tariff session affected him seriously and the heavy work of the session recently ended did not tend to improve his condition. His term expires March 3 next.

REPUBLICAN LEAGUE MEETING

Will Be Held Here on Sept. 30 and Oct. 1—Taft to Attend.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The biennial convention of the National Republican League will be held at Carnegie Hall, New York, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, according to an announcement made here to-day by John Hays Hammond, President of the league. It had been arranged to hold the biennial convention in New York City last June. Congress, however, being in session at that time it was thought advisable to postpone the convention. President Taft has declared he will be present.

Addresses will be made by W. B. McKinley, Chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee; Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, and others. The convention will close with a dinner at which President Taft, Vice President Sherman, and men prominent in the councils of the party will speak.

DAHLMAN A WINNER.

But Gov. Shallenberger Claims Fraud in Some Districts.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 22.—On the face of the returns from the Democratic Statewide primaries, which are nearly complete in unofficial form, Mayor Dahlman has won the Gubernatorial nomination by less than 200 majority over Gov. Shallenberger. The announcement was made last night that should the official returns corroborate these figures Gov. Shallenberger will contest the nomination. He charges fraud in the vote in Omaha, which gave Dahlman nearly 6,000 majority.

In order to secure recounts in twelve of the counties which returned majorities in favor of Dahlman, Gov. Shallenberger has sent to the authorities of such counties the affidavits required by statute that he has reason to believe that there were inaccuracies in the count, and asking that the votes be recounted. There are no charges of fraud, but it is probable that the affidavits are preliminary to a contest.

COMMITTEE DROPS CANNON.

Not to Use Him as Speaker In Congress District Fights.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—It is reported here unofficially to-day that the Republican campaign managers in the coming Congressional elections have decided to drop Speaker Cannon from their list of speakers. Mr. Cannon has already been active in some primary contests, and the overwhelming success of the insurgents in those districts has told the leaders here that in the present temper of the country Mr. Cannon's oratory is not successful.

Of course, candidates may choose speakers, and some of Mr. Cannon's warmest supporters may still invite their old chief to talk to their constituents. It is likely, however, that his speeches will be confined to districts where there is little insurgent sentiment, for Mr. Cannon has shown his determination to show no consideration for the feelings of the men who opposed him, and so far his attacks have drawn his enemies to the polls.

The first step to bring about the recovery of a Lost article is to advertise in the Lost and Found column of The New York Times.—Adv.

LA FOLLETTE NEEDS REST.

Won't Share in Primary Fight Unless His Aid Seems Necessary.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 22.—United States Senator Robert M. La Follette will not personally enter the primary campaign in the contest for renomination unless he has to, according to a story printed this afternoon from Madison, which tells about a conference at the La Follette farm between the Senator and a number of his adherents.

"A physical ailment has prevented me from entering the campaign," Senator La Follette is quoted as saying. "I have just had a long talk with my doctor, and he advises me to stay out of the campaign for the present unless it is absolutely necessary for me to enter it. He tells me that before the primary closes I shall be able to make two or three speeches if I have to do so. But unless I am needed in the primary campaign I prefer to save my strength for the more strenuous fight that we shall have to make after the primary."

At this point there were cries of "Leave the primary to us," and the speaker said that he felt perfectly safe in doing so.

"Progressive leaders from all parts of the country," continued Mr. La Follette, "have told me to rest until I am strong again, and that they will come to Wisconsin and help us in the primary."

Senator La Follette during a little talk with his callers said that he wished to say that "there is only one issue in the campaign in this State, and that issue involves the fate of representative government; no other issue has a place in this State; the fight is over free government; it is a fight of the few, the selfish and powerful, against the many, the people themselves."

HUNTER ACCEPTS NOMINATION

Will Seek Governorship of Connecticut on the Socialist Ticket.

NOROTON, Conn., Aug. 22.—Robert Hunter, author and settlement worker, to-day accepted the nomination for Governor tendered him by the Socialist Party of Connecticut. In his letter he says that many men consider it an honor to be nominated for office by the Democratic or Republican Party, yet to be elected by either party means "little more than an opportunity to give this State another corrupt administration. To men of conscience that opportunity should mean disgrace, not honor."

Setting forth the principles of Socialism Mr. Hunter says:

"We make no secret of our intention to wage war on all those who to-day put burdens upon the weak for the profit of the powerful."

Fitzgerald Wants to be Governor.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—Mayor John F. Fitzgerald announced to-day that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor provided he is assured by the party leaders that he is the strongest available man. He also said that he must receive assurance that he will receive the united support of the party.

AUTOS CRASH, SIX ARE HURT.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Wainwright Suffers Broken Rib in Collision.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 22.—There was a collision Sunday afternoon between two large touring autos which came together head on at Milton Road and Rye Beach Avenue, at Oakland Beach. One of the cars was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Wainwright, while in the other car were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin R. Ingraham of New Rochelle. Both cars were driven by chauffeurs.

Mr. and Mrs. Wainwright were on their way to the American Yacht Club at Milton Point, and their car was going at rapid speed. Mr. and Mrs. Ingraham were hurrying to the Oakland Beach dock, where they intended taking the 4 o'clock boat to Sea Cliff, L. I. The two cars came together with a crash, throwing all the occupants of them out and completely wrecking the cars.

Mrs. Wainwright suffered a broken rib and her arm was dislocated. The others were shaken up and received slight injuries.

LEG BROKEN, SWIMS ASHORE.

Salesman, Struck by Gangplank in Jamaica Bay, Refuses Aid.

While boarding the freighter Cimbria, at the foot of Steeplechase Avenue, Rockaway Beach, last evening, James Mack, a salesman of 549 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, slipped from the gangplank, which fell with him into the water, fracturing his right leg. The current carried him swiftly into Jamaica Bay before those aboard could assist him.

Despite intense pain Mack slowly swam shoreward, until he met a boat sent out from the ship. They offered to cast a line to him, but he refused, saying he would rather swim than suffer the pain of climbing into the boat.

Followed by the rowboat, he reached shore, but was so exhausted that he fainted upon crawling out upon the pier. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

SCHOOL FOR MOOSE ORDER.

They Will Support Establishment at Muncie, Ind., for Their Own Children.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 22.—A normal and industrial school maintained by an international fraternal organization is the latest thing in educational activity. Such a school for both sexes will be conducted at Muncie, Ind., by the Loyal Order of Moose of the World, whose twenty-second annual convention opened at the Maryland Theatre this morning. About 500 delegates are in attendance from all parts of the country.

The convention accepted the offer of the Trustees of the East Indiana Normal School at Muncie, Ind., to hand over to the order the entire plant valued at more than $100,000. The school will be for the children of Moose members, and a course of industrial and business training and normal school study covering a period of six years is planned.

The expense of conducting the school will be met by a yearly assessment of ten cents from each member of the order, and the revenue from a printing establishment in the school.

The officers reported to-day a membership of 81,000 and a reserve fund of $123,000.

To-night a thousand new members were initiated by the Baltimore Lodge, and a "barn dance" was held on the Court House Plaza.

HELD AT BAY WITH HATPIN.

Woman Captures Man Who Insulted Her and He Is Fined.

James Clancy, an engineer employed by the Home Club, 11 East Forty-fifth Street, was arraigned before Magistrate Hermann in the Yorkville Court yesterday charged by Miss Josephine Frederick of 332 West Twenty-second Street, a ticket seller at Fort George, with attacking her.

Miss Frederick said that she had fallen asleep while going home on a Third Avenue car and that Clancy grabbed hold of her, and abused her. She drew a hatpin and he fled from the car and up the stairs of the elevated station at Fifty-ninth Street, where she caught him and held him until Policeman Cunningham arrived.

Clancy admitted that he had been chased by the girl, but denied he had insulted her. Magistrate Hermann fined him $10.

Cooking Day at Household Show.

Yesterday was Cooking School Day at the Household Show at Madison Square Garden, and cooking school pupils took possession of the building. To-day all policemen, firemen, sanitary inspectors, and letter carriers will be admitted free upon showing their shields at the door. Last night, in order to prove that bees make good household pets, the bee enthusiast who has the exhibit of parlor apiaries entered a wire cage containing 30,000 of the insects and came out unstung.

ROOSEVELT IS OFF FOR WEST TO-DAY

Leaves Over New York Central at 10:30 o'Clock for an Extensive Speech-Making Tour.

SHERMAN'S NOTE TOO LATE

Request for Conference Came After Committee Meeting, He Says—Longworth Admits Ohio Is Close.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Aug. 22.—On the eve of his departure for the West, Col. Roosevelt spent a day not the least eventful of those that have crowded upon him since his return to politics. Overshadowing everything else was the full text of President Taft's letter, not received here until this evening, but the Colonel had been given earlier intimation of what he might expect.

Representative Nicholas Longworth, his son-in-law, arrived at Sagamore Hill about noon and spent the afternoon in earnest talk. To all inquiries he replied that his call was merely one upon "a portion of my family," and he insisted that he was not the bearer of any message from the President, but his conversation with his father-in-law was so absorbing that the usual afternoon game of tennis was perforce omitted.

Their interview had barely ended when the telephone bell tinkled and Collector Loeb called from New York to acquaint his old chief with the contents of the President's letter. The Colonel was greatly pleased to hear that "Sherman, Barnes, Woodruff, Aldridge, and Company had been repudiated."

When the full text of the letter arrived the Colonel answered briefly but unhesitatingly all questions upon passages that seemed to need explanation. When asked if Mr. Sherman had carried out his agreement with President Taft to confer with Mr. Roosevelt, or if he had been invited to do so, the Colonel replied that he had received a written request for such a conference, dated before the meeting of the State Committee, but not at hand until after the meeting. He had replied to Mr. Sherman's letter that in view of the action of the committee a later conference seemed unnecessary.

When President Taft's statement that no other name than Senator Root's had been mentioned to him as a possible candidate in opposition was called to the Colonel's attention he was asked if he had ever heard Senator Root's name in that connection before.

"No," he answered with emphasis, and went on with the letter.

Representative Longworth, he said, had endeavored, as he promised the President, to bring about a conference with Mr. Sherman. The Colonel had replied to him, as he had to Mr. Sherman himself, that it was too late.

Reticent as to New York and National politics, Representative Longworth talked freely of the situation in Ohio, his home State.

"It will be a close fight," he admitted thoughtfully.

"Democrats charge the tariff," he continued, "with the increase in the cost of living, although on many of the articles that have appreciated the tariff was actually lower. When we fully discuss these issues I think the Republicans in Ohio will be able to win out on election day."

Col. Roosevelt has concluded all arrangements to leave here to-morrow morning at about 7 o'clock for New York. His trip through Long Island will be by automobile, and Representative Longworth will accompany him. In New York the Colonel will take a 10:30 A. M. train for the West, via the New York Central Railroad. Representative Longworth will remain for a few days in New York.

LED TO A COLD SUPPER.

Beer Salesman Spanks His Wife After She Drags Him Home.

Six oclock in the household of Mrs. Helen Miller, at 408 East Sixty-fourth Street, the two babies tucked quietly into their beds, and the super of dampfnudeln, speck, and sauerkraut, cooked and ready to eat. But Andrew Miller, father of the family, was not forthcoming. Half past six o'clock, and the supper getting cool and pasty on the table, with Andrew still to come. Then Mrs. Miller, remembering that her husband, who is a salesman for a brewery, is often too much addicted to his duty, put on her hat and made a tour of various Third Avenue saloons.

In one of them, at Sixty-third Street and Third Avenue, she found the laggard Andrew, playing pinochle around a beer-stained table. Mrs. Miller marched up to him, swept the cards aside, destroying her husband's eighty kings and hundred aces, and grasping him by the ear. In that posture she led him, with little resistance, out of the saloon, uttering by way of explanation only the one word "Supper!"

But when they got home, they found the babies awake and howling, and the supper cooled and stiffened on the table. At that the docile beer salesman became wroth, and, according to his wife, grabbed her, threw her across his knee, and spanked her.

She managed to gain her freedom and a rolling pin, and fled to the street. There Policeman Morris found her, warding off her husband, who was sputtering angry maledictions against her and the cooled dampfnudeln. Morris arrested Miller and took him to the Night Court. There he admitted cheerfully that he had done all his wife complained of, even to the spanking.

"I'll send you to the workhouse for five days," said Magistrate House.

But at the intercession of Mrs. Miller Magistrate House relented and suspended sentence provided Miller would give his spouse what remained of his weekly wage of $18. This amounted to the weekly wage less the cost of twenty glasses of beer.

Miller surrendered the money and left the courtroom, grumbling something about "cold supper."

Bag They Carried Contained Property Stolen from the Rev. Mr. Lyons's Home

Suspicious of the contents of a suitcase carried by Moses Bagnall, a negro hallboy of 144 West 135d Street, Detectives Fogarty and Wood stopped him and Samuel Shelton, a negro bootblack of 322 West Forty-first Street, at 141st Street and Seventh Avenue, last night, and searched the case. Instead of the clothes, which the negroes said it contained, the detectives found half a dozen knives and forks, a nut cracker, three silver spoons, and two silver communion cups. All were wrapped in a long white Episcopal surplice.

The negroes were taken to Police Headquarters, and on searching Bagnall's room the detectives found two more suitcases. One bore the initials "E. M. L." and contained a silver chain made of religious medallions, a silver pitcher, a revolver, an electric flashlight, and sixty feet of rope.

The police think the silver and one suitcase were stolen from the home of the Right Rev. Bishop E. M. Lines, which was robbed by sneak thieves on Thursday night. Newark detectives will try to identify the property to-day.

What was stolen from the Bishop's home was not known until last night, when a member of the family returned from Maine and made an inventory.

The missing articles are a set of outer vestments of heavy black satin, a black corded silk cassock, two private communion services, one marked "Rev. John Purves," and an oak gavel with a silver band inscribed "Presented to Right Rev. Thomas A. Starkey, D. D., Bishop"; a silver trowel, a couple of overcoats, some linen, and two suitcases.

Gen. Estrada, whose treatment of Americans and whose protection of Americans along the eastern coast, where he has been recognized as the head of the responsible Government, has been the subject of repeated praise. The department will, it is expected, recognize Estrada only after satisfactory assurances of an early election which shall be fair and open to all candidates.

Meanwhile Gen. Estrada will be held responsible for the protection of all American lives and property, and if there is anay doubt as to his ability to insure this the American naval officers on the east and west coasts will be instructed to land forces and dispatch them at once to any threatened point, even to the capital itself.

It is unofficially reported that there is danger of bickering among the insurgent Generals over the question of the Presidency, though these reports are unconfirmed.

REVOLT BEGAN LAST AUTUMN.

Our Warships Played Important Part in Protecting Americans.

The revolution in Nicaragua, which has apparently ended in the complete victory of the revolutionists, began in October, 1909. At first the operations were confined to the Atlantic seaboard between Bluefields on the south and Cape Gracias on the north. Early in the war Cape Gracias became the headquarters of Gen. Estrada, the leader of the revolt, and it was from that point that he directed the operations in the latter part of 1909 which ended in the resignation and finally the flight from the country of the then President, José Santos Zelaya.

This, the first, campaign resulted in the utter rout of the Zelayan forces at Rama on Dec. 23, Gen. Estrada capturing on the night of that day a large part of the army that was supporting Zelaya. Six hundred men, it was estimated at the time, were left dead on the battle field, while the number of Estrada's captives was placed at nearly 2,000. At that time it was announced that Estrada's first move would be an advance on Managua, but in this attempt the revolutionary forces were repulsed, and they were driven back on Bluefields.

On the day that he suffered his crushing defeat at Rama Zelaya's resignation had been accepted by the Nicaraguan Congress, and no sooner was the news of the defeat made public than it became known that Zelaya was preparing to flee the country. Last Christmas Eve, Zelaya, accompanied by a bodyguard and a few faithful friends, arrived at Corinto. In that port at the time was the Mexican gunboat General Guerrero, which was to offer refuge to Zelaya. On Christmas Day came the news that he had boarded the gunboat and was on his way to Mexico. He has remained away from Nicaragua ever since.

After Rama there was a season of inactivity until a few months ago, when the revolutionists again became active and began once more to head for the Pacific Coast and Managua. José Madriz, an ex-Judge of the Central American Court, and the personal candidate of Zelaya, had been elected President of the war-racked republic. Madriz, on accepting the office, pledged himself to uphold the rights of all citizens, to grant free elections, and to establish a policy of equal opportunity to all.

When Madriz assumed the Presidency Secretary of State Knox let it be known that the attitude of the United States was not changed toward Nicaragua and that Madriz, before he was recognized, would have to prove himself capable of directing a responsible government, which would be prepared to make reparation for wrongs which, it was asserted, had been done to American citizens. In other words, the policy of the United States was that diplomatic relations would not be resumed until some government in Nicaragua had "made good."

When Madriz became President Gen. Estrada also sent a communication to Secretary Knox, in which he said that no President selected by Zelaya, or the Congress, which Zelaya controlled, would be accepted by the majority of the people. Peace, he added, could only be obtained by the complete exclusion not only of Zelaya but of all his followers.

The war which now appears to be ended followed. The result became inevitable when Granada fell. This city had long been a stronghold of the Government, and when the news of its fall was confirmed persons familiar with the situation said that the fall of Managua could only be a question of days and perhaps of hours.

Last May there was much fighting in and around Bluefields, and on May 31 Secretary Knox served notice on the Madriz faction that the blockade of Bluefields by the gunboat Venus would not be tolerated by the American Government. The action of the Secretary of State followed the seizure of the American schooner Adelaide and the holding up of another American schooner by the Venus. The Secretary stated at that time in a communication to Commander Gilmer, U. S. N., who was commanding the gunboat Paducah, then at Bluefields, that the attitude of this Government had not changed since Dec. 1, 1909, on which day relations with the Government of Zelaya were broken.

Since the trouble began in Nicaragua several Americans have been in trouble there. The most notable case was that of Leroy Cannon and Leonard Grace, who were shot on Zelaya's orders for the part they had in the revolution. Cannon was a member of Estrada's staff, and both he and Grace were large property owners. Zelaya refused to commute the sentences even after his own General in Chief had advised it. The shooting of these two men did as much as anything else to crystallize American sympathy in favor of the Estradists. William P. Pittman, another American, captured by Madriz troops in fighting at Bluefields, has not been killed. The State Department at Washington demanded that humane treatment be given to him.

After having been kept in close confinement at Bluefields Bluff until July 7 Pittman was removed to Managua and placed in a dirty cell. Several days later the American Consul, Mr. Olivares, ascertained his condition, and after strong representations to the Madriz Government Pittman obtained cleaner quarters and better food. Last month it was reported that Madriz had offered to release Pittman if he would promise to take no further part in the revolution.

The American Navy has played an important part in Nicaraguan affairs in backing up the orders of the State Department and in protecting Americans resident in or who have interests in Nicaragua. The American vessels now in Central American waters are the cruiser Tacoma and the gunboats Marietta, Vicksburg, Yorktown, and Dubuque.

SEW UP THE HEART OF A STABBED MAN

Gouverneur Hospital Surgeons Take Twelve Stitches, and Say the Patient May Live.

SEVENTH SUCH OPERATION

Samuel Harman, a Waiter, Stabbed by a Restaurant Diner Who Found Fault with the Soup.

Samuel Harmon, a 21-year-old waiter, is in the Gouverneur Hospital, and the doctors say he has a good chance to recover although between 11:30 o'clock last night and 1 o'clock this morning Harmon received a cut a half inch deep and about the same distance in length directly in his heart, underwent an operation in which his heart was laid bare and twelve stitches taken in it, and afterwards fell asleep with a temperature of only 99½.

Harmon was stabbed, the police say, by Samuel Jasper, living in the Mills Hotel No. 2, at Chrystie and Rivington Streets, in a quarrel arising from Jasper's objection to a plate of soup which Harmon had served him in a restaurant at 169 East Broadway. Policeman Campbell of the Madison Street Station heard the sounds of a fight in the restaurant at 11 o'clock and ran in to find Harmon senseless on the floor.

Campbell called Dr. Lee from Gouverneur, and the ambulance surgeon rushed Harman there, saying there was little hope of his living. Once at the hospital Harman was put on the operating table, and Drs. Cheatham, Cox, and Russell, the house staff, prepared him for the difficult operation of having his heart sewed up, which Dr. John F. Erdman of the New York Post-Graduate Hospital was to perform.

Dr. Erdman had been telephoned to the instant that Harman reached the hospital and the extent of his injuries was known. The surgeon had promised over the wire to make all haste and had started from his home at 60 West Fifty-second Street in his automobile within a minute or two after receiving the telephone message. He made record time in reaching the hospital.

He gave Harman a hasty examination and then directed that the radial artery in his left arm be opened to receive two pints of saline solution. The treatment gave Harman renewed strength, and after his examination had showed Harman able to withstand the operation Dr. Erdman prepared to sew up his heart.

First an incision was made between two of the man's ribs and his heart was laid bare to the gaze of the surgeons. It was seen then that the stab wound had penetrated into the heart for a half to three quarters of an inch and that its length was almost the same.

Dr. Erdman gathered the edges of the cut together, first having cleansed the wound, and then, stitch by stitch, he ran his needle back and forth through Harman's heart until the edges of the cut were sewn tightly together. In all the physician passed his needle in and out twelve times.

The dressing of the wound occasioned by the stab and that inflicted by the surgeons in making their pathway to Harman's heart were dressed and then Harman was removed to a ward. His temperature and pulse were taken, and the surprisingly low temperature which is very nearly the normal, together with a pulse of 112, told the doctors that Harman had a very good chance indeed to recover.

Jasper was locked up in the Madison Street Station for assault.

GIRL FIRES ON BANDITS.

Highwaymen Hold Up Autoists and Take Their Valuables.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Aug. 22.—Two masked highwaymen at 10:30 to-night held up an automobile on a dark country road just outside Crafton, a Pittsburg suburb, and at the point of revolvers relieved F. Abbott, the auto owner, and Miss Ethel Campbell, his companion, of all their valuables. The loss of her diamonds angered Miss Campbell, and as the polite highwaymen finished with her she reached for a revolver in one of the car pockets and opened fire on the masked men, who returned it. Under cover of the young woman's fire Mr. Abbott managed to turn his auto around and dashed for safety with her.

Mr. Abbott is a wealthy man of Carnegie, and his companion is well known in Crafton society. While going at a lively rate they found their way blocked by a pile of logs. Mr. Abbott jumped from his machine just as the two bandits appeared from behind the logs and ordered him to throw up his hands. He did so and was quietly relieved of everything. The masked men then turned their attention to Miss Campbell, who was in the auto. Mr. Abbott begged them not to hurt her.

"We certainly will not hurt the lady," said one of the masked men as he held his revolver before the terrified Miss Campbell while the other slipped the diamond rings from her fingers and also took a valuable diamond breastpin from her throat. With this they backed away, when she opened fire.

"I'm not so sure that I didn't hit one of them," said Miss Campbell to-night. "I think I saw one lurch after I shot."

The entire county detective force has been turned out on the case.

$1,800,000 MINE SUIT.

Anaconda Sues Butte and Balakalva for Ore Taken from Their Claims.

Special to The New York Times.

BUTTE, Mon., Aug. 22.—The Anaconda Mining Company brought suit this afternoon against the Butte and Balakalva Copper Mining Company, asking $1,800,000 damages and asserting that ore of that value had been taken from its property through the workings of the Balakalva. Its complaint, which states seven causes of action, relates to the Mountain Chief and Right Bower claims, which the plaintiff says are its. The amounts asked in each of the seven causes of action are $260,000, $160,000, $80,000, $400,000, $100,000, $150,000, and $750,000, respectively.

The plaintiff desires to be judged the owner of the Mountain Chief and Right Bower lode claims. A temporary restraining order has been issued stopping all work on the disputed veins.

NEW YORKER A SUICIDE.

C. H. Woods Shoots Himself at Fort Thomas, Ky.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 22.—Lying dead with a bullet wound in the head, the body of Charles Hamilton Woods, 33 Grove Avenue, New York, was found at Fort Thomas, Ky., to-night. Evidence points to suicide, although no cause for the deed can be found.

Woods was local manager for a New York company. He had lived at a hotel here for some time.

"MURDER" CRY FROM FLAT.

Man Slipped Out When Police Entered and Woman Was Arrested.

Attracted by cries of "murder" to a house at 2 West Ninety-eighth Street late last night, Policeman Hahn and another policeman of the West 100th Street Station found in a flat on the second floor there a man and a woman in a violent altercation. Upon Hahn's interfering the woman explained that it was merely a family quarrel, and that she, Mary H. Alexander, had merely had a little tilt with her friend, who, she said, was M. J. Hornthal, of the firm of Hornthal, Benjamin & Reim, clothiers, of 22 East Fourteenth Street. A few minutes later the man slipped out of the room.

As the policemen turned to leave, a woman's voice called to them for help from a bedroom of the flat. Barricaded there they found the maid, Rosie Bernstein, who cried hysterically that her mistress had chased her with a carving knife and threatened her life. Thereupon Hahn arrested the Alexander woman. She struggled all the way to the station.

In the Night Court she told Magistrate House that she had formerly been a milliner for the Vanderbilts, Goulds, and Belmonts, and indignantly denied her maid's charges. The Magistrate fined her $2 and then paroled her on her promise to pay to-day.

ASKS $500,000; HASN'T CENT.

Carl Fechner Arrives In Pittsburg Penniless to Seek Large Estate.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 22.—Carl Fechner, claimant to a fortune of half a million dollars, left by Laura White, an eccentric woman, has arrived in Pittsburg from Sheboygan, Wis. in want of money enough to pay even for a meal.

Fechner says he is a brother of Laura White. The latter's body was found in her home last January, and her will, in which she requested that her heart be stabbed thrice before burial, left her fortune to Major Robert Hall White, a brother. Fechner says that he is also a brother, and that upon the death of Major White the woman authorized him to use the name Robert Hall White.

He has photographs of the woman and many letters alleged to be from her, and even a check for $500, which he says she sent him some time ago with an injunction not to cash it until her death. He has been unable to cash it.

Fechner, or White, is 41 years old, and has a wife and several children in Sheboygan.

DECKER HELD FOR ABDUCTION

Youth Who Fled with Miss Richter, 16, Brought Back to Brooklyn.

Leroy Decker, the young salesman who disappeared from Brooklyn on July 6 with sixteen-year-old Florence Richter, arrived last night at Brooklyn Police Headquarters from Rochester in charge of Detective Thornton of Brooklyn. Decker is charged with abduction by the young woman's mother, and will face his accuser in the Adams Street Court to-day.

Miss Richter also arrived in Brooklyn yesterday from Rochester and returning to her home at 1,378 Greene Avenue.

On Aug. 13 the Brooklyn police were informed that Decker and Miss Richter were arrested in Rochester as vagrants. He was accused of deserting her. Until that time Mrs. Richter was under the impression that her daughter and Decker had been married as she had received letters from the young woman signed "Mrs. Decker."

Decker said his father was a Curb broker in Chicago. He declared that he received $80 a month from his family, and that in a few years he would inherit a large estate. He expected his family to help him out in his trouble, he said. He is 19 years old.

ADRIATIC'S CREW DESERTING

Forty Firemen Gone, Says Treasurer of Sailors' Union.

Between forty and fifty of the 120 firemen and oilers of the White Star liner Adriatic have deserted since her arrival in New York last Friday was the statement made by Thomas Chambers, Treasurer of the National Sailors' and Firemen's Union of Great Britain and Ireland, last night. Two weeks ago yesterday the regular firemen went on strike owing to the refusal of the White Star Line to grant them an increase in wages.

Chambers also stated that all were British subjects, and that their landing here was a violation of the immigration laws. He said that he would bring it to the attention of Immigration Commissioner Williams this morning. Several of the missing men, he said, are of most unsavory reputation.

The trouble is the outgrowth of an agitation going on in England for a year, the firemen demanding more pay and that privileges held by agents of the Shipping Federation be eliminated from the shipping regulations.

Chambers added that if the White Star Line wanted to ship a crew for the return trip the union would furnish all the men needed.

An effort was made to get a reply to Chambers's statements from the White Star Line in New York. Vice President P. S. S. Franklin of the International Marine could not be reached, and General Manager John Lee, it was said, had retired and would not be disturbed. The Adriatic is scheduled to sail for Southampton at 9:30 A. M. to-morrow morning.

Dwarfs Sent to Ellis Island.

The annual hold-up of the troupe of dwarfs for the Hippodrome took place yesterday on their arrival by the Holland-Amerika liner Nieuw Amsterdam. In spite of the fact that they were admitted last year, the little men and women were sent again to Ellis Island. The special board will decide to-day whether being only thirty inches tall is a deformity under the entry act. Nico Neumann-Wittkower was in charge of the troupe.

Settle Hotel Cadillac Suit.

The suit brought against Wallach Brothers, proprietors of the Hotel Cadillac, by McNamee and Holleran of Albany, to recover a forfeit of $15,000 and brokerage of $2,500 set up by them to secure the purchase reported on April 1 of the hotel for $400,000, but which subsequently fell through, was settled out of court and discharged yesterday. Wallach Brothers, it was said, agreed to return the forefit.

EIGHTEEN DROWNED IN BRITISH CRUISER

Inrush of Water Killed Members of the Bedford's Engine-Room Staff.

VESSEL APPARENTLY DOOMED

Officers and Crew Taken Off—Hull Full of Water—Japanese Government Sends Assistance.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—Eighteen lives were lost when the British cruiser Bedford ran ashore in a thick fog on the rocks off Quelpart Island, Korea, yesterday, according to the report received here by the Admiralty. The men were members of the engine-room staff.

The vessel lies in such a desperate position that there is practically no possibility of saving her. The hull is full of water up to the engine-room bulkhead, the water pouring in through gaping holes punched by the sunken rocks, and the officers and crew have been taken off.

The sister warships Minotaur and Monmouth, of the British squadron, which anchored yesterday near the wreck to render any assistance possible, were obliged to put to sea last night owing to the heavy weather prevailing.

The accident occurred in the course of full speed trials of the vessel, and the Bedford was evidently badly holed, since the deaths are stated officially to have been due to the "inrush of water."

The scene of the wreck is the Samarang Rocks, a group of rocks about two miles to the west of Barlow Island, which is off the Southwestern point of Quelpart Island. Many sunken rocks are charted in this vicinity and navigation in the passage between Barlow Island and Gifard Island, its neighbor, is not recommended for this reason.

The Japanese Government has been requested to furnish any assistance possible, and a number of Japanese warships, with lighters and salvage vessels, have been sent to the scene of the wreck.

The wreck resembles in many respects that of the battleship Montagu, which cost the British navy one of its first-class battleships in 1906. The Montagu struck on the rocks at Lundy Island, in the Bristol Channel, and was ultimately abandoned, a total loss.

MAY INTERVENE IN PANAMA.

United States, It Is Said, Will Oppose the Election of Mendoza.

PANAMA, Aug. 22.—It was stated at the American Legation to-day that the United States Government would consider unconstitutional the election by the National Assembly of Acting President Carlos Mendoza as President of the Republic of Panama to fill out the unfinished two years of the term of the late President Obaldia.

This statement, coming so close upon the time for the meeting of the Assembly to choose a President, has created a great sensation in political circles.

Dr. Mendoza was Second Vice President of the republic at the time of the death of President Obaldia last March, and immediately assumed the office of Acting President. With the success of the Liberals in the Assembly elections last July it was the general belief that Mendoza would be chosen by that body as President.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Following reports from Panama that the American Legation there had confirmed rumors that the United States would oppose the election of Dr. Mendoza as unconstitutional the State Department to-day admitted that the eligibility of Mendoza was under consideration.

It was said at the State Department that the United States, in view of the discussion in Panama as to the eligibility of Dr. Mendoza, had been giving some study to the problem. Up to the present time, however, the United States has not felt called upon to make any representations on the subject to the Panama Government. What its course will be officials of the State Department refuse to disclose.

BACON JEWELS RECOVERED.

Chambermand of a St. Moritz Hotel and Her Husband Confess.

ST. MORITZ, Aug. 22.—The thieves who on Aug. 18 robbed Mrs. Daniel Bacon of New York of a large amount of jewelry were arrested to-day and have confessed to the robbery. They are a chambermaid at the hotel at which Mrs. Bacon, with her sister, Lady Gilbert Parker, and Sir Gilbert Parker were stopping, and the maid's husband.

The value of the stolen gems was in the first dispatches placed at $45,000, but later reports show that the value was greatly exaggerated.

The jewelry, which had been hidden by the thieves near Vichy, has been recovered.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

ROME, Aug. 22.—Cardinal Vincenzo Vannutelli, the Papal Legate to the Eucharistic Congress to be held in Montreal beginning Sept. 6, left here to-day for Liverpool, whence he will sail for America. He will travel via Brussels, where he will be joined by Prince Ferdinand of Croy, household prelate to the Pope, who will accompany him to Canada and London.

MANILA, Aug. 22.—C. Curtiss Hill was arrested here to-day on the request of the California authorities. He is charged with embezzlement. Although he denies his guilt, he will not oppose extradition.

WE PROTEST TO BRAZIL.

Oppose Extension of the Monopoly of an English Cable Company.

RIO JANIERO, Aug. 22.—Irving B. Dudley, the American Ambassador, has made representations to the Brazilian Government against projected extensions of cable monopolies enjoyed here by the Western Telegraph Company of England.

It is felt here that if the representations of Mr. Dudley are upheld competition in the cable service will become possible.

The Western Telegraph Company controls cable lines from the Azores and St. Vincent to all the principal points on the eastern coast of South America, from Carupa, Brazil, southward to Buenos Ayres.

ENGLISH SPY IN GERMANY?

Young Man Arrested—Said to Have Photographed Forts at Borkum.

EMDEN, Aug. 22.—A young Englishman was arrested to-day at Borkum and brought here and placed in prison. He is accused of being a spy.

It is reported that he took flashlight photographs of the fortifications at Borkum and also of those in course of construction on the Island of Wangeroog, in the North Sea, near the entrance to Jade Bay.

KOREA NOW JAPANESE.

Treaty of Annexation Believed to Have Been Signed Last Night.

SEOUL, Tuesday, Aug. 23.—There is good reason for believing that the convention between the Emperor of Korea and the Emperor of Japan, providing for the annexation of Korea by Japan, was signed here last night (Monday) by Yi Wan Yon, the Korean Premier, and Viscount Terauchi, the Japanese Resident General, but official silence is profound, and the entire proceeding is screened in mystery.

Yesterday morning the members of the Korean Cabinet paid a visit to the Emperor, and afterward called on Viscount Terauchi, who will pay his last visit to the Emperor to-day.

The City of Seoul is closely guarded, as are also the persons and residences of Korean and Japanese officials.

TO CHEAPEN MEAT IN VIENNA.

Government, Municipality, and Railways All Take Measures.

LONDON, Tuesday, Aug. 23.—A dispatch to The Daily Chronicle from Vienna says that, owing to the enormous rise in the price of meat and despite the high protectionist system of the country, the Government has decided to open the frontiers to dressed meat from Argentina, Roumania, and Servia, while the State railways and the municipality of Vienna have reduced respectively their tariffs and octroi duties on meat by 50 per cent. for the next three months.

EXPLOSION IN KRUPP WORKS.

Some of the Buildings at Essen Afterward Destroyed by Fire.

ESSEN, Aug. 22.—There was an explosion in the laboratory of the proving grounds of the Krupp works here to-day, the buildings being subsequently destroyed by fire.

The powder sheds near by, containing a great quantity of explosives, were barely saved by the quickness of the firemen.

DEFERS CLUB RAID HEARING.

The Six Narragansett Pier Cases Put Over by Judge.

WAKEFIELD, R. I., Aug. 22.—The six cases growing out of the anti-gambling crusade at Narragansett Pier, which came up before Judge Nathan B. Lewis in the Second District Court here to-day, were put over for periods of one, two, and three weeks. Chief of Police James D. Caswell, who was arrested on Saturday by Constable John G. Cross for alleged malfeasance in office, pleaded not guilty, and his case was continued until Sept. 5. Sheriff John R. Willcox furnished $300 bonds for his release. The two cases against William E. Arnold, Vice President of the Narragansett Club, raided by Cross, were also continued.

Two cases against George L. Cutting, a Harvard student, of Worcester, Mass., who assisted Cross in the raid, were put over for three weeks. Cutting is charged with carrying a concealed weapon and also with assault. Both complainants are police officers, who were attempting to arrest James S. Y. Ivins, son of William M. Ivins of New York, one of Constable Cross's deputies, when Cutting interfered.

KATE CLAXTON NOW SUES.

Actress Wants Decree Her Husband Got Without Her Knowledge Annulled.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Aug. 22.—Mrs. Kate Elizabeth Stevenson, known on the stage as Kate Claxton, filed suit in the City Court here to-day to have set aside a divorce decree obtained without her knowledge, she alleges, by her husband, Charles A. Stevenson, Feb. 11, 1901. Her husband is an actor.

Kate Claxton, for many years star of "The Two Orphans" Company, discovered early in April this year that her husband, Charles Stevenson, had obtained a divorce from her. She had gone to the Hudson County Clerk's office in Jersey City and had asked if there was a record of an application for a marriage license by Charles Stevenson, her husband. To her surprise a record was found showing that just before last Christmas Charles Stevenson of 3,100 Groveland Avenue, Chicago, and Frances Reilly of 783 West End Avenue, this city, had applied for a license, and that they were married on Christmas Day by Police Judge John W. Queen of Jersey City.

While investigating the marriage license Miss Claxton discovered a record stating that Mr. Stevenson had obtained a divorce from her in East St. Louis. She indicated that though living apart from her husband for six or seven years she had never been served with legal papers for a divorce.

JEWELER AND STOCK GONE.

Left Little but Chairs, Desk, and Safe —Receiver Seeks Him in Vain.

Judge Hough has appointed Ignatz Nebenzahl receiver in bankruptcy for Samuel Politzer, jewelry, 71 Nassau Street, bond of $1,000.

Nebenzahl, who is of Nebenzahl & Munk, creditors, was appointed at the request of six creditors, whose claims aggregate $8,800 and he agreed to act without compensation.

It was said Politzer is in the Catskill Mountains. Nebenzahl went there to try to trail him, but was unsuccessful. Also, it was said, Politzer had taken with him upward of $9,000 worth of stock, the greater part of which he purchased very recently. Almost the entire stock was removed from his place of business, leaving only a safe, desk, and some chairs. It is doubtful if there is anything of value in the safe. The liabilities are $11,000.

Italian Cholera Statement.

BARI, Aug. 22.—Reports from the cholera-infected districts show that in the last twenty-four hours there were nine new cases and thirteen deaths at Trani, ten cases and four deaths at Barletta, three cases and one death at Andria, three cases and one death at Margherita Savola, one case and one death at Cerignola, one death at San Ferdinando, and four cases and two deaths at Trinitapoli. Denial is given to rumors that cases of cholera have been found in places that hitherto had been declared free of the disease.

QUIETED AMERICANS IN ISLE OF PINES

Minister Jackson's Tact Prevented the Threatened Riot on Sunday.

GOVERNMENT IS ACCUSED

Arrest of Eight Citizens of This Country Said to be Due to Ill-Feeling —Protest to Washington.

HAVANA, Aug. 22.—John B. Jackson, the American Minister to Cuba, returned here this evening from the Isle of Pines and immediately paid a visit to Manuel Sanguilly, the Secretary of State, and requested an explanation of the arrest yesterday of eight Americans in the Isle of Pines on a charge of threatened homicide and arson.

Mr. Jackson was informed by Señor Sanguilly that orders had already been issued for the release of the prisoners on bail, and with this statement the incident was apparently closed diplomatically.

It is reported, however, that A. W. Gardner and the other Americans who were arrested are determined to take action against the Cuban Government for false arrest, contending that the accusations against them had been dismissed by a competent authority last May.

Mr. Jackson's arrival in the Isle of Pines yesterday morning in the midst of the excitement incident to the arrest of the Americans and the threats to storm the jail and release them was purely a coincidence. He had left Havana on Saturday night for the purpose of spending Sunday in the island, and found intense indignation among the American colonists, who number several hundred, which he tactfully allayed.

The latest reports from the Isle of Pines say that complete transquillity has been restored there.

The story of the trouble is as follows: What is said to be a trumped-up charge was preferred last May by a Cuban squatter on Mr. Gardner's property. A local Judge refused to consider the charge and the case was apparently closed until last Friday, when the Prosecuting Attorney at Havana ordered the accused to be arrested and confined in jail until they could be sent to Havana for trial. The American colonists were determined to oppose to the utmost the deportation of the prisoners, and were prepared, if necessary, to prevent the landing of the revenue cutter sent to transport them to Havana and to storm the jail and release the prisoners. The action of the authorities at Havana was denounced as an outrage, and a wanton exhibition of anti-American spirit.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—A dispatch was received at the State Department today from five of the American citizens incarcerated at Nueva Gerona, capital of the Isle of Pines, protesting against their imprisonment and asking for an investigation by the American Government. The names signed to the appeal for assistance were Giltner, Gardner, Ramsdell, Clark, and Nelson. The first names were not given.

The State Department asked the American Legation at Havana to report on the incident. In the absence of any communication from the American officials in Cuba the State Department will not press the matter upon the Cuban Government, it is understood, unless justified by further information.

PAINE'S ESTATE TO CHILDREN

Except Some Bequests to Charity and Servants—Estate's Value Not Named.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—With the exception of a few bequests to religious and charitable institutions and household servants, practically the entire estate of the late Robert Treat Paine, the well-known philanthropist, who died a few days ago, is divided among his children.

The will, which was filed to-day, provides for bequests of $5,000 each to the Associated Charities of Boston, Trinity Church, Boston, and the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge; to the Rev. Alexander Mann, D. D., rector of Trinity Church, and to the Rev. Benjamin F. Trueblood, D. D., Secretary of the American Peace Society, of which the testator was President.

The value of the estate is not named, but Mr. Paine was generally rated as a millionaire.

RUNAWAY GIRLS CAUGHT.

Two from Brooklyn Held at Washington as Fugitives from Home.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Madeline Kelly, 17 years old, of 562 Baltic Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Anna Whalf, 18 years old, of 131 Sands Street, in that borough, were arrested yesterday by Detectives Bauer and Kleinstein on complaints of their mothers that they were fugitives from home. The pair had been sojourning for the last three weeks with a friend at 306 First Street, Southeast.

The prisoners are prepossessing young women, and well educated. When arrested both expressed a desire to return to their mothers, saying they were homesick. They said they left home for a prank to see something of the world. Both had obtained employment in a department store and would have started to work to-day had the detectives not arrested them.

The girls were taken to the House of Detention and made comfortable. The New York police were notified last night that the girls had been arrested. It is probable they will both return to-morrow.

EDISON COMPANY SILENT.

Fails to Reply to Charges That It Favors Hotels and Stores.

The charges made by Matthew Comerford, President of the National Union of Steam Engineers, that the New York Edison Company is offering cut rates in electricity to the big hotels, department stores, and factories for the purpose of perfecting a monopoly remained unanswered by the Edison Company yesterday. It was said at the offices of the company, in Duane Street, that no one had anything to say at present.

Mr. Comerford alleges that it is from the small consumers that the electric company makes its profits and that the large consumers get their lights one eighth as cheaply to prevent them from installing their own plants.

Lawyer George Faulk for the Department of Health appeared in the Yorkville Court yesterday to prosecute the Edison Company as the result of complaints by residents of the vicinity of First Avenue and Fortieth Street that the air is filled with cinders discharged from the electric light plant.

After an inspection by Dr. Alfred K. Smith of the Health Department a summons was issued by Magistrate Herrman and served on John W. Lieb of the Edison Company, but when the case was called yesterday a lawyer from the company asked that it be put over until Sept. 14, as Lieb was out of town. Lawyer Faulk protested, and the Magistrate put the hearing down for Aug. 29.

Those living near the plant say the air at all times is filled with the cinders, and that their houses are never free from dust. They say that furniture is ruined and that the health of the people living in the section is endangered.

Justice Werner Back from Europe.

Justice William L. Werner of the State Court of Appeals, who hails from Rochester, N. Y., arrived yesterday on the Red Star liner Finland, from his annual trip to Europe, accompanied by his wife and three daughters. The Justice said the number of Americans abroad seemed to increase each year.

CAN'T FIND PARK SHOOTER.

Detectives Fail to Locate Person Firing Into Central Park.

Detectives from the Central Office prowled about the Sixth Avenue entrance of the Park at Fifty-ninth Street all day yesterday without witnessing any recurrence of the mysterious shootings which made the neighborhood nervous the day before, or establishing the identity of the mysterious shooter. On the north side of the cross street a stretch of perhaps thirty feet seems to be the danger zone, and this was watched yesterday by four detectives, as many reporters, and a number of chauffeurs and cabbies.

The park wall is marked as from bullets fired apparently from some elevation in the block of buildings west of Sixth Avenue, stretching along Fifty-ninth Street and Fifty-eighth Street, which includes a saloon and dance hall, the La Salle Institute for Boys, and several apartment houses.

The police know that on Saturday a man was hit from somewhere with a .22 calibre bullet and that on Sunday another man was wounded from somewhere with a .22-calibre bullet. There are stories that others were struck, but no one was sure of it.

Capt. Clark of the West Fifty-second Street Bureau said last night that he was inclined to think the shooting the work of some mischievous person, aiming perhaps at the sheltered game in the park. He thought the weapon was probably an air rifle, whose report, if fired from an elevated and fairly distant window, would be inaudible in the street below.

It is just two years ago that this neighborhood was agitated over a similar series of shootings. One of the keepers found that bullets were raining down into the lake near the entrance, and thought the big swans were the targets.

CADETS SEEK LOST BOY.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Members of the Paulist Cadets attached to the St. Mary's Catholic Church have been detailed as detectives in a city-wide search for a boy missing from his residence in Dorchester, Mass., who is believed to be in Chicago. The Rev. Peter L. O'Regan, attached to St. Mary's Church, was recently interested in the case of the missing boy, who is Joseph E. Hubbard, 15 years old, and through his good offices the cadets were put on their novel search.

A strange story of how the boy thought he had received a special call to evangelize the American Indian, a mission he regarded so seriously that he ran away from home and family, was told yesterday by Father O'Regan.

"For years Joseph Hubbard has believed it his mission in life to go West and preach the gospel to the Indians," said the priest. "He had a good home and loving parents. He had planned to study for the priesthood, but shortly after July 1 he decided apparently that he could wait no longer, and on July 6 he left Boston bound for the West. It is believed he had money to get him as far as Chicago, but no trace has been found of him.

"The lad is of a deep religious disposition. He is sturdy and willing to work, and is probably engaged at something in an effort to make more money to take him further West."

Father O'Regan said a special search was being made among circus and wild West shows, where there were known to be Indians.

GIRLS OUT HUNTING AIRSHIPS

Supposed to be Kidnapped, They Lost Their Way and Slept in Woods.

Two young East New York girls who got lost while "hunting for the airships out on Long Island," as they said, were recovered by their joyous parents yesterday after having been strangely missing since last Thursday. For two or three nights they slept in the woods in the neighborhood of Southampton.

Without taking even their mothers into their confidence Josephine Arrabello, 12 years old, of 249 Berrima Street, daughter of Joseph Arrabello, a wealthy Italian contractor and builder, and Annette Bowetto, 14 years, of Pitkin Avenue and Berriman Street, started on their airship hunt. Josephine had $15 in change from a large amount which her mother had given her to pay a bill, so she paid the fares to Jamaica and they got off and took another train. From what could be learned from the girls upon their return, they just got off again after riding a long ways and started on foot for the airships. When unable to walk further they lay down by the road on the edge of terrifying woods and cried themselves to sleep. The next day Josephine purchased food at a country inn and they continued their airship hunt. Again that night they slept in the woods, but this time they were not so much afraid. Saturday two negroes found them wandering aimlessly and took them to Judge Foster of Southampton, who communicated with their parents. It had been supposed that kidnappers had carried them off.

GIRL TACKLES A SNEAK THIEF

Her Brother Takes Up the Chase and Captures Him.

Fourteen-year-old Clara Leavitt, a Washington Irving High School girl, was talking to her 20-year-old brother Charlie early yesterday morning as he was putting the finishing touches to his toilet preparatory to going to work, when she heard a noise in an adjoining room in the apartment which the young people share with their aunt, Mrs. Margaret Rouse, at 1,088 Second Avenue. A week ago a sneak thief got in and stole a pair of trousers and a vest from one of the rooms which Mrs. Rouse rents to a boarder.

Miss Leavitt had this experience in mind, but without saying anything to her brother, who had not heard the noise, she tiptoed into the other room and found a tall thin man just walking out with a pair of trousers over his arm.

The girl threw herself upon him and shouted for help. The man broke away from her and fled down the stairs just as young Leavitt ran from his room. The girl pointed after the intruder and Charlie took up the chase. In the street he was joined by men and boys until a crowd of nearly 100 was at the heels of the fugitive.

The man turned east into Fifty-seventh Street with Charlie close behind, and presently the young man grabbed the fugitive and carried him to the ground. The crowd fell on him and he was being handled roughly when a policeman rescued him and took him to the East Sixty-seventh Street Police Station. He said he was Sven Kubita of 205 East Eighty-eighth Street, and that he was starving. He denied the attempted robbery.

MOTHER DOG ADOPTS KITTEN

Poodle Divides Her Time Between Puppies and Its Foster Charge.

Special to The New York Times

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Aug. 22.—Mrs. Edward E. Leach of 641 Bloomfield Avenue is the owner of a French poodle that is acting as foster mother to a Maltese kitten. The dog has three puppies, and to give her adopted progeny proper care Fido has installed it in a separate home.

The puppies are a week old, and the day after they were born Mrs. Leach's son, Edward, found a litter of kittens in the barn. He was about to drown them, when Fido appeared. She nosed the kittens over, and finally selected one which she deposited in a box with her own.

The puppies being larger crowded the newcomer, but Fido was equal to the emergency. Lifting the kitten, she carried it to a horse stall and made a bed for it. The poodle has taken excellent care of both families, dividing her time between them.

OWEN HAS CLAIMS AGAINST INDIANS

Oklahoma Senator Sought 50 Per Cent. on Lands Worth $12,000,000 to $14,000,000.

HAS NOT PRESSED HIS SUIT

But Left the Court of Claims to Say What Is Due Him for Obtaining Citizenship for Choctaws.

SULPHUR, Okla., Aug. 22.—The name of United States Senator Robert L. Owen entered into the Indian land investigation to-day. E. P. Hill, an attorney for the Choctaw Nation, testified before the commission that Senator Owen is the principal in a suit in which are involved contracts with the Indians calling for a 50 per cent. fee.

Mr. Owen, testified Attorney Hill, entered into the contracts with the Indians several years before he became Senator. He is not now trying to get 50 per cent., but has left it to the United States Court of Claims to determine how much he should receive. It was also said that since his election as Senator Mr. Owen had shown no activity in the case, except to testify in behalf of his claim.

The value of the property, which, it was asserted, Mr. Owen's suit sought to restore to the Indians was fixed by the Department of Justice at from $12,000,000 to $14,000,000. As attorney for the Choctaws Mr. Hill said he was resisting the suit.

"In 1896," said Mr. Hill, "Mr. Owen entered into an arrangement with Charles F. Winton to attempt to obtain for Choctaw Indians living east of the Mississippi River citizenship in what was then Indian Territory. Winton went to Mississippi and got many individual contracts, the number ultimately being 1,500. In these contracts the claimants agreed to give Winton and Owen 50 per cent. of all property which they would become possessed of if they were admitted to citizenship.

"Winton, after obtaining many contracts, died. His rights reverted to Mr. Owen. After the Indians were admitted to citizenship Congress referred Owen's claim to the Court of Claims, where it is now pending."

Senator Owen based his claim, the witness said, on legal services he rendered at Washington and in Oklahoma prior to his election to the Senate.

"Now," asked Representative Campbell of Kansas, "suppose Senator Owen should be allowed by the Court of Claims all that his contracts call for, how much would he get?"

"He would receive 50 per cent. of $12,000,000 or $14,000,000, according to the value of the property."

"Is he secured in any way?"

"The Omnibus Indian bill, passed by Congress in 1908, provides that the Owen fee shall be a lien on the property of the Indians."

"What would be the effect on the Indians if the fee provided for in the contracts were paid?"

"It would take all the property the Indians have. They would be penniless if they had to pay the fee."

Mr. Owen was elected Senator in 1907. He lives at Muskogee. He is now in Canada.

Most of the day's hearing was taken up with the cross-examination of J. F. McMurray, holder of contracts by which he seeks to obtain a 10 per cent. attorney's fee on the sale of $30,000,000 worth of Indian lands in this State.

Questioned as to his plans to dispose of the 450,000 acres of coal and asphalt lands McMurray said the coal deposits held by Indians in this State amounted to a monopoly in the territory west of the Mississippi, south of the Missouri, and east of the Rocky Mountains. He believed that the Indians were entitled to the value of the coal as a monopoly. He thought the land would bring a higher price if sold to a corporation than if split up and sold to individuals.

He said he had never heard of a New York syndicate that stood ready to pay $30,000,000 for the land, as Senator Gore had charged. The surface of the lands, which aggregate more than 2,500,000 acres, the witness thought might be sold separately to small holders.

The investigating committee will go to Pawhuska, Oklahoma, where on Wednesday hearings will be held concerning contracts with the Osage Indians, who are said to be the richest Indians in the country.

HAD GEMS IN STEERAGE.

Owner Denied Intent to Smuggle—Other Passengers Held Up.

Four passengers, all of whom arrived last Saturday on the American liner Philadelphia from Europe, were called before Special Deputy Surveyor George E. Smyth, at the Custom House yesterday to explan why they had not made proper declarations regarding their purchases abroad.

Paul Bass, a jeweler living in East 117th Street, came in the steerage, and as a citizen he made no declaration. Acting Deputy Surveyor Norwood, who searched his baggage found a package containing $4,000 in unset diamonds. The man had invoices for $3,000, and said that he had no intention of smuggling.

William Eccles, a wealthy lumberman, of Portland, Ore., came back with his wife, two daughters, and son. One daughter was wearing a squirrel coat valued at $100, and his wife had a new fur coat worth $150, in which an American label had been sewn. Eccles told 'Deputy Surveyer Smyth he was willing to pay the duty, adding that his daughter had sewed the label in her mother's coat "just for fun." Mr. Smyth saw no humor in the act, and believed the Collector would be of the same opinion.

Abraham Gallie was detected by Inspector Timothy Donoghue, the champion jostler of the United States Revenue Service, with two diamond pins and five gold watches in his pockets. Gallie said he had shown the articles to another Inspector, who said that it was O. K., but Donoghue seized the goods.

Miss Hattie Batchelder had been held up because her trunks, in the opinion of the Appraiser, contained more goods than she had declared. She told Deputy Surveyor Smyth she had changed her mind and wished to make the value $200. He told her the Appraiser had made the value as $225.

All four cases will go before Collector Loeb to-day for his decision as to whether the owners will be allowed to pay duty or have their property confiscated.

MAGISTRATES MEET IN SECRET

Hereafter There Will Be No Open Sessions of the Board.

The Board of City Magistrates, at a meeting held in the office of Chief Magistrate William McAdoo, 300 Mulberry Street, yesterday afternoon, voted to make its future sessions secret. Several of the Magistrates were opposed to the change, and there was much argument before the resolution was passed. Chief Magistrate McAdoo explained that a majority of the Magistrates had voted for secret sessions, believing that it was in the interest of the public to have them so.

The corridors of the old Police Headquarters Building, where Chief Magistrate McAdoo has his office, were thronged with persons who wanted to be court attendants or probation officers during the meeting. But no appointments were made, and instead a committee of seven was appointed to examine the candidates as to their qualifications. The appointments will be made, it was announced, at the meeting of the Board of Magistrates next Wednesday.

ARMY PRISONERS ESCAPE.

Two Privates Get Away from Castle Williams on an Oil Tank Steamer.

An oil tank steamship tied up at the Quartermaster's pier on Governors Island yesterday afternoon to unload some oil, and after she had sailed it was discovered by the army pickets that two of the Department of the East's trusted military prisoners were among those "absent and unaccounted for." Frank John Voorhees, a former artilleryman, and Arthur Manley, who was once in the infantry, are the missing prisoners. Both were inmates of Castle Williams, where they were held awaiting trial for desertion.

It was the first escape from Governors Island in months, and when the round-up showed that Voorhees and Manley were gone the guards turned out and for an hour every part of Governors Island from the ferry landing on the north side to the aeroplane shed on the south side was explored, but the missing were not found.

Capt. John F. Madden of the Twenty-ninth Infantry, the Adjutant of the post, sent out a general alarm to the police of New York and New Jersey. Capt. Madden said he understood the oil tank had sailed for Perth Amboy and he had hopes the police of that place would capture his men. If they do they will receive $50 from the Government for each prisoner.

Voorhees is known as the tattooed man of Castle Williams. He is covered with pictures from his neck down. Among the decorations by which he can be identified is an anchor or two, a cross, a wild duck, the American coat of arms, a grizzly bear, several snakes, a crown, and an army mule. Manley is not decorated. Each is about 23 years old and clean shaven and weighs about 150 pounds. When last seen they wore the prison garb of Castle Williams, which are ordinary clothes stamped with the letter "P."

RUSSIAN ROMANCE DOUBTED.

Gen. Trepoffs' Exiled Daughter Is Not Known in New Dorp.

The Russian colony was skeptical of a story printed yesterday relating to a romance of Gen. Trepoff's daughter, which culminated recently in the reunion of the girl and the man she loved—Baron Kruedener, who met her at South Beach, S. I., after a number of years of parting.

Mlle. Trepoff, known here under the name of Miss Grossman, according to the story, had been banished from Moscow by her father, the late Gen. Trepoff, organizer of the Jewish massacres, for her revolutionary tendencies. After a brief stay in Siberia Trepoff's daughter bought her freedom from her jailers in return for her jewels, which she took with her into exile. She escaped to Vladivostok and thence by way of Japan to America.

A reporter of THE TIMES was unable to find the cottage near New Dorp in which Miss Grossman is supposed to have lived for about a year. The Postmaster stated that he knew no such name in New Dorp.

Russians in New Dorp, when questioned regarding the whereabouts of Miss Grossman, smiled. They seemed to regard the story as a joke. Finally one of them said that the information concerning the affair had been supplied by a Mr. Narodny, a Russian who some time ago issued an appeal to Americans in which he asked them to buy shares of the Russian republic.

Mr. Narodny, who is now a resident of New Dorp, when asked whether he knew anything about Miss Trepoff, answered:

"Yes, I know her."

"Do you know whether she is the daughter of Gen. Trepoff?"

"No, I don't know that," replied Mr. Narodny. "But I know that she was exiled to Siberia. She went to the Adirondacks a few days ago."

"How soon is Miss Grossman to appear on the stage?" Narodny was asked.

"I don't know when she will appear."

MISS CLOSE MAY RECOVER.

Edward Smith Awaits His Fiancee, Stricken with Insanity.

Margaret Close, the young woman who disappeared from Coney Island three days before she was to have been married on last Saturday, and who was discovered on Sunday by her fiancé, Edward Smith, in Bellevue Hospital psychopathic ward, was transferred yesterday to the insane hospital in Central Islip, L. I. It is expected that she will recover.

Young Smith, who was an attendant in the Hudson River Hospital for the Insane at Poughkeepsie, where Miss Close was a nurse when they met and became engaged, visited Bellevue yesterday and identified the girl who had said she was Miss Lucky as his fiancée.

Smith said he probably would not return to Poughkeepsie until Miss Close was able to leave the hospital, when they would be married and would take their postponed honeymoon trip to the home of Smith's parents, in New Orleans.

BOGUS LORD AGAIN ARRESTED

Ashburton and a Companion Accused of Stealing $780.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—Known in every police station in the United States as "Lord Ashburton," Charles F. Richards is again under arrest in this city. This time the bogus nobleman is charged with the theft of $780 from Mrs. Mary McLean, the proprietor of a Shawmut Avenue lodging house. George Nickerson is also under arrest in connection with the case.

It is alleged that Richards and Nickerson obtained the money in various sums on the pretense that Nickerson soon would inherit a large sum of money from an uncle and that Mrs. McLean would be amply repaid for her kindness.

"Lord Ashburton" is 71 years of age. He has been many times arrested in England and this country. Several years ago he was pardoned from an English prison in the belief that his death was imminent.

The men were held in $500 bail for a hearing on Aug. 30.

STRIKE PEACE EFFORTS FAIL.

Cloak Manufacturers Refuse to Consider Closed or Union Shop.

Efforts on the part of Louis Marshall of the firm of Guggenheimer, Untermyer & Marshall, and others who have tried to act as intermediaries to bring about a conference between cloakmakers and their striking employes, with a view to a settlement of the strike, failed yesterday.

Late yesterday afternoon Julius Henry Cohen, counsel for the manufacturers' association, called on Mr. Marshall. Later Mr. Cohen said that they had gone over all the details of the strike, but that he insisted for the manufacturers that there would be no consideration of the closed shop or union shop by the manufacturers, although they were willing to discuss any question of hours, labor, or machinery.

Mr. Marshall said he had been called to take an interest in the strike by the persons who knew the situation and were anxious to end the hardships many must suffer if the strike continues. He said he was connected with neither side.

Forty striking cloakmakers were brought before Magistrate Corrigan in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday on charges of disorderly conduct. Two, who had stones in their pockets, were fined $5 each and the rest $2 each.

CHOKED TO DEATH BY COLLAR

Former Westchester Official Found Thus in a Buggy at White Plains.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 22.—With his head bent over a high celluloid collar, the edge of which cut a deep grove into his neck, George W. Burlinson, former Deputy Commissioner of Jurors of Westchester County and Assistant Secretary of the Democratic County Committee for several years, was found dead in an unhitched buggy in the rear of Joseph Smith's blacksmith shop at White Plains, early this morning. Policeman Colligan, who found him, notified Dr. Parker, who said Burlinson had been choked to death by his collar.

It is belived that Burlinson went into the buggy to rest on Sunday night and fell asleep there, and that the bent position of his head over the high sharp collar brought on a stroke of apoplexy. Burlinson leaves a widow and two sons, who live in Danbury, Conn.

The interesting thing for you to know is that the man who keeps a farm is to-day better able to buy, and, what is more important, pay for an automobile or a piano player than the man dwelling in the city.

Some people have been skeptical as to whether a farmer would buy an automobile or piano player if he could. This has been answered by the fact that he does buy them and is using them.

The man who runs a farm for a living is making that living and something over. He averages up just as well on it as a man doing anything else for a living. There is probably no larger percentage of unsuccessful farmers than there is of unsuccessful in other gainful occupations.

Farm and Fireside is the trade journal of that kind of farmer. There may be farmers without ambition or money, but they do not read Farm and Fireside. We are talking about the 450,000 who do.

FALLS FROM WINDOW; THREE ARE ARRESTED

Man Injured at Boarding House, a Chorus Girl and Two Men Held on Suspicion.

THEY TELL QUEER STORIES

Girl Said She Saw the Injured Man, Before He Fell, Outside Her Third-Story Window Looking In.

As Patrolman Noar was pacing Forty-second Street early yesterday morning a man rushed up to him and told him that a friend of his had just fallen from a rear window of 261 West Forty-second Street and was lying in the yard. The house is a theatrical boarding house, and the policeman was informed when he got there that the injured man was "Bert Vanderbilt," who lived at 130 West Forty-fourth Street, the premises occupied by the Lambs Club. The fallen man was unconscious and was removed to the Flower Hospital.

Inquiries made aroused the suspicions of the police, and the arrest was ordered not only of the man whose name was given as Bert Vanderbilt but also of Miss Edith Eimen, a chorus girl, and "Kid" Broad, the pugilist, who lives in the house, and of Ralph Gillespie of 1,133 Fortieth Street, Brooklyn, who was passing the night in Broad's room. The so-called Vanderbilt is held in Flower Hospital on the charge of unlawful entry, and the others are detained as suspicious persons.

According to the story which Miss Eimen told she knew "Vanderbilt" well. He had taken her out on several occasions and had told her that he was a distant connection of the well-known family of that name. He carried cards engraved with the address of the Lambs Club, and she said that at different times she had telephoned to him there.

Declined His Invitation.

Furthermore, she asserted he had called on her on Sunday afternoon and asked her to go to dinner. She declined, saying she had another engagement, but told him that she would be home later. She was away longer than she expected, and when she returned about midnight she learned that he had called in the afternoon and had waited for an hour and had come back twice in the evening.

Miss Eimen then went to bed. Before doing so, however, she told Broad, who occupied the next room to her on the third floor, that a man might come and inquire for her, and that she did not wish to see him. Broad promised to do all that was necessary in these circumstances, and a little later went out to get something to eat, leaving his friend Gillespie to go to bed in his room.

Miss Eimen liked to read a little before she went to sleep, and went into the parlor of the house to find a Sunday newspaper. She got into bed and was turning its leaves when, according to her story to the police, something startled her. She looked up and saw the face of the man she wished to avoid peering in through her window. She was frightened, but kept cool enough to get up and tell the intruder to go away.

Then she put the newspaper to one side, turned down the gas, and lay awake with one eye on the window. Soon, she says, she saw the same face again. This drove her into a panic, and she fled downstairs to call Mrs. Rogers, the landlady. As she reached the ground floor she heard screams, and learned that the man had fallen from the ledge of her window and was senseless in the yard below. With Miss Beryl Vernon, who lodges in the same house, she ran out to where he lay and recognized him.

Police Were Summoned.

Gillespie's part of the story began with his awakening from slumber in Broad's bed. He admitted that he had been a little disturbed before by somebody moving about the room, but he presumed that it was only his friend Broad come back, and had not worried about it. But later he had been thoroughly awakened, and believed that he saw a man's form outside the window, which he assured the police he was now convinced was that of Vanderbilt. It disappeared, and shortly afterward came the scream from downstairs which told that the man on the ledge had tumbled off. Then he said he found a hat and coat in his room, which had proved to him that Vanderbilt had started out from his room to pay an early morning call on Miss Eimen.

The police were struck by these facts: Between the two windows of Broad's room and that of Miss Eimen was a blank wall nearly four feet in width, and the story told by Miss Eimen and Gillespie left it to be supposed that a man could make his way from one window to another in the dark and balance himself on a window ledge of the ordinary room and look in. They also found that there were lace curtains in Miss Eimen's room, and that she must have been able to see through these and a Venetian blind in order to distinguish who her untimely caller might be.

Then the police sent around to the Lambs Club and found that no Bert Vanderbilt was registered as a member or was known there at all. The porter of the club was asked to go to the Flower Hospital to see if he could recognize the injured man. He did so and reported that he was a total stranger to him. Moreover, the man in the few moments that he regained temporary consciousness refused to give any name or account of himself.

Wearing Another Man's Clothes.

A careful search was made of his clothing, and in the breast pocket of his jacket was found a name tag. It showed that the coat had been made by a tailor named Dornseifer of Cincinnati, and had been apparently bought by a Frank E. Dornseifer. Communication was established by the police last night with Cincinnati and it was reported to them that there was in that city a tailor named Dornseifer and he was believed to be in New York with a large sum of money.

Frank E. Dornseifer was found at his apartment in the Hotel Imperial. He told the police that the injured man was named either Bert Bolz or Bert Volz and was a salesman, living at Garfield Place, Cincinnati. Dornseifer said Volz or Bolz came to his room on Sunday night and borrowed a suit of clothes from him.

Dornseifer went to the Flower Hospital and identified the man who had fallen from the window as Volz, or Bolz, to whom he had lent his suit.

While the detectives and Dornseifer were in the ward the injured man became conscious, and he signified his desire to make an ante-mortem statement.

To Coroner Holtzhauser he stated that his name was Bert Charles Volz; that he was 32 years of age, married, had one daughter, Fryoa, and lived at 566 Park Avenue, this city. He said he was born in Cincinnati.

Asked about what had happened to him on Sunday morning, he said he had not the slightest recollection. He would not say that he was acquainted with Miss Eimen. The Coroner gave it as his opinion that Volz was in no immediate danger of dying.

The wounded man's wife was found at 566 Park Avenue, which is an apartment house, and where she occupies two rooms. She was taken to Flower Hospital to see her husband.

Assistant District Attorney Moss began an immediate investigation. He questioned Miss Eimen, Gillespie, and Broad, and except for a few minor details their stories remained unshaken.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—Miss Beryl Vernon, whose name appears in dispatches from New York in connection with the fall from a window of a man under peculiar circumstances, is not known in this city. The dispatches state that she lived at 132 Pine Street, here, but there is no such address.

"Kid" Broad, the pugilist mentioned in the dispatches, is believed here to be the Cleveland "Kid" Broad, and not the Philadelphia fighter known by that name.

MILE CHASE AFTER RUNAWAY.

Policeman Finally Stops Horse Running Through Maze of Traffic.

After a chase of nearly a mile yesterday afternoon after a runaway horse attached to a light buggy, Mounted Policeman McNulty of the Traffic Squad stopped the animal after the chase had led through the maze of traffic in Fifth Avenue and the policeman had been in danger several times. The horse ran from Forty-third Street and Broadway to Fifty-second Street and Park Avenue before it was captured.

The horse, which is owned by Mortimer C. Rosenbaum of 28 East Eighty-fifth Street, was left in front of a hotel at Broadway and Forty-third Street. It took fright at a passing automobile and started off. It ran through Forty-third Street to Fifth Avenue and turned north in that thoroughfare, dashing in among the carriages and automobiles. McNulty was at the corner of Forty-third Street and Fifth Avenue, and as the runaway came up he ran his horse alongside and grabbed for the animal's bridle.

McNulty missed his hold on the runaway, and the animal dashed ahead. Several times McNulty succeeded in running alongside the runaway, but each time he missed his hold. McNulty's horse, trained to the work, finally managed to nose out slightly in front of the runaway. This was just as they were approaching Fifty-second Street. Gradually forcing the runaway off to the side, the animal turned into the side street and ran east. The policeman kept abreast of the animal, and when at Park Avenue forced it into a brick pile, where it came to a stop.

NO POLITICS, SAYS McADOO.

Probation Officers to be Chosen on Merits, Declares Chief Magistrate.

The following statement, denying that there was any politics in the appointment of probation officers in the Magistrates' courts, was issued yesterday by Chief Magistrate William McAdoo from his office, 300 Mulberry Street:

> The statement in this morning's newspapers that a political slate for the appointment of probation officers had been made out to be voted upon by the Board of City Magistrates is, so far as I know, absolutely untrue. The probation officers will not be selected before next Monday week, and they will be chosen solely on their merits as to capacity and honesty; that is, so far as I am concerned, and I am quite sure that in this respect I speak for the majority of the board.
>
> I consider these appointments very important, and that the selection ought to be made with great care. There is no ban on any one, class or creed. Even a good ex-policeman, if he was thoroughly fitted, would receive consideration from us.

Magistrate McAdoo said in addition before the Corporation Counsel at present is a question as to whether the probation officers appointed in the courts must go through a civil service examination, and a decision is being awaited. It is mandatory to appoint probation officers by Sept. 1, and because of the large number of applicants for the position, the Civil Service Commission has been practically swamped, and they would be unable to examine all the applicants by Sept. 1, said the Chief Magistrate. So the probation officers will be appointed without examination, and if the Corporation Counsel decides that an examination is necessary that will be done.

There will be forty probation officers, twenty in Manhattan and twenty in Brooklyn. It will require nine votes of the board for one to be appointed.

Beginning to-morrow the Board of City Magistrates will pick, from the certified list, court clerks and court attendants.

BURGLAR EIGHT YEARS OLD.

Found Robbing a Store, He Says When He's a Man He'll Rob Banks.

The smallest burglar ever in the Children's Court was arraigned yesterday charged with attempting to rob a plumber's store at 20 Liberty Street on Aug. 17. He was Peter Franza, 8 year old, of 124 Cherry Street, and when arrested with Jerry Patullo, 10 years old, of 54 James Street, by Detective John Cunniffe, he had a jimmy, a cold chisel, a screwdriver, and a hammer in his pockets.

When the boys were arraigned for sentence both discoursed of burglary as a profession, and announced that when they grew up they would enter it in earnest.

"I have a big brother," said Franza. "He burgles, too."

"What particular line?" asked Justice Hoyt.

"Banks in Wall Street, and sometimes pushcarts," answered Franza with the utmost seriousness.

"And my brother is a burglar, too," chimed in Patullo.

"And what will you be when you grow up?" asked the court.

"As far as I can see," replied Patullo, without a smile, "Pete's idea is a good one."

Justice Hoyt, perplexed, put the case off once more.

BLAZING HAY BLOCKS STREET

5,000 Bales Destroyed in Building of Charles Rickerson & Son on West St.

Five thousand bales of hay and excelsior were destroyed and the interior of the two-story brick building at 212 West Street was wrecked by a fire yesterday afternoon, which did $25,000 damage.

The building is occupied by Charles Rickerson & Son. Policeman Cummings saw flames in the rear of the second floor and gave the alarm. Two workmen got out hurriedly. The fire spread to the adoining building, at 210 West Street. Two fireboats responded to the first alarm, and Acting Chief Kenlon found that with the powerful streams from these engines he could handle the fire without reinforcements.

Fireman Andrew Mack of Engine 29 was attending a line of hose on the roof of 212 when the flames suddenly burst through the roof and the fireman was compelled to jump. He was only slightly bruised.

The building at 210 is occupied as the headquarters of the Harbor Boatmen's Union. It was not badly damaged.

It was some time after the fire that traffic was resumed in West Street, and then only half the street could be opened. The other half was piled with bales of burning hay and straw.

BOY GIVES HIS LIFE TO RESCUE A BABY

Seven-Year-Old Benjamin Goldman Pushes 3-Year-Old from Auto's Path and Is Run Over.

MOTHER WHISKS CHILD AWAY

Disappears Without Making Their Identity Known—The Chauffeur Held Blameless by Witnesses of Accident.

As 7-year-old Benjamin Goldman of 323 East 115th Street darted out of the path of a northbound black touring car that was bearing down upon him at the corner of 116th Street and Second Avenue last evening he saw another boy, much smaller than himself and apparently only about 3 years of age, toddling toward the corner on the north side of the street, directly in the automobile's path.

The chauffeur, who was alone in the car, was sounding his horn loudly, but the clatter of an elevated train passing overhead drowned the honking, and Bennie saw that the little fellow must be struck in another moment. In a second he had dropped several bundles he was carrying and had rushed to where the little boy was, racing parallel with the automobile as he ran.

He reached the little fellow, pushed him up to the curb, and then tried to dart up after him. But the auto, less than three feet behind him, bowled on, despite the chauffeur's efforts to stop it, and before the boy could climb the curb, high to his little step, beside the other little chap he had saved, the machine struck him, tossed him forward, and rolled over him.

A woman, whose identity could not be learned, rushed screaming out into the street from the west sidewalk and tried to lift the little body from under the car. She herself was struck by the mudguard, however, and rolled into the street. She picked herself up with a cry and looked at the body under the car. Then, with a cry almost of relief, she rushed after the baby boy who had been saved and hurried away east with him before any one could learn either her name or the boy's.

The car is owned and operated by Basil Verlangieri, who says he is a chauffeur of 2,015 First Avenue. Verlangieri, who, according to witnesses, had not been going fast at the time of the accident, jumped out, and, crawling under his car, lifted out the boy's body and helped to carry him to a near-by drug store. There he called Dr. Balamuth from the Harlem Hospital. The physician said the boy had been killed instantly.

Verlangieri insisted that he had done all in his power to avert the accident, sounding his horn and throwing on the brakes. Those in the crowd that quickly gathered corroborated him, despite the chronic unfriendliness to chauffeurs in that neighborhood. Verlangieri surrendered to Policeman Haggerty, and was taken to the East 104th Street Station on a charge of homicide.

The Goldman boy was the youngest of several children of Isaac Goldman, who has a clothing store at 323 East 115th Street. At the time of the accident the lad was returning home from an errand on which his mother had sent him. The body was removed to his home.

FLEISCHER STILL IN JAIL.

Rosenheimer, Whose Auto Killed Girl, Is Released, but Friend Can't Gt Bail.

Milton Fleischer, who was in the automobile of Edward T. Resenheimer when it struck a buggy killing Miss Grace Hough and injuring two others on Pelham Parkway, on Thursday night, was unable yesterday to obtain the $5,000 bail in which he was held by Coroner Schwanecke. The Coroner said he would decide to-day upon the plea of Fleischer's counsel to reduce the bail by half.

Counsel for Fleischer appeared at Coroner Schwanecke's office last night and offered as bail property owned by Peter Meistler, at 102 West 144th Street, which he said was worth $23,000 and mortgaged at $12,000. The Coroner said he must let the District Attorney look over the deeds before he could accept them, whereupon the lawyer left, taking the papers and saying he would serve the Coroner this morning with a writ of habeas corpus.

Miss Anna McCable, who was severely injured in the same accident and who was reported yesterday to be dying at the Fordham Hospital, was said last night by her physician, Dr. J. L. Amsder, to be slightly better, though her condition is still serious.

FIGHTS FIVE POLICEMEN.

Reserves Called to Arrest Man Who Tried to Disrobe in Drug Store.

A poorly dressed man, who said he was George McCormack, caused much excitement in the Hegeman Corporation drugstore in The Times Building yesterday afternoon when he started to disrobe. Clerks and customers interfered, whereupon he fought desperately and was not overpowered until five policemen arrived.

On entering the store the man went to the Seventh Avenue side and took off his coat. When he made a move that indicated more clothing was coming off women ran from the store to the street, and the clerks closed in on him.

McCormack began swinging right and left. Policeman O'Brien ran in and joined in the effort to subdue the man. For five minutes the tussle lasted, with the advantage on the side of the insane person. Some one telephoned to the West Forty-seventh Street Station and four men responded.

With their aid the man was removed to Flower Hospital, where he was transferred to Bellevue Hospital.

BLACK HAND'S NEW PLAN.

Extorting Money Under Threat of Forcing Business Men to Vacate.

A new method of the Black Hand to obtain the ejection of its victims from their places of business after failure to intimidate them into paying tribute was discovered yesterday evening in the arrest of six men by Central Office Detectives Brenick, McLoughlin, and Conroy, who found them actng in a suspicious manner in front of the fruit stand of Louis Gubitose and Antonio Pollio, at 2,851 Amsterdam Avenue.

Two of the six stayed in front of the stand, while the others walked down to 103d Street, shadowed by the detectives. Overtaken and questioned there, they said they were Pinkerton detectives, but could give no account of their mission, and were arrested. On one of them, Michael J. Giani, a mason, of 455 West Broadway, was found a revolver thrust between his waistband and shirt.

In the sleeve of the second, Joseph Sabatallo of 64 Sullivan Street, was found a policeman's nightstick. The other two said they were Frank Ranone of 52 Sullivan Street and Frank Gulino of 160 Thompson Street. They were taken back to the fruit stand, where the detectives found and arrested the other two men on the same charge. These said they were Charles Gubitose of 771 Columbus Avenue and Vincenzio Anciello, a shoemaker, of 24 West End Avenue.

Gubitose told the police he was a cousin of the Louis Gubitose who kept the fruit stand. From Louis they learned that several letters had been received by him and his partner, the latest on Aug. 16, demanding $1,500 under penalty of death by the Black Hand.

Then, late Saturday night, Hyman Lowenstein, manager of the Independent Beef Company, of 2,851 and 2,853 Amsterdam Avenue, who leases the stand to Gubitose, received this letter:

> Dear Sir—There are just now at your place two men, Antonio Pollio and Louis Gubitose, and they sell fruit. We have had an argument with them, and we ask you to put them out. Will give you twelve days to do it, or kill you like a dog. You will get no more letters, but the real stuff.
>
> SOCIETY OF THE BLACK HAND.

Upon receipt of this letter Mr. Lowenstein called in the police.

ELEPHANTS WOULDN'T PART.

Zoo Keepers Have Trouble Getting Hattie to Enter Her Old Cage.

Hattie and Jewel, Central Park elephants, who were put in the same quarters while repair work was being done last Wednesday, caused much excitement yesterday when the keepers tried to separate them.

When the work was finished and the cage of the two elephants was opened, so Hattie could be taken to her own quarters, she got into a corner and started to trumpet. Jewel backed up alongside of her, and both refused to move until the keepers entered the cage with sharp steel prods and chased Hattie to her own inclosure.

A grosbeak-weaver, a very little bird with a very large beak, has been presented to the Central Park collection by a friend of Donald Burns, the bird keeper. Burns said it was the only one of its type in this country and that in China it is used by mountebanks to fly after coins and other small objects that are thrown into the air. The bird arrived here from China a week ago.

FOUR AUTOISTS HURT BY RECKLESS DRIVING

One Machine, Taken Without the Owner's Consent, Overturns in Prospect Park Plaza.

TWO WORKMEN RUN DOWN

Touring Car That Hit Them Gets Away, but Bystanders Take Its Number—Two In Hospital.

Reckless automobile driving caused the injury of four persons in Brooklyn yesterday. One was in a joy ride party when the machine turned turtle after striking a tree near the Prospect Park Plaza. The machine was owned by Prof. L. H. Wheeler of Yale University, and it was taken out by his chauffeur without his permission.

The other serious accident happened in State Street near Boerum Place when a touring car knocked a workman down. Without looking around to see how seriously the man was injured, the chauffeur dashed past Police Headquarters and escaped.

Some of those who witnessed the accident ran after the machine and told the police that as near as they could make out the number it was 42,185 N. Y. Information was later given out at the Brooklyn Headquarters that the machine was owned by F. W. Brown of Lyonsfield, N. Y. The chauffeur was alone in the car. His identify will be known as soon as the police get in communication with Mr. Brown.

Prof. Wheeler and his wife are stopping at the Manhattan Beach Hotel. They arrived there from New Haven on Sunday in the car and instructed William J. Lackery, their chauffeur, to take the machine to Manhattan and put it in a garage. Before doing so, however, Lackery took several of his friends for a ride. He had not been heard from until about 2 o'clock yesterday morning when Patrolman Hermance of the Bergen Street Station saw the machine zigzagging across the Prospect Park Plaza. The occupants of the machine seemed to be in danger, and the policeman ordered the chauffeur to stop.

The chauffeur either did not hear the policeman's order or else paid no attention to it, for the car dashed across the Plaza, continuing to swerve in any direction but a straight course. As it approached Union Street the machine ran against a large maple tree and smashed it. The force of the collision overturned the machine, throwing the occupants out to the street.

D. D. Noeapker, a drug clerk of Sheepshead Bay, was picked up unconscious and removed to the Swedish Hospital with a fractured skull. Lackery was cut on the head. The others escaped injury and disappeared before the police could learn who they were. Lackery was arrested charged with assault and was held in $500 bail by Magistrate Nash in the Flatbush Court for examination to-day. He told the Court that he had the permission of Prof. Wheeler to take the machine out, but the Professor denied Lackery's statement over the telephone. Lackery was sent to Raymond Street Jail in default of bail.

John McGovern of 999 Kent Avenue was one of the victims in the other auto accident. He and Michael Sheehan of 253 Hamilton Avenue, South Brooklyn, employes of a plumbing supply house in State Street and Boerum Place, were loading iron pipes on a truck alongside the curb there, when a touring car turned from Court Street, and dashed down State Street at a good speed. Before the two workmen had a chance to get out of the way the machine struck the iron pipes they were carrying, hurling both men violently to the pavement.

McGovern was the worse injured. The pipes struck him on the head and fell on him when he was thrown to the pavement, fracturing his skull. Sheehan was thrown under the truck. His head was cut and his left foot badly injured. He was removed to his home after Dr. Buddington of the Brooklyn Hospital treated him, but McGovern's condition was so serious that he was removed to the hospital at once.

MAY BE VICTIM OF THE TONGS

Sang Lung, Found with Fractured Skull, Dies of Injuries.

Sang Lung, the Chinese who was found unconscious from a beating in a swamp in the Ravenswood section of Long Island City at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and who died without recovering consciousness in St. John's Hospital late yesterday afternoon, is thought to have been a victim of the war of the Tongs, which has resulted in several mysterious murders in Chinatown in Manhattan.

Lung was about 35 years old, and ran a laundry in 148 Vernon Avenue, Long Island City. He appeared to hold a position of some rang among his countrymen. Following an investigation by the police yesterday acquaintances said that Lung had a rendezvous in Manhattan where he kept several white wives. Some time ago he asked the police of the Fourth Street Station in Long Island City for protection, saying that he feared an attack.

The Chinese had been struck on the left side of the head with a slungshot that fractured the skull and caused paralysis. There were a number of other wounds on the body, and in his clothing was found 15 cents and a ticket for a revolver which he had pawned on July 30 last. His numerous wounds gave evidence of a struggle, and the police found that the attack had been made on Vernon Avenue and the body dragged 500 feet. Nothing was found disturbed in the laundry, but the police say that Lung's assistant in the laundry is missing.

WILLS HER LOTTERY TICKETS

All Winnings to be Given to Her Daughter by Mrs. Thounauer's Order.

The will of Mrs. Dina Thurnauer, formerly of this city, was filed yesterday in the Surrogates' office. Mrs. Thurnauer, who died in Bavaria on May 18, left her estate, valued at "over $10,000," to her daughter, Lina Forcheiner of Nurenburg, one-half to be paid over at once and the income of the other half to be paid to her. At her death this half is to go to the daughter's descendants. A clause in the will reads:

> If during the lifetime of my daughter any lottery share belonging to my estate shall be returned a winner the proceeds thereof shall not become a part of my estate, but shall at once be paid over to my daughter.

To Temple Emanu-El, New York, is left the sum of $500.

WATCHMAN SHOOTS WOMAN AND ESCORT

Murch First Rapped One with Club Because Party Refused to Move On.

HIS CLUB SEIZED, HE FIRES

Flatbush Watchman Who Had Shot Song Writer Marion, Who Told Queer Story of the Affair.

Albert Murch, a special Deputy Sheriff employed as night watchman by the Eagle Patrol in Flatbush, early yesterday morning, shot Frank Flannery of 241 Carlton Avenue and Margaret Bannon of 69 North Oxford Street, at Snyder and Nostrand Avenues, Brooklyn. He asserted that they with others of a party who were waiting for a car talked too loud. He ordered them to stop and move on, when the man took his club away from him, and he shot in self-defense. His story did not create a favorable impression on Magistrate Nash later in the Flatbush Court. He was held in $1,000 bail on the charge of felonious assault for examination on Wednesday.

Flannery and Miss Bannon were wounded in the left leg. According to their story Murch approached them and told them they were making too much noise and would have to move on. Flannery protested against the watchman's interference. They didn't move on, and Murch got angry. He rapped one of the men on the legs with his club and then the trouble began.

Flannery grabbed Murch's club and threw it out into the street. Murch thereupon drew his revolver. At the same instant Flannery seized the officer's hand holding the revolver and turned it downward. The men struggled until Murch had fired two shots, the first one striking Flannery and the other wounding Miss Bannon, who was within a few feet of them.

Policeman Tyrell of the Flatbush Police Station heard the shots. Murch, still holding the revolver, insisted that Flannery assaulted him, and he shot in self-defense.

Dr. Weitthaus of the Swedish Hospital dressed the wounds of the injured. Miss Bannon was able to go home, while Flannery and Murch were both kept in cells charged with assault.

This is not the first time that Murch has been in trouble while doing duty as a night watchman. Last Winter he shot Frank Marion, a song writer, in the leg. He said he caught Marion in the act of trying to break into a house on Argyle Road, Flatbush. At the time Marion said he was talking to Murch only a short time before the shooting and had gone to the house to give Murch a chance to make a record. He said he did so at the invitation of Murch.

AVIATOR BROOKINS IN SURPRISING FEATS

FRONT PLANES TAKEN OFF

Special to The New York Times.

AVIATION FIELD, Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 22.—Walter Brookins got out of the new Wright biplane this afternoon more twists and turns and high and low dives than any one here except the masters themselves, had thought possible. In one flight his machine came down for 1,000 feet as if it were twisting about a corkscrew, and then Brookins sent it on a high dive, almost nose on, for the remaining thousand feet between him and the earth. The crowd thought he was surely riding to disaster, but when almost on the ground he wheeled to an even keel.

Enthusiasm, which has reached a high pitch several times during the aerial events here, passed all previous bounds in the ovation tendered Brookins when he alighted. He did not wait for the applause to die out before he rose swiftly from the south field, and for five minutes he made hair-raising turns that astonished even his brother-aviators. He stood his plane on end above the north field and wheeled it about in its own length, veered again in midfield with a compressed figure eight, and dropped in nose-on drives for 100 feet or more that made him seem as if he were turning turtle.

Flying men from the Long Island contingent said they had never seen anything to compare with Brookins's performance. It opened to them new possibilities of the aeroplane, they said.

When the biplane was assembled without front elevating planes, the mechanicians in the Wright Company said it was a touring plane, built for journeying, and lacked mobility, which had been sacrificed to steadiness of flight. In the hands of Brookins to-day it seemed more flexible by far than either of its companion planes of the established type.

When Brookins had concluded his air dance, he descended long enough to pick up Ernest La Rue, editor of Aeronautics, and he had an experience to boast about. He was whirled in dizzy turns, which greatly amused the grand stand, carried through a corkscrew manoeuvre, and finally brought to earth in a 150-foot dive that made people hold their breath and the knowing ones wonder if one slender plane behind the rear rudder would do the work of the two front elevators after all.

Among those who were waving their hats as Brookins stepped out of his machine at the end of the third flight was Walter L. Fairchild, who has just constructed an aeroplane of his own design at Mineola. "I thought I had seen flying before," he said, "but this is real aviation. Brookins must have been born to it, for it's work of a kind you never could learn. There was never an aeroplane up with the lifting power and the sailing capacity of this one. It ushers in almost a new era of aviation." The sailing feat which brought out the praise from Fairchild was an even glide, with motor cut off, in which the aeroplane seemed to skim through the air with hardly any speed and without settling to any visible extent. Wilbur Wright had long ago promised that once aloft he could soar as do the birds, but no one had ever seen one of his aeroplanes attempt the feat before.

Richmond Pearson Hobson, who has known what it is to be lionized, had the privilege of seeing from his automobile a rush of Summer girls toward Brookins from the grand stand to make a hero of him.

Besides the flights of Brookins there were three other numbers to the afternoon's programme. Hoxsey went above the surrounding trees. His flight was wobbly. Some thought a cylinder or two of his motor were gone as he veered toward a network of old wires scarcely a dozen feet above him and seemingly unable to rise. There was a general sense of relief when he landed.

Johnstone performed for fourteen minutes following Hoxsey, climbing 1,500 feet and then coasting down. He flew again toward the end of the afternoon, but when he tried to take up a 190-pound passenger he came to grief forty feet beyond the end of the monorail. A second trial brought no better results, and he decided to limit his passenger service to thin men only.

Two suits have been brought by those who were beneath Brookins's plane when it fell into the crowd on Aug. 10, the first by Maurice Gorsuch, 18 years old, of Asbury Park, whose left forearm was broken. He asks $15,000 damages. The defendants named are Wilbur Wright personally, the Wright Company, Walter Brookins personally, and the Asbury Park Aero and Motor Club, which was organized especially to hold the meet here.

The papers in the second suit have not yet been filed, but it was said at the Long Branch Memorial Hospital, where young George Burnett is convalescing from a dislocated hip and concussion of the brain, that a local law firm is drawing up the papers in a suit in his behalf and that the sum asked will be a large one.

The meet is scheduled to conclude with to-morrow's programme, although the promotors are considering a plan to have it continued next Friday and Saturday.

HAMILTON AND BALDWIN RACE.

Contest in the Air at Hempstead Plains Makes the Crowd Wild.

Special to The New York Times.

HEMPSTEAD PLAINS, Aug. 22.—In one of the old Curtiss biplanes in which Charles Hamilton first trained, that wizard of the air circled the course here to-night in a seven-lap race with Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin.

When they made their landing it was a toss-up as to which man arrived at the finishing point first. Weather conditions for air work were almost perfect to-night. As the red machine of Capt. Baldwin, piloted by the bareheaded veteran, lined up against the Curtiss craft, interest became almost wild on the field. Tip to tip they kept pace with each other at a rate which made Long Island Railroad trains passing through neighboring fields seem to be crawling. Hamilton plainly cut his corners faster, but this advantage was evened up when it was seen that Capt. Baldwin was able to make up lost time on the stretch.

J. J. Frisble, who went through an admirable performance this morning in his pretty plane, came to grief to-night. Before leaving the ground one of the wheels of the chassis ran into a soft piece of ground and turned under. Two left planes were broken and a couple of ribs on the right side. Frisbie was not hurt.

Judging from plans under way here an interesting week is in prospect. Hamilton proposes to have his new biplane here to-morrow, and will try it out for ten days before leaving for the Pacific Coast. H. S. Harkness of Cleveland, Ohio, hopes to bring out his new Antoinette machine on Friday.

Both Glenn H. Curtiss and Clifford B. Harmon were here this morning. Mr. Harmon's machine has a big force of mechanicians at work on it, and it is expected another cross-country flight by this conqueror of the air over Long Island Sound will be made the last of the week. J. C. Mars has engaged the new aeroplane with which Hamilton won the first Doubleday plate prize last Saturday. It belongs to Howard J. Dietz of Hempstead, L. I.

Mars expects on Friday to make a cross-country flight, taking his wife as passenger.

Mr. Dietz is also building a new aeroplane, in which the Kirkham Motor Company has promised to install a machine that will make 70 miles an hour. The machine will be entered in the international meet.

Philip Wilcox, the Columbia student, is organizing a company for the building of propellers exclusively at this place.

"The chief thing of importance is not to build any aeroplane which can just fly," said the Columbia man, "but to advance a step further and build one which will not be susceptible to weather conditions."

SHORT FLIGHTS AFTER DUSK.

Aviators Kept Off Grounds at Sheepshead Bay Owing to Wind.

Aeroplane flights after dusk were made by Glenn H. Curtiss, J. C. (Bud) Mars, and Eugene Ely at the Sheepshead Bay race track last evening, the aviators having been kept on the ground all day by strong, puffy winds. At 7 o'clock Ely wheeled his machine out on the field and made a straightaway flight. He was soon followed by Curtiss and then Mars.

After making a short trial run, Mars took on Augustus Post as a passenger and flew down the field at a height of twenty feet. Curtiss and Mars then made a number of circuits of the field, the darkness forcing them to agree on separate landing places before each start, as it was becoming impossible to see a machine on the ground. Ely contented himself with a number of straight flights, his light machine not being powerful enough to fight the strong gusts.

Mr. Curtiss, in his flights, used his Hudson flyer, which has been equipped with a new wireless sending apparatus especially designed for aeroplanes. To-day he plans to take an operator aloft, and an effort will be made to send messages from the machine in flight to a small receiving station on the roof of the grand stand. At the request of Major Samuel Reber, Chief Signal Officer, Department of the East, U. S. A., a record of the experiments will be kept for the War Department.

The other aviators who are keeping their machines at the race track for the meet beginning next Friday, will also make flights to-day and each afternoon this week. Mars and Ely are each planning something novel to set a pace for the others.

TAFT TO SEE FLIGHTS.

Will Visit Harvard-Boston Aero Meet —Roosevelt Also Asked.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—Assurances have been given the management of the Harvard-Boston aero meet to be held at Atlantic, Sept. 3 to 13, that President Taft will be present on one of the days. Several naval officers, to be named by Secretary George Von L. Meyer of the navy, and Major Squiers and Gen. Leonard Wood of the army will also attend. Ex-President Roosevelt is also being urged to come.

Cromwell Dixon, the young pilot of dirigible balloons, completed a contract with the management to-night for several flights from the aviation field over the city and around the State House dome previous to the meet, as well as daily exhibitions on the field from Sept. 3 to 13.

MOISSANT FAILS AGAIN.

Ascends Twice In Attempt to Finish Flight—Machine Damaged.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—John B. Moissant, the American aviator, was again baffled this morning in his attempt to complete the Paris-London flight with a passenger, which started so auspiciously last Tuesday evening.

He ascended twice this morning in his endeavor to cover the comparatively short distance, over which a spell seems to have been cast, separating him from London, but could make no headway, and in the second forced descent he damaged his machine so seriously that he will be unable to resume the flight for twenty-four hours.

His first ascent was made at 4:30 A. M. from Upchurch, where he landed after a battle with the strong wind on Saturday. On the ground a dead calm prevailed, and all conditions seemed favorable for the flight, but the machine, after ascending above the trees, was caught in a tricky wind, and, although Moissant remained in the air fifty-six minutes, he could cover only a very short distance.

His supply of petrol then gave out, and he descended to replenish it. After a delay of half an hour the airman again ascended against a thirty-mile breeze, which he fought for the succeeding half hour, covering only four miles in the last twenty-seven minutes.

Finally a heavy gust of wind caught the monoplane and flung it down 100 feet. It just missed one of the high hedges bordering a roadway. Moissant avoided the hedge by an abrupt swerve, and the machine landed in a field, striking so heavily, however, that it was badly damaged. The wheels used in starting were buckled, the rudder and propeller were broken, and parts of the framework were smashed. Moissant and his mechanician, Fileux, narrowly escaped injury.

Moissant and his machine are now at Sevenoaks, about twenty miles from Upchurch and an equal distance from London.

SWISS BALLOON COMING.

The Helvetia to Compete In the Race for the Bennett Cup.

BERNE, Aug. 22.—Switzerland will send Col. Schaek and Major Armbruster with the balloon Helvetia to represent her in the international balloon race to begin at St. Louis on Oct. 17.

The race is for the James Gordon Bennett Cup for a long-distance flight.

Col. Schaek has piloted the Helvetia in two races for the Bennett Cup, winning the trophy in the contest of 1908 after a protest to the International Association of Aeronauts, and dividing the second prize in 1909 with the Swiss balloon Azurea.

In the 1908 contest, which started from Schmargendorf, Germany, the Helvetia fell into the ocean off Norway and was towed ashore by a fishing boat. The British balloon Banshee claimed the race, as she made her descent on land, but a protest by Col. Schaek availed, and he obtained the award of the trophy for the Helvetia.

Edward G. Mix of Columbus, Ohio, won the cup last year in the race that started from Zurich.

Aviator Radley's Arrival Delayed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—James Radley, the English aviator, who has entered for THE NEW YORK TIMES-Chicago Evening Post Chicago-New York contest, intended to sail for America on the Caronia to-day, but had to postpone his departure. He will sail on another vessel.

Alfonso Sees Flight by Farman.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain arrived here this afternoon from London and immediately drove in an automobile to Henry Farman's aerodrome at Buc. Mr. Farman explained the principles of his machine to their Majesties and afterward made an exhibition flight in their honor. The King and Queen expressed great delight at the exhibition.

MAY CHANGE DATE OF AVIATION MEET

Board of Governors of Aero Club to Consider Selection of Nov. 20 as Belmont Park Opening.

FAVORS TIMES-POST FLIGHT

Postponement Will Enable Aviators to Make Trip from Chicago Without Clash in Dates.

The dates for the international aviation meet at Belmont Park race track will probably be changed to-day. A special meeting of the Board of Governors of the Aero Club has been called to pass upon important matters in connection with the meet, and the subject of postponing the opening day from Oct. 15 to 20 or 22 will be seriously considered.

The present date of the meet is Oct. 15 to 23. The former date clashes with two important events, the finish of THE NEW YORK TIMES and The Chicago Evening Post flight from Chicago to New York and the aviation meet at St. Louis. There has been a gradual growing sentimeht in favor of a postponement, not only from the aviators, but also from the St. Louis aviation meet management.

Alfred Le Blanc, the French aeronautic expert; Clifford B. Harmon, and Capt. Baldwin are entered in the international balloon race, which is set for Oct. 17. In addition about twelve foreign balloonists and several Americans will take part in the contest, and not a few of these will enter both meets.

The change of date will be a welcome one to the contestants in the Chicago to New York flight. The date for this event is Oct. 8 to 15, and as the latter is the present opening day of the Belmont Park meet, the aviators would find it impossible to attend the initial ceremonies at Belmont Park. Under the contemplated change the entrants would have five days after the last day of the flight to take their machines apart, transport them to Belmont Park, and properly adjust them before Oct. 20.

It is also probable that the change in date will result in several additions to the list of entrants for the 1,000-mile flight from Chicago, as several prominent aviators were desirous of entering THE NEW YORK TIMES-Chicago Post race, but feared they would not be able to finish in time to attend the first two or three days at Belmont Park.

The Wright brothers have entered machines in the St. Louis meet, and as they play a prominent part in the international meet at Belmont Park it is likely that the company controlling the Wrights' business interests will throw the weight of their influence with those favoring a postponement.

The sanction from the International Aeronautic Federation extends to Nov. 2. This enables the Aero Club to start the ten-day meet as late as Oct. 24, which would be on Monday. As the management wants to get two Saturdays on the schedule, the date will probably be Oct. 29 to 29 or 30.

The rearrangements of dates would be particularly gratifying to the foreign aviators, as it opens up the way for them to compete in the Chicago-New York flight. Grahame White, James Radley, who recently broke the speed record in England by flying a mile in 47 2-5 seconds, and Charles G. Haymer of Portsmouth, are among the English aviators who are anxious to enter the long flight, while several Continental aviators of prominence would probably take part in the event of a change of date. This fact will have serious consideration at to-day's meeting.

J. C. McCoy, Chairman of the Contest Committee of the international meet, has been working on the programme, and is expected to submit the list of events to the Board of Governors for approval. This programme has been eagerly awaited by the aviators, so that the entries can be made in the different events.

WANT FUNDS FOR AVIATION.

Aeronautical Society Asks Garden City Company for Accounting.

The Aeronautical Society yesterday through its Secretary, Wilbur R. Kimball, addressed a letter of protest to the Garden City Company threatening to restrain the latter from charging admission to the Mineola aviation field unless an accounting of the money received and expended be made to the association. The letter alleges that:

"When the Garden City Company erected a high fence around the property leased by the Aeronautical Society for experimental purposes, it was without the consent of the society, but that a promise was made to account for all funds and to improve the property. The erection of a grand stand and signs and the leasing of spaces and other privileges has been effected without the consent of the Aeronautical Society, while the public is led to believe that the society is an interested party. In view of the forthgoing if conditions are not improved we shall be obliged to restrain you from further interference with our rights on the property."

FAILS TO END SUGAR STRIKE.

Company Tells Higgenbotham It Will Make No More Concessions.

Magistrate E. Gaston Higgenbotham of Brooklyn met with little success yesterday when, at the request of striking sugar employes, he conferred with the officials of the Havemeyer & Elder plant of the American Sugar Refining Company in the office of the refinery, at Kent Avenue and South Fourth Street.

Vice President S. C. Hooker, Superintendent of Indoor Labor, informed the Magistrate that the company could not offer any more concessions than those outlined to the Rev. William B. Farrell. Mr. Hooker said the refinery had nearly a full force of new men, who had stood by the company and would be retained. Men who had participated in any of the outbreaks would not be given employment under any consideration, he said.

There were several outbreaks during the morning, the most serious at Wythe Avenue and South Fifth Street, where armed Italians waited for employes. Half a dozen were attacked and many shots fired. Policeman Rasch captured Samuel Mazoli of 154 Johnson Avenue. A loaded revolver was found in his possession, and Magistrate Higgenbotham held him for a hearing.

Andrew Krowsky of 53 North Third Street and Antony Abroski of 565 East Forty-ninth Street, Manhattan, followed a policeman whom they thought was a strikebreaker and attacked him in front of the Bedford Avenue Station. They fought Lieut. Wills and Policemen Shaughnessy and Wrightman, giving them a lively tussle before they were overpowered. They also were held on a charge of disorderly conduct.

STEAMBOATS TO BE RESOLD.

Liens on Jones and Saratoga Less Than Represented to Bidders.

Judge Hough of the United States Circuit Court yesterday ordered that the steamboats Frank Jones and Saratoga, which have been operated between this city and Albany by the Manhattan Navigation Company, since their purchase by that company in July, 1909, be offered for sale again under the conditions of the first sale to Edward C. Burns on July 27, 1909. Judge Hough's order was in accordance with a recent decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which held that the boats had been sold under a "substantial misrepresentation."

The boats belonged originally to the New York and Albany Transportation Company and were offered for sale by auction as the result of a suit brought against the company by Capt. George B. Hudson. The Empire Trust Company, in applying for the order for a resale of the vessels, stated that Charles Shongood, the auctioneer, had told bidders on the boats that there were maritime and mechanics' liens against the property which aggregated $60,000 or $65,000.

Of a fact, it was said, the liens against the boats amounted to only about $35,000, the remainder of the larger amount representing a lawsuit. Prospective purchasers, who would have been willing to bid as high as $16,000 for the property which Burns bought in for $7,500, brought the action.

Judge Hough said that in ordering the resale of the property he would direct that the purchase money be returned to Burns and that he be reimbursed for liens extinguished and for repairs, less depreciation. If this proved unsatisfactory, the Judge said, he might send the case back to Special Master John S. Wise.

OLDEST PEN FIRM FAILS.

Leman the First to Import Steel Points —Started with Goose Quills.

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed by George W. and Edward Leman, who composed the firm of George W. Leman & Brother, wholesale and retail dealers in stationery at 51 Fulton Street. Their business was one of the oldest of its kind in the city, having been established by their father eighty years ago.

M. L. Leman set up as a dealer in goose-quill pens and lead pencils in 1830, and he was responsible for the importation of the first steel pens used in the United States. Ever since the close of the eighteenth century there had been much inventive effort in Europe looking toward the replacing of the goose quill, the first attempts in steel meeting with but indifferent success. They were made by bending a flat piece of steel into a tube and then filing it into shape, the point of the two edges forming the slit. A more improved manufacture was developed as early as 1820, and was imported to America later by Mr. Leman.

Mr. Leman died in 1889, but he had been succeeded by the present partners in 1872. For years the firm confined itself to pens and pencils, and it was not until eight years ago that stationery was added.

The bankruptcy petition is filed with liabilities of $2,938 and assets of $1,304, consisting of stock $950, fixtures $100, accounts $239, and cash in bank $15. George W. Leman lives at 48 Sterling Place, Brooklyn.

KILL CAPTAIN; TRY TO SEIZE STEAMER

Two Passengers Make Sudden Attack on the Buckman Off California Coast.

CREW LINED UP ON BRIDGE

But One Desperado Runs When a Revolver Is Snapped at Him—Murderer May Have Jumped Overboard.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 22.—With the Captain dead in his cabin as a result of an attempt by two desperados to hold up and rob his ship at sea, the steamship Buckman arrived to-day from Seattle with George Washington Wise, one of the buckaneers, in irons. French West, the other, is probably drowned.

Since he was captured early yesterday Wise has confessed that he and West planned to murder the officers and crew and to beach the steamship on the coast near Point Blancoe.

This plan would have been carried out had it not been for the cowardice of Wise, according to officers of the Buckman. After holding a shotgun leveled at the Quartermaster and the second mate for three hours he deserted his post.

Seeing the futility of trying to overcome the crew alive, West is believed to have jumped overboard. No one saw his leap, however, and the ship will be thoroughly searched in the hope that the murderer of Capt. Wood may still be on board.

Heavily armed and equipped with cords to be used in tying up the "owl watch," the two men invaded the bridge at midnight, entered the wheel house, and compelled Second Officer Frederick Plath and Quartermaster Otto Kohlmeister to throw up their hands.

Binding Plath and instructing Kohlmeister to hold the vessel's nose toward shore, and leaving the min charge of Wise, West demanded entrance to Capt. Wood's cabin. What reply the Captain gave is not known. From the position of his body it is believed that he was reaching for his revolver as West fired through the door and riddled him with buckshot.

In the meantime Plath strained at his bonds until he could reach the signal cord. He gave the signal to the engine room that there was a fire on board.

Chief Engineer John Califas ran to the bridge. He was met with a command to hold up his hands. He obeyed promptly, and joined the line-up, which now included two-thirds of the crew. West instructed them to hold the bridge rope, which was above their heads.

Califas, watching a chance, jumped over the bridge aft through the skylight into the galley. West went in pursuit of the Chief Engineer, and the men whom he had guarded fled in all directions.

At this juncture Watchman Wilson appeared on the scene with the only revolver besides that in the Captain's cabin. He snapped the weapon twice at Wise, but it failed to explode. This was enough, however, for the weaker of the thugs. He fled, only to meet his partner, who at the point of his shotgun ordered him to cut the wireless connections.

West began shooting whenever a head appeared. Finally a splash was heard and all became quiet on board. At first no trace of either robber could be found. Wise was afterward discovered hiding in his bunk.

According to Wise, he met West on board the troopship Pensacola. They deserted this month and went to Seattle. When they boarded the Buckman they were well equipped with arms and ropes with which to overcome and bind the officers and crew. They planned to beach the Buckman, rob the purser, and to make their way with their booty to shore in a small boat.

The Philadelphia Press says:
This young author has a gift of style and a gift of humor. His manner is leisurely and expansive like the mid-Victorians, and yet he is essentially modern. . . . Undoubtedly, there is an affinity between this young writer and William de Morgan . . . but the younger man is the finer literary artist.

The London News says: Mr. Booth attracts by his insistent humor.

The Boston Transcript says:
A passion for truth, a knowledge of life, and a feeling for nature both animate and inanimate are mingled in him with a very strong imaginative sense.

The Chicago Dial says:
He has a manner almost Meredithian in its richness, but without the Meredithian asperity.

The New Novel by The Author of "The Post-Girl"
By Edward C. Booth

A tender, pathetic, whimsical love story, exquisitely told. Jane, "the doctor's lass," is own sister to Pam, "the post-girl," whom readers and critics declared "more bewitching than Barrie's Babbie."

THE CENTURY CO.

The Salt Lake City Inter-mountain says:
There are passages in Dickens where the mirth bubbles and sings so close to the pathos that one yields to the fascination of the master's charm, . . . But this man Booth crowds one incident on another in the developing of his story until an evening's reading is a perfect feast of literary beauty.

The Norfolk Landmark says:
Mr. Booth writes with a charming fluency and diffusion, rare in modern fiction; and likened aptly to the quality which has given the novels of William de Morgan their grip on public favor. His style is full of richness and the indescribable finesse of genius.

The New York Evening Mail says:
An author of force and power who can carry the reader over large areas of words, with sustained interest.

A cold house is half a home!

It may be uncomfortably hot now, you can't help that. In a few months from now it will be just as extremely and uncomfortably cold—but you can help that! If you want your home not too hot or too cold—but just right—just the way we all want it—a softly even temperature all the day long, and night, too—just place your order now for an outfit of

AMERICAN RADIATORS & IDEAL BOILERS

Not only will you get the full use and enjoyment of all the rooms of the home, but IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators will in a few years pay for themselves in the fuel savings. They are so simple to run and so thoroughly rid the house of ash dust (giving long life to furniture and decorations) that house-cleaning is reduced one-half. IDEAL Boilers are the only heaters so made that all the coal-gases and soot are kept inside the boiler—burned there—thus protecting the family health. No other heating apparatus in any way competes with IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators, hence their rapid and wide adoption in all foreign countries where domestic economy means much. They enable you to reduce the cost of living.

Ask your architect to specify and insist on IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators. Do not take any other. In so important a matter you cannot afford to run any risks, especially so when IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators are so fully guaranteed.

A No. 152 IDEAL Boiler and 265 ft. of 38-in. AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $120, were used to Hot-Water heat this cottage.

A No. 3-25-W IDEAL Boiler and 700 ft. of 38-in. AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $295, were used to Hot-Water heat this cottage.

At these prices the goods can be bought of any reputable, competent Fitter. This did not include cost of labor, pipe, valves, freight, etc., which installation is extra and varies according to climatic and other conditions.

Our catalog (free) has a wealth of concise heating and ventilating information which every owner or tenant—small or large—in town or country—ought to have. LAND DEALER AIDED WHIPPLE'S VENTURES

G. H. Ostrander, Operator in Adirondacks, Says He Indorsed Several of the Official's Notes.

NAMES EX-STATE OFFICERS

And a $200,000 Concern That Sold the State Many Acres and Paid $217,000 Dividends in 3¼ Years.

ALBANY, Aug. 22.—That George H. Ostrander of Albany, an Adirondack land operator, indorsed notes for Commissioner James S. Whipple of the Forest, Fish, and Game Department and was a regular contributor to the Republican State campaign funds was disclosed to-day at the investigation which Commissioners Roger P. Clark and H. Le Roy Austin are conducting by direction of Gov. Hughes into purchases of Adirondack lands by the State.

Ostrander was interested, with others, in the Fair Haven Iron Company, of which Commissioner Whipple was President, an unsuccessful business venture organized during Mr. Whipple's first year as Forest, Fish, and Game Commissioner. The property was sold last year at a mortgage foreclosure sale. Bonds to the amount of $36,440 were issued to pay the company's debts, and of this amount Commissioner Whipple contributed $4,928. Ostrander testified to-day that he had indorsed Whipple's note for half that sum, Whipple securing the balance from Walter C. Witherbee of Port Henry, who was also interested in the Fair Haven Company. The note which Ostrander indorsed was negotiated at the Northville Bank, in Fulton County, of which William Harris was a Director. At that time, Ostrander said, Harris had a large tract of land which he had offered to the State.

Ostrander indorsed another note for Whipple for $1,400, which was discounted at the Albany Trust Company about a year ago, and another for $3,500, discounted at the Manufacturers' National Bank of Troy "when the oil business was bad three or four years ago."

Commissioner Whipple, during his first year as head of the Forest, Fish and Game Department, promoted the Cascades Lakes Club, which later developed into a commercial enterprise. Ostrander said Whipple and ex-Senator Spencer G. Prime of Jay, Essex County, had an option on a large tract of land about ten miles from Lake Placid, on the road to Elizabethtown. They raised $25,000 to purchase the property by securing fifty members at $500 each. The witness took a share at the request of Whipple. The property is now being conducted as a Summer resort hotel by the Cascade Lakes Club Company. The property paid 6 per cent. one year, Ostrander said, but otherwise it had not met expenses.

The late Gov. Higgins was among those who contributed $500 for membership. Others were former Attorney General Julius M. Mayer, Congressman George H. Malby, the late R. L. Fox, ex-Secretary of the Republican State Committe; the late Col. W. F. Fox, State Superintendent of Forests, and Frederick D. Kilburn, ex-State Superintendent of Banks. Kilburn, L. L. Fox, and Col. Fox were also interested in the Fair Haven Iron Company.

"Were the lakes on the property stocked with trout from the Saranac Lake Inn hatchery?" asked Commissioner Austin.

"I don't know," replied Ostrander. "I am not in the fish business."

Ostrander was the promoter of the Raquette Falls Land Company, of which ex-Congressman Louis W. Emerson is President and Ostrander Secretary. This company sold thousands of acres of land to the State, and from September, 1904, to January, 1909, paid dividends of $217,600 on a capitalization of $200,000.

"Did the Raquette Falls Land Company ever make any contribution to campaign funds of political parties?" queried Commissioner Austin.

"It seems to me that the Directors did," answered Ostrander.

Among those interested in this company were Ostrander, George F. Underwood, Patrick Moynehan, and George R. Finch. Ostrander said the subject of political contributions had been discussed at board meetings, and that the Directors had contributed from $50 to $75 each on more than one occasion, but he didn't think that the company was requested as a corporation to contribute.

"Were you ever requested to make a campaign contribution by Commissioner Whipple?" was asked.

"Oh, no," replied Ostrander.

In reply to a question as to whether contributions were made to both political parties Ostrander said:

"Both Moynehan and Finch were ardent Democrats and looked after that end of it. The rest of us were Republicans."

Testimony was later heard regarding the Forest, Fish, and Game Commission's legal department. It was revealed among other things that Fred L. Bell of Glens Falls, who is employed as one of the special counsel of the commission, receives an annual salary of $7,500, while John K. Ward, the general counsel, gets $4,500. The salary of Commissioner James S. Whipple, head of the department, is $6,000.

Mr. Bell, prior to his employment by the State, was attorney for the International Paper Company, and it was brought out that he is still attorney of record in actions against the State, although Mr. Ward, who was on the witness stand throughout the afternoon, said that if such was the case Bell had ceased to have an interest in them.

Commissioner Austin produced a summons and complaint, verified by Mr. Ward, in an action brought by the State against Finch, Pruin & Co., which referred to an agreement Mr. Bell had with George F. Underwood, Vice President of the International Paper Company.

According to this Mr. Bell was "bound to protect any interests which he found Underwood to have in any wild lands in the State of New York."

Mr. Bell's specialty while in the State's employ is taking care of title actions in the northern sections. He was appointed upon Mr. Ward's recommendation. Ward said to-day that he did not know whether Bell was still in the employ of the International Paper Company or not, nor had he made any effort to ascertain whether Bell's agreement with Underwood still continues.

"If it does should we consider him a proper man to be employed by the State?" asked Commissioner Austin.

"If it was anything where the State's interest conflicted I would expect him to sever his relations with the department without further delay," was Ward's reply.

Mr. Underwood is a stockholder in the Racquette Falls Lumber Company. Ward said Underwood was opposed to Bell's employment by the State and had advised against his going with the department, as "he could do better outside."

Mr. Ward was questioned at length as to why certain cases pending in his department had not been pressed for trial, especially as to actions involving title to lands deeded to the State by the Indian River Company, a holding company, in which it was said the International Paper Company, the United Traction Company of Albany, the Union Bag and Paper Company and others are interested. Mr. Ward said he "could not get a court to try these cases."

The witness also testified that he had never heard that Charles Earl of Herkimer, who is under general retainer by the department, was the personal attorney for Daniel F. Strobel of Herkimer, a member of the Republican State Committee.

STONE PILE FOR TWO KISSERS

Men Who Attacked Miss Hudson and Her Fiance Get Heavy Sentence.

Two men who kissed a young woman, Miss Bessie Hudson of 287 East 139th Street, as she was being escorted home, and who beat her fiancé when he objected, on Sunday night, were sentenced yesterday to the Workhouse to break stone by Magistrate Barlow in the Morrisania Court.

The prisoners were Frank Caruso, 24, a shoemaker, of 1,748 Tacoma Avenue, Westchester, and Harry Caunario, 28 years old, of 312 East 149th Street. Leondo Casanio and Congettio Peccano, who also were arrested at the time, were discharged.

Miss Hudson and William Payton, a lithographer, of 145 West 135th Street, the complainants, were walking on Morris Avenue when they were assailed. Payton was badly kicked before he was rescued by Frederick and Matthew Turnbull of 178th Street and Aqueduct Avenue, who were passing in their automobile.

EDISON FOR SOCIALIST PLAN.

Inventor Favors Milwaukee Policy of Municipal Ownership of Homes.

"My message to Milwaukee is that hers is a great opportunity.'

In these words Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, summed up to-night his belief in the new policy of municipal ownership of land and dwellings, advocated by the Socialist administration of Milwaukee.

"The city can buy the land, subdivide and improve it with streets and parks," continued Mr. Edison. "It can build wholesome, comfortable houses, with all modern conveniences, and can put them on the market on a large scale at a cost not to exceed $800 each.

"At these figures the dollar-a-day man can own his own home. The city can make it certain that he will. It can borrow money for 5 per cent. and sell the houses on installments at, say, one-fourth of what these working people are now paying in rents. In this way the city expends nothing and the working people will expend only one-fourth of what they are now paying for unsanitary, uncomfortable, and wretched places of residence."

Mr. Edison was speaking to Walter Thomas Mills, Special Commissioner in Municipal Industrial Enterprises for Milwaukee, who visited him last night at his laboratory in West Orange.

ONLY TWO STATES ALL IN

Oklahoma, with 109 Per Cent. Gain, Is Quite Exceptional—Rhode Island's 26.6 More Nearly Normal.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Columbus, Ind., is not destined to lose any prestige it may have enjoyed during the past decade from being marked on the census maps as the place nearest the centre of population. It will probably continue to be in the vicinity of that mark after the returns from the thirteenth census are all in, unless the estimates of the Census Bureau officials fail. The new figures up to date indicate a fairly even growth in all directions from the present central point.

Only a small percentage of the total population has been announced thus far, but enough is shown by the general trend to justify some generalizations. Probably the most important of these is that the Eastern States are holding their own to such an extent as to indicate that the "pull" of the West will not be sufficient to disturb greatly the present equilibrium. With some exceptions the East is showing as marked a growth as the West. Probably there will not be as pronounced a gain in individual cases, but the average bids fair to be almost if not quite as good.

The Eastern growth is attributable in the main to the development of manufacturing enterprises along the Northern Atlantic seaboard. Up to date the full population of only two States, Rhode Island and Oklahoma, one East and the other West, has been announced. The increase in Oklahoma, amounting to 109 per cent. over the population of the same area in 1900, is phenomenal, and is no indication of the rate of growth either in the West or in the country at large. That of Rhode Island, on the other hand, is more characteristic of natural growth in other sections similarly situated. Still, Rhode Island with her 26.6 per cent. of gain, is believed to be considerably above the average. If the Rhode Island increase should be maintained, the country would show a total of about 96,000,000 people, whereas only about 90,000,000 are counted upon.

Oklahoma's vast augmentation is due to its attainment of Statehood and to the opening up of new and rich territory. The same conditions do not exist elsewhere, for, even though Arizona and New Mexico are coming in as new States, neither of them presents the attractions of Oklahoma in the way of newly available soil. Many sections of the West, however, will do credit to the traditions of that region. Western Texas, for instance, will make a marked gain, as will the State of Washington, in both urban and rural districts. In Oregon, Portland is sure to make a big showing, as are Los Angeles, Berkeley, and Oakland in California.

The mining State of the intermountain region will probably suffer somewhat from the failure to develop important new camps during the past decade. Mining has not fallen off as an industry, but as a rule it is boom conditions attending rich discoveries that swell the census rolls in the mountain. Nevada alone meets these conditions, and several new and important towns will be added as a result of mining developments in that State. Colorado and Utah will show a healthy growth, as will also the two Dakotas. New irrigation enterprises will help out in Idaho, Montana, and Wyoming.

Comparisons will be in the interest of Nebraska, not only because there have been creditable additions, but because of the poor showing made in 1900, due to the padding of the census of 1890. Not so much is expected of Iowa, as this State has lost heavily to other Western States and to Canada. Portions of Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Illinois have suffered from a like cause. The high price of farm lands and the tendency of well-to-do people toward small families are the two principal reasons for this falling away.

The comparatively good showing in the Eastern States is due more to foreign immigration than to natural addition to the native stock. There, as in the West, the disposition in certain classes is to hold the family down to the minimum, with the result that the census rolls show correspondingly more foreign than American names. The immigrant of the present day does not continue onward to the interior as did his predecessors of twenty or thirty years ago. With so much of the desirable agricultural land taken up, the greater attractions appear to be found in the coal mines of Pennsylvania and the factories of New England. To this tendency more than to any other circumstance, will be due the fact that the central point will not be greatly changed.

Of all the Southern States, Texas will make the best showing, but Georgia also will manifest a very creditable growth as will also the two Carolinas. The South will continue to be the most American section, in that it will show the presence of fewer immigrants from abroad than any other portion of the Union.

WILL WED, SAYS F. A. HEINZE.

His Marriage to Bernice Henderson to Take Place About Sept. 1.

Fritz Augustus Heinze, the copper man, at his office at 74 Broadway, yesterday morning confirmed the report that he is to marry Miss Bernice Henderson, who acted the Vampire in the play "A Fool There Was."

He said the ceremony will take place about Sept. 1 and that he and his wife will go to Europe and then visit his copper mine in Butte, Mont. He said the definite date for the marriage has not been decided upon.

MILLS RESUME FULL TIME.

Situation in the Woolen Trade Has Improved.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—Many looms in New England woolen mills which have been idle for weeks or have been operated on short time were set in motion to-day, indicating that business in that industry is improving. While many mills are running on short time, and probably will do so for several weeks, the outlook in Boston mill offices is regarded as brighter. The mixed political situation is looked upon as the principal unfavorable feature.

The American Woolen Company, which owns thirty plants in New England and New York State, has started additional machinery during the past week, and in some of its mills much activity prevails. The company's mills at Moosup, Conn.; Olneyville, R. I., and elsewhere have put several thousand operatives to work on full time, although all of the mills at Olneyville will not be operated in full this month.

In Rockville, Conn., another large woolen centre, the four big mills of the Hockanum Company and the mills of the New England, Springville, and Minterburn Corporations, which have been running on short time schedules since Spring, have resumed operations on full time. The woolen mills at Almyville, Plainfield, Central Village, and other Connecticut points have resumed in full, and at Central Village the Central Worsted Mills are running until 9 P. M. daily. Another mill which will run overtime is the Somerset Mill of Monson, Mass., which to-night went on a day and night schedule.

The Berkshire Woolen and Worsted Company's mills in Pittsfield started work to-day after a long shutdown. The plant was formerly operated by the Peck Manufacturing Company.

After a three weeks' shutdown the Gonic Woolen Mills, in Rochester, N. H., got into motion to-day. If conditions warrant, the American Woolen Company will decrease its idle machinery in Olneyville and at other points gradually.

WOULDN'T WED IN HASTE.

Parents of Syrian Girl Planned It, but She Held to American Custom.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 22.—Registrar of Vital Statistics Charles S. Gall refused to give Miss Mahdia Haider, a particularly attractive Syrian, 19 years old, a marriage license to-day because she would not sign the application unless she were allowed a year to fully make up her mind whether she wished to marry.

Her prospective husband is a dry-goods merchant in Crookston, Minn. He came with the girl and her father and mother to the Registrar's office and asked for a license. Miss Haider was not willing to answer questions.

Mr. Gall explained that the law required the answers. The blanks were finally filled in. Then Mr. Gall asked the girl to sign and swear to the statements. Picking up a pen in a nervous manner she started to write her name, but before she finished she dropped it, crying:

"I won't sign my name. I am being forced into this marriage by my father and I don't want to marry this man. I don't want to go away out West with this man without first becoming better acquainted with him."

She explained tearfully that her parents were following the Syrian custom, but she had been here long enough to know that American girls picked their own husbands. She would sign, she said, if it was agreed that the marriage should not take place for a year and not then if it did not please her.

The father of the girl insisted, but Registrar Gall would not issue the license, and that settled it.

200 VIENNA SINGERS HERE.

Party on the Moltke Will Make a Flying Tour—To be Guests of Taft.

Among the passengers arriving from Naples on the Hamburg-American liner Moltke yesterday were 200 Viennese who have come here on the invitation of several American, German, and Austrian societies in this country.

The party consisted of fifty alumni, fifty active students, fifty guests, including the Principals and professors of the Austrian colleges, and fifty relatives and friends of the students. The young men did not wear the official uniform of their colleges, contenting themselves by wearing purple, blue, or green caps.

Under instructions from Washington all baggage was admitted free and its owners proceeded in automobiles to the Hotel Plaza, where accommodation had been reserved. They were met down the bay by a delegation from the Austrian societies here, headed by Herr Schnarrendorf, who arrived a few days ago to arrange for their stay in this country.

The students will make to-day a sightseeing trip through the city in autos and call at the City Hall, where they will be received by Acting Mayor Mitchel. In the evening a concert will be given at Carnegie Hall, followed by a supper at the Austrian Club.

The visitors will be escorted to-morrow through the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and they will make a trip to Coney Island, leaving in the evening by steamboat for Boston. On Thursday they go to Beverly to pay an official call on President Taft. Other places to be visited include Niagara Falls, Philadelphia, Washington, and Wilkesbarre, where the students will give a concert to honor the American singers there who won the Kaiser prize. They will return to Hamburg on the liner Pennsylvania Aug. 31.

Policeman's Assailant Dies.

James Shields of 1,343 Second Avenue died in the Flower Hospital yesterday after being shot on Sunday morning in front of 331 East Forty-eighth Street, in a fight with the police. Policeman Thomas E. C. Gorman of the East Fifty-first Street Station, who is in the Flower Hospital, has a dangerous bullet wound in his chest, and John Colby of 331 East Forty-eighth Street is in Bellevue Hospital with a bullet wound in his ankle, a prisoner on suspicion of having shot Shields and Gorman.

A Powerful Story!

"The Man Who Found The Truth"

By Leonid Andreyev

It is the confession of a prisoner unjustly sentenced for a murder he did not commit, and it is told in a way that reminds one of Poe at his best. A remarkable story indeed by the author of "Red Laughter," "The Seven Who Were Hanged," "Anathema," &c.

THE porch in summer is good—but not indispensable.

Hot summer evenings need not interrupt your comfortable habits.

Stay in your living room and let an electric fan keep you cool. Don't sit in semi-darkness on the porch or front steps, sighing for a breeze.

The luxurious ease of a Cleopatra, fanned assiduously by her dusky slaves, is today within reach of the humblest.

At the expense of less than a cent an hour for electricity, an electric fan will bring you instant relief from the torrid heat of summer.

Available everywhere—in your dining room, living room, bedroom, kitchen.

Most useful in summer but not idle in winter—can be advantageously used to distribute heat evenly through a room.

RELIEF FOR SECRETARY KNOX.

There are real signs of the end of the revolution in Nicaragua. The capital, Managua, has fallen into the hands of the insurgents and JUAN J. ESTRADA has been proclaimed President of the republic. Should this prove the final triumph of the Estradists it would at any rate for the time being bring much relief to the burdened mind of the head of our Department of State.

There has been much unfavorable criticism of Mr. KNOX in the countries to the south of us for the policy he has pursued during the Nicaraguan troubles. But his errors have been in manner and in speech rather than in real justice. There is no question that the Government which is now apparently on the point of falling, like the one it succeeded, has been violent, arbitrary, oppressive, and hopelessly corrupt. Its conquerors have at least professed abhorrence of its vices and are pledged to real reform. Our Government, though it certainly scolded in a most undiplomatic tone at first, has in reality observed its obligations as a neutral. If the revolution brings in decent and orderly government our neighbors will doubtless forget their formal grievance.

TROUBLED PORTUGAL.

Our latest dispatches indicate that the Government of Portugal is between two fires. Reports of an effort at revolution by the extreme Clericals on the one hand and by the Republicans on the other hand keep the Ministry in a state of anxiety, and they are taking every precaution. The chances are that they will succeed, at least until the elections of next Sunday, in preserving order, but the outcome of that day is very doubtful.

The suffrage in Portugal is, legally, quite restricted. Electors must be able to read and write or pay a moderate tax—500 reis, or 50 cents. The latest statistics show that of the entire population, excluding children under six, a little more than 75 per cent. are unable to read. The number of legal voters is, therefore, hardly more than one-fifth what it would be in a reasonably advanced country. Previous to the killing of the King and the heir apparent in February, 1908, the Government had fallen into the hands of a small clique in the favor of the King. The Premier, Senhor FRANCO, was to all intents a dictator. The Cortes had been dissolved without provision for a new election, quite in violation of the Constitution, and when the country was thrown into confusion by the double assassination, FRANCO fled. An effort has since been made to establish a genuine constitutional monarchy, with a Liberal Ministry and a gradual advance toward a Liberal standard.

There have been many difficulties. The King is a mere boy. The country is poor and loaded with debt and taxation. The annual deficit is usually about $5,000,000, and the debt is nearly $600,000,000. The agricultural population, some 60 per cent. of the 5,500,000, are densely ignorant and their methods desperately backward. While the natural resources, both in land and minerals, are considerable, industry is uncertain and commerce equally so. There are but two cities of over 25,000 in the kingdom, Lisbon, with some 350,000, and Oporto, with about half that number. The population is sparsely spread over the land, the average being only 150 to the square mile, while through the great central provinces it is less than one-third that low average. In such conditions the organization of Government on a substantially democratic basis is a most arduous and uncertain task, because it is practically impossible to develop a definite public opinion.

Probably the most efficient of the parties in the kingdom are the Republicans. They include a large part of the better educated, enterprising, and progressive men. Their leaders have, in the recent past, co-operated with the Liberal Ministry, but the latest advices indicate that they despair of continued harmony and are contemplating the possibility of changing the form of government, either at the polls or by violence. It is even reported that they have secured from the Boy King a sort of promise to abdicate if he is convinced that a majority of his people desire it. If there be such an understanding, the elections on Sunday would be in the nature of a plebiscite and fundamental changes may follow them. But, as we have said, anything in the nature of real democracy must be attended with much risk. It will be easier to establish a republic than to run one.

THE FOREST FIRES.

The conflagration that is spreading over a thousand square miles in Western Montana and Idaho, destroying millions of dollars' worth of property, burning towns and villages, causing scores of deaths, and driving hundreds of homeless fugitives before it, is much like the fires of yesteryear, and like more fires that will sweep the forests this year from Maine to California. The money loss from the present fire is already estimated at $1,000,000, and the Nation will be lucky if it sustains direct damages from loss of timber during the season of less than $10,000,000. The indirect damages—the retarding of forest growth, erosion of the absorptive "sponge" or forest humus that retains snows and rains, torrential floods succeeded by droughts that dry up the water courses and ruin the crops, and the washing of fertile soil to the sea—can hardly be estimated.

The States of Massachusetts and New York have taken the lead in establishing effective measures to protect the forests from fire. They are requiring the disposal of slash by the loggers; they are trimming the felled trees, developing roads, trails, and fire lines, stringing telephone lines through the forests, and connecting systems of lookout stations. They are looking out for sparks from locomotives and from sawmills, enforcing stringent rules about the lighting and abandoning of campfires, instructing careless smokers, and checking the effects of incendiarism and of lightning. The progress made under this régime in New York last year established a record over 1908, when the direct losses from each fire started were reduced by one-half, and many were prevented.

GARNER AND SUSIE.

Dull persons will say that Prof. GARNER'S chimpanzee acquaintance, Susie, is no more alert intellectually than a dozen chimpanzees bred and sold by HAGENBECK, the Berlin menagerie man, who never pretended to a knowledge of chimpanzee etymology, prosody, and syntax. That's the way dull persons talked of old about GALILEO and GIORDANO BRUNO, of BELL when he invented the telephone, and the airmen before they flew. Mr. GARNER is a pioneer in the scientific study of the language of animals hitherto accounted dumb. He is a famous monkey scientist.

Other men, of coarser mold, have trained monkeys as such inferior animals as cats and dogs and seals are trained. GARNER makes friends of monkeys, studies their moods, learns their language, and imparts scraps of their conversation to a wondering world. Of course, he does not tell all he knows. Therein lies the abiding charm of the true scientist. In his jungle experiences GARNER has become well acquainted with twenty-two chimpanzees and nine gorillas. The proportion is about right. Nine gorillas are enough for any man to number among his friends. Gorillas, as we now know from Prof. GARNER, are not bloodthirsty, but they are homekeeping and unsociable, wrapped up in themselves and their families, and generally uncommunicative. Chimpanzees, however, talk freely, are sociable, and excellent subjects for scientific study at close range. Susie, who does everything the most highly educated menagerie chimpanzees do, is affectionate, generous, and can distinguish colors. She is only seven months old, too, but that is older for a monkey than it is for a human girl.

Prof. GARNER does not know that chimpanzees can be taught to talk English, but he knew one who talked French. That is, he could say "feu," and learned that it meant fire. It seems easy to say "feu," though the word is pronounced variously. We are not told whether the chimpanzee used the Vassar or the Paris form. We are not told whether it first said "feu" and then was told that the word meant fire, or first saw a fire and called it "feu." But we do know that Prof. GARNER is employed in a noble mission, to bring the monkeys nearer to man. That is much better than the plan of getting man nearer to the monkeys. The human race may be benefited by accessions of soundhearted monkeys who have led decent lives, but the monkey race could gain nothing from association with men who have devoted much of their energy to trying to act like monkeys.

ONE FOREIGN VIEW OF OUR NAVIGATION LAWS.

A Canadian newspaper has been discussing the order of a Boston corporation for the building in British shipyards of five fine steamships to be navigated under the British flag on a service between ports on this continent. It is a regrettable incident, of course, but this foreign observer does not think that the way to prevent it is to subsidize dearer ships, either directly or by postal subventions. Those are the remedies proposed by many Americans, but The Montreal Gazette thinks the better and cheaper way would be to modify our navigation laws. They reserve the coastwise service to Americans, at extravagant cost to shippers, and at the further cost of abandoning all ocean commerce "going foreign" to foreigners.

A certain wealthy malefactor deliberately incurred a loss which was made up by the railway administered by him in order that the American flag might be kept on the Pacific, but otherwise the American flag is conspicuous by its absence from the currents of international trade. In view of the expensive and dubious methods proposed on this side the border The Montreal Gazette's idea is worthy of thought:

> If Congress could cut loose from all the selfish interests which find the expression of their wants in the navigation laws as they now stand the United States might in the course of time build up a merchant marine. As it is, other countries will continue to profit.

ESPERANTO.

The Esperanto Congress in Washington last week was largely attended and excited a great deal of public interest. The interest is natural. When a body of intelligent men get together for the purpose of promoting a project which is easily comprehended but must seem, to most of their fellow-beings, unpractical and visionary, they are bound to attract a great deal of attention. The comments on Esperanto are generally humorous, but the promoters of the new world language, as it is called, are not humorists, and they are very much in earnest.

They believe that the advancement of civilization would be greatly helped by the use, especially in trade, of a new, universal language, which could be easily learned. But enough of any language can be easily learned, for trade purposes, by one who will apply himself to the task sedulously, and Esperanto cannot be learned without serious application. Of course it is no answer to the arguments of the Esperantists that languages have never been made deliberately, but have been of natural growth. The fact that there is no precedent for Esperanto does not detract from its possible merits.

But time is valuable and the time employed by an English-speaking person in learning Esperanto might be better employed in learning French or German or both. With command of one of those two languages in addition to English he could make his way with little trouble in all civilized countries; with both he would be in touch with the whole world. Then new avenues of culture would be open to him, and the world's literature would be at his command. In time the whole world may have one language, but it will never be Esperanto. The more fervent advocates of the new and agreeable jargon claim too much for it. Its moderate upholders do not convince us of its utility.

ARIZONA'S CONSTITUTION.

The Democrats of Arizona would not have it enter the union of States with a Constitution that reads like a statute book—not yet. The Democratic Convention of Pima County declares in its platform for a "constitutional provision giving to the people the power of direct legislation, through the system denominated as the initiative and referendum." They want it, even at the risk of a Republican President and Congress denying them Statehood because of this insistence. But they refrain from asking that the following things be constitutionally incorporated and intrenched:

> The recall, employers' liability law, the income tax, provision for the full publicity and source of campaign funds by either candidates or committee, which publicity shall be given before and not after elections, the direct primary, the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, the limitation of the tax rate, the abolition of the obnoxious fee system for all offices, and the many recent enactments on the lines of progress and popular right.

This remarkable exercise of self-denial is enjoined because "under the Congressional act our Constitution cannot be effective until approved by a Congress dominated by Aldrichism and Cannonism." Arizona's Democrats would foxily get it approved first, relying upon a provision in the Constitution for its future amendment, which is to be "of the most liberal character." But Arizona need not display such cautious tactics. President ROOSEVELT and a Republican Congress approved the bulky Constitution of Oklahoma when Aldrichism and Cannonism were rampant. ALDRICH and CANNON are now laid low. Mr. TAFT might confidently be expected to approve a more ponderous and "advanced" body of organic law.

THE LOCAL TRADE IN EGGS.

Mr. H. L. PRESTON, editor of The New York Produce News, sends us this item of information and appeal contained in the comment of his journal of Saturday:

> New York receives over 4,000,000 cases, or 1,440,000,000 eggs yearly, and there are consumed an average of 80,000 cases, or 26,800,000 eggs per week in New York. The money involved in the wholesale trade is over $25,000,000 a year. Do Mayor GAYNOR and his administration, which are at present in high favor, want to cripple such an industry?

He adds that in his opinion it would not only be "impracticable to sell eggs at wholesale by weight," but would involve injustice to the consumers, upon whom would be assessed the extra expense of 10 cents a case for the weighing. We think the consumers could endure the distribution of the charge upon a caseful of eggs, but Mr. PRESTON'S statement that the wholesale selling of eggs by weight would be "impracticable" interests us.

Why have the merchants of Cleveland, Ohio, found it practicable, insomuch that they have voluntarily begun wholesaling and retailing their eggs by weight? And how about the case of Denver, where the custom is enforced by law? We should like to know, too, why the dealers in this commodity in New York appeal to an executive officer against his enforcement of the plain wording and intent of the city's ordinance? Why don't they ask the Aldermen to change the ordinance?

BONDS AND STOCKS.

Almost on the same day that the Public Service Commission rejected the plan of one traction company to issue securities without nominal par in value it authorized another company to issue bonds at 80. In the present state of the money market the Commission realized that the discount on the bonds was necessary to make them attractive to those whose money is wanted. This is approved by experience, a discount on the principle affording a finer adjustment of interest than a variation of rate of payment. By the discount system interest can be varied to several places of decimals, and customarily bids are made so, whereas a variation of even one-quarter in the rate of interest is too coarse for practical finance.

Nevertheless it is common for Legislatures to insist on enacting that bonds shall be floated at a certain rate of interest, rather than at a price to yield the same rate. The Commission has taken the approved course regarding bonds, but is slow to perceive that the same principle applies to stocks. The discount on shares represents the risks of the investment, and in a normal money market represents the attraction it is necessary to offer to those who prefer shares to bonds. It is anomalous to find the par value more closely adhered to in the case of shares than of bonds. And it is futile, since even if the par is exact at the moment of issue, it varies instantly on every business day, and with every fluctuation of conditions affecting values. Under the present conditions of the traction business the discount on shares must be considerable to attract any new money. And the Commission has in its wisdom rejected the only plan which possessed the power of attracting further cash from shareholders who might be induced to throw good money after bad to keep life in their unfortunate venture.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Venerable Symbol Threatened.

Everybody, of course, is in sympathy with the movement to clear the city sidewalks of obstructions, so as to give their owners, the general public, full use of their property. But why should the height of barber poles be limited to five feet? If placed where they do not violate the law, as they ought to be, it would seem as if the barbers might be allowed to use their own judgment in the construction of these ancient symbols. They have never shown any inclination, as have so many other builders of signs, to offend the sensitive eye by going to outrageous lengths for the purpose of attracting attention to their business, and they can be trusted, safely enough, to show a like moderation in the future.

One of the few survivals of days when literacy and not illiteracy was exceptional and every trade, profession, and branch of commerce had a well-known signal, the barber pole has its special interest for those to whom it recalls the fact that surgery and shaving were once in the same hands. For though patriotism now, in this country at least, usually overcomes tonsorial history and adds blue to the red and white stripes that once formed a conventionalized representation of the bared arm bandaged for the venesector's supposedly beneficent lancet, one can still see the significance of the sign if possessed of a sufficiently active imagination, and wonder pleasantly at the changes which have raised the surgeon so high in the world's respect—and terror—while leaving the man who used to do his work in the leisure moments of another task about where he has been since the beginning of legend.

Just why that is it would be rather hard to tell, for though the reasons that make and keep a man a barber are incomprehensible outside of the profession, the humor with which they are viewed is usually of a kindly nature, and tips are given to them with less begrudging than to any other class of custom-licensed blackmailers. They are, as a rule, a rather likable lot, knowing many things, not a few of which are so, and their traditional volubility is not only under good control, but it is rarely indiscreet. Certainly barber poles ought to be big enough for visibility at a considerable distance, for they are invitations to cleanliness or to such approximation to it as circumstances beyond the barber's control will permit.

Accidents Mostly Avoidable.

Yesterday, as on every Monday morning, this and other newspapers had to give prominent place and much space to telling of the many people who had suffered death or injury the day before from what it is convenient, but far from accurate, to call automobile accidents. In other days the number of these disasters hat occur on Sunday would be interpreted as deserved punishment for misuse of the Sabbath, but now the adequate and accepted explanation is that on that day more automobiling is done than in all the rest of the week, and nobody sees in the phenomenon anything except an increase of mishaps proportioned to the multiplied opportunities for them.

Alarming as is the weekly list, however, a careful reading of it will disclose that it gives almost no basis for holding the automobile a dangerous vehicle. Practically every one of the so-called accidents comes in the avoidable class, and is due, not to any fault or weakness of the machine, but to the negligence, ignorance, or recklessness of the drivers. Not one in a hundred of the people hurt would have had any trouble had they and other automobilists shown a greater amount of care or an easily attainable skill. There should be no collisions between motor cars or with railway trains, and of breaks or failures in the machine itself the vast majority have no worse effect than the stopping of the car and its refusal to go any further.

That "accidents will happen" is, of course, as true of automobiling as of every other activity, but these accidents are far too numerous, and there are few indeed of them for which somebody is not directly responsible to an extent that verges close to criminal culpability—or into it. There are people who have run automobiles for years without injuring themselves or anybody else, and though good luck plays some part in the establishment of such a record, the part is a small one, and to equal it only competence and caution are required. This does not mean never running fast, for speed is not in itself dangerous if made in proper places and with a machine that is well-constructed, cared for properly, and handled with discretion. Everything considered, it is time to stop talking about automobile accidents as if they were the necessary and inevitable incidents of automobiling, and to regard them as what ninety-nine in a hundred are—the direct result of misusing a machine that can be controlled better than the most docile of horses.

Expectations Raised Too High?

Doubt is expressed by The Medical Record as to the conclusiveness of the evidence on which is based the claim that in "606," the complex arsenical compound recently discovered and tested in Germany by the eminent EHRLICH and his now almost equally famous assistant, HATA, there has been found a specific remedy, at once harmless and almost instantaneous in its action, for one or more of the most dreadful maladies with which humanity is afflicted.

The Record admits that the source of the announcement gives it great weight and warrants high hopes, nor does it deny the accuracy of the statement that 2,000 cases treated by the discoverer have shown either cure or improvement, with, as yet, no incidental bad effects. It notes, however, that other experimenters with the new drug have not been so fortunate in avoiding troublesome or dangerous after consequences of administering "606," and it recalls that though atoxyl, also an arsenical compound, was at first believed to be a safe as well as a sure exterminator in the human body of the trypanosome, which causes sleeping sickness, experience has shown that total blindness and grave paralyses not infrequently follow its use.

The difficulty in all these cases is to find something that will destroy a certain parasite, bacterium, or protozoid, itself a bit of protoplasm, and yet will spare every like cell and tissue of the host. This is possible, but not probable, in the opinion of The Record, and it advises doctors to wait a while and see what happens to EHRLICH'S 2,000 patients before they trust "dimethyldioxarsenobenzoldichlorhydrate," to give "606" its full and appalling name, too confidently. There is such a thing as curing a disease and killing its victim. This is the voice of conservatism—a very familiar voice in medical history. It has been raised as often to the hindering of progress, perhaps, as to the quenching of false hopes and the refutation of false beliefs.

BAD VAUDEVILLE.

The Crusade Against Bad Moving Pictures Might Be Extended.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The recent crusade against the moving-picture shows leads one to believe that it is time equal publicity were given to the evils of the cheap vaudeville that is now generally combined with them.

The other evening I had occasion to enter one of the most successful of the open-air shows in the Bronx. After a number of more or less questionable pictures had been shown, a number of cheap vaudeville acts was presented. The stupidity, rank incompetence, and utter vulgarity of the language used in some of these acts were certainly not complimentary to the taste or morals of the American audiences that tolerate them.

But the star feature of the bill was what the management was pleased to call a "Battle Royal." This consisted in placing some half dozen tramps of the neighborhood within a ring and permitting them to pummel and slug each other, while the mob howled with delight as they saw five ruffians unmercifully beat a sixth, and this was permitted in a city where a prizefight between professionals was stopped by an oversensitive Acting Mayor. DUTIES OF A PRESIDENT.

Would Like to Know Just What They Are.

Will some one kindly inform me, definitely, what the duties of the President are; what "public business" is, and what "time off"—not vacation, strictly speaking—is generally conceded as permissible for attention to matters of political issue?

I realize that the party in power needs holding together for its own welfare, but I cannot help thinking that the Government of this country, as originally established, had in contemplation the welfare of the people, not the welfare of a certain set of the people; and that the President's function was designed to represent that Government. By this I mean a republican form of government, not one of oligarchic form.

Should the President of these United States be constituted a party leader? Should he be placed under other necessity than that of performing service as the head of Government?

Do the duties of a Mayor of an important city bear any resemblance to those of a President of a republic? CURIOUS.

New York, Aug. 21, 1910.

The Vice President in Politics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With criminations and recriminations filling the air, the ordinary citizen is going about with the thought that he feels humiliated. And why? That the Vice President elected to represent all the people has allowed his name to be used in a local party caucus, and since then bandied about in all kinds of discussions.

Our National officers, while occupying their positions, should be scrupulously careful to be reserved in their demeanor and respect and preserve the proprieties and dignities of the official positions they occupy. They should seek to elevate, not to lower. In the present case, the country has received a decided shock at the failure to recognize a proper propriety.

A Pause for Col. Roosevelt.

The indorsement of Assemblyman Marvin A. Greenwood's opposition to Mr. Hughes's direct nomination fetish by the Wayne County caucus by a vote of 243 to 65 should give Col. Roosevelt pause.

The Nebraska State Convention put the chloroform cone on Mr. Bryan and his county option legislation by a vote in just about such a ratio. Does the Republican "peerless leader" purpose to defy the lethal cornucopia by making a fight in his State Convention for another silly panacea for all our social ills?

The Voters with Roosevelt.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit an old Republican who voted for Fremont and every subsequent Republican President to heartily second your views as expressed in your article in Saturday's issue urging Col. Roosevelt to make a fight.

The people would be only too anxious to sustain him for effective reform, and to squelch the Barnes-Woodruff alliance as they did Aldridge in his district. The voters are showing a little disgust of the machine and bossism.

Beer and the Census.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The temperance or prohibition people may indeed derive much encouragement from the census returns of the week just past. The closest rivalry has for many years existed between the cities of Detroit and Milwaukee. So close, indeed, that a change of 400 people from the larger to the smaller city would have reversed their respective positions. Then came an era in which certain liquor interests neglected to make Detroit famous, and the very next census shows Detroit to be ahead of her former rival by the handsome sum of 92,000, or 25 per cent. St. Louis, too, shows a gain of less than 20 per cent. B.

Ambitious St. Louis.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The census returns from St. Louis show that the One Million Club of that city fell just 312,971 short of its ambitions. However, to aim high is always commendable.

THE RIGHT TO BEAR ARMS.

Would Not Take It Away as a Preventive of Crime.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is not pleasant to take up what seems to be the unpopular side of a matter under discussion, but your editorial article of the 17th and Mr. Goldberg's letter on carrying firearms seem to me to be based on wrong premises.

When a man has made up his mind to set so far at defiance the laws of his country and all considerations of right and wrong, how much consideration is he likely to give to a city ordinance prohibiting the carrying of concealed weapons? And if he could not buy the firearms here, would it be much trouble for him to run up to some of the towns in Connecticut or Massachusetts, where they are made, and where no such restrictions can ever prevail? Or, worse yet, if he couldn't get firearms, think of the numerous and (to the average man) far more certain implements he could buy in any hardware store! A butcher's cleaver, a reaping hook, a knife, or a sharpened icepick would make a more deadly weapon in the hands of most assassins than a revolver, for the simple reason that accurate shooting with the latter weapon is next to impossible except after a long period of practice or at very close range. If Mayor Gaynor had been hit in the neck with a sharp cleaver he would not be recovering.

Of all the short-sighted notions, this idea of blaming the instrument for the crime seems to me the worst. It is a good deal like a dog which is struck with a stick biting the stick instead of the person who attacks him. What is needed is more prompt and certain punishment for the murderers, and the closing of the avenue through the insane asylum to liberty, the road that is so easy to tread when the murderer has wealth.

The trouble with legislation against carrying weapons is that the law-abiding citizen pays attention to it, while, as before pointed out, the criminal does not. I should think the hold-up man and murderer would be highly in favor of having his victim thus disarmed. The criminal would be careful never to have a "gun" about him except for the brief time when he was "on a job," so that the chances for causing him annoyance by a rigid enforcement of such a law would be slight. On the other hand, a citizen whom circumstances made a likely object of attack would have to go armed all the time, in order to be prepared when the time came.

But there are few persons who would find it necessary or agreeable to go about continually with a revolver in their pockets. The smallest revolver that is really an effective weapon makes a heavy and uncomfortable lump in one's pocket, and in any event it is probable that one whose business puts him in constant danger of attack would not have a great deal of trouble in getting a permit. But there are frequent occasions when you, or I, or our sisters or daughters, may be exposed for brief periods to situations where attack might mean the loss of money, life, or honor. Having no permit, nor time to get one, is it right for us or those dear to us to walk unarmed into such perhaps unavoidable situations?

Finally, I am not a lawyer, but I cannot understand how such ordinances stand in court, in view of the Constitutional provision regarding the carrying of arms. The Constitution does not say that "the right of citizens to carry arms shall not be abolished," but even says this right "shall not be infringed." If these city ordinances do not infringe that right, then I don't know what would.

A UNIVERSAL TONGUE.

Is Not Sure It Will Be Esperanto, but It Will Come.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A universal language is imperatively needed. What shall it be? Can one of the existing languages be adopted for this purpose? German is out of the question on account of its difficulty. Mark Twain said that it ought to be called a dead language, for only the dead had time to learn it. French is easier in some respects. Still it takes a long time to acquire the art of writing correct French, and the pronunciation presents almost insuperable obstacles. English is grammatically the simplest of the three. But the antiquated and misleading spelling of English makes it difficult for foreigners. If English were spelled phonetically or even with the moderate simplification advocated by Mr. Carnegie and others, it would be better fitted to become a universal language.

What is required is a language copious enough for practical purposes, freed from irregularities, simple enough in its grammar to be learned in a short time. Perhaps the new artificial language called Esperanto meets these requirements. If not, something better can be devised. At all events it seems safe to predict that a universal language is coming and that when it comes it will be a great instrument of civilization.

A STATUE TO HAMILTON.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Anent the placing of a statue of George III. at Bowling Green, indicative of very bad patriotic taste, if some historical figure must be honored why not let that one be Alexander Hamilton?

Too little honor—practically none—has been given the man responsible for the financial system of the United States; the man whom history records as the close friend and adviser of Gen. George Washington. It is surprising that he has not been honored in some fitting manner.

The Sons of the Revolution have acquired Fraunces's Tavern at Pearl and Broad Streets, where Alexander Hamilton, as a student, made the speech that sounded the death knell to British rule. Fraunces's Tavern has been restored to the extent that nothing remains of historical significance but the location and name, and has degenerated to the dignity (?) of being just a cafe. Everything is modern. Even the old prints have disappeared. Boston is preserving historical spots. Why do not New York and other cities do the same?

Bowling Green would be an admirable site for a monument to Alexander Hamilton, as it is in the vicinity of Fraunces's Tavern. He belongs to us, and Americans should honor his memory as they have that of Washington and Lafayette.

Reasons for Prohibition.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

For the benefit of Mr. Brown, who offers a challenge to any Prohibitionist to make "a concise, logical statement in favor of the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages," prohibition has a purely economic side to it, one that doesn't touch the personal habits of the individual at all. The liquor traffic exists by privilege extended to it by the people's vote. It gives no adequate return to any one for the money it takes, (some $2,000,000,000 per year, in the United States,) but, on the contrary, it is the biggest factor in filling our penal institutions which are supported by the taxpayers. Let the liquor traffic attempt to pay for the incarceration and care of the subjects it sends to the penal institutions, and it could not live—it would become bankrupt in short order. Mr. Brown no doubt knows this.

Mr. Brown is quite right in saying that "Liquor isn't the cause of anything." Neither is his "automobile" nor Mr. McNeill's "axe" the cause of anything, but they are dangerous means of destruction in the hands of some people. It isn't liquor that the Prohibitionists are after, but the traffic, which debauches mankind, pollutes our politics, and, last, but not least, fills our penal institutions without paying its share. Almighty bad business for Uncle Sam, and, as one of the Directors in his great company, I object.

DROP BULLETINS FROM MAYOR GAYNOR

Physicians In Hospital Think He Has So Far Recovered No More Are Necessary.

SITS UP MORE THAN AN HOUR

Voice Has Improved and Doctors Now Have No Fear for Strength of His Vocal Organs—Gallagher's Case.

Mayor Gaynor's rapid recovery was assured last night when it was announced that no more bulletins were to be issued, the doctors believing they were no longer necessary. The patient awoke at 7 o'clock in the morning after a refreshing sleep of ten hours, and after a hearty breakfast sat in his big armchair for forty minutes conversing with his physicians.

In the afternoon he sat up for an hour and a quarter joking with his male nurse, Luke Clarke, about a gold watch that was given to him last Saturday by Samuel Keller, partner of City Chamberlain Charles H. Hyde, for the kindness and consideration he had shown to the Mayor. His voice has improved to such an extent that the doctors no longer feel any apprehension as to the ultimate strength of his vocal organs.

Charles T. Dunning of Goshen, N. Y., a former member of the Assembly, was one of the visitors who called to see the Mayor, and he felt very much disappointed when he was told that he could not see him. Other visitors were Tax Commissioner Edward Kaufman and Jacob Katz.

Gallagher, who has been in the county jail awaiting the outcome of his murderous attack on the Mayor, was apparently much relieved yesterday when he was informed of Mayor Gaynor's rapid recovery.

Gallagher's case is likely to come before the Grand Jury early in September, and he will undoubtedly be indicted on two separate charges of assault with intent to kill. Besides the shooting of Mayor Gaynor he will have to answer for the wounding of Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards.

Mayor Jacob Haussling of Newark, N. J., sent to Mayor Gaynor yesterday a letter congratulating him on his progress to health. The letter read:

"I beg leave to express some small part of the gratification felt by the people of your sister city at your fortunate recovery to health. Your work lies in New York, but, in a real sense, you belong to the whole country, and your fellow-executives everywhere must acknowledge, as I do, a debt of inspiration and example."

B. R. T. PROFIT $2,572,219.

Carried 569,438,733 Passengers Last Year, an Increase of 39,000,000.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company in the last year carried 569,438,733 passengers, an increase of more than 39,000,000 passengers over the previous year. The annual report issued yesterday shows that 151,279,806 rode on transfers, 10,000,000 more than the year before.

The gross earnings of the company for the twelve months ended June 30 were $20,002,929, an increase of $1,212,467. The net earnings were $9,180,537. The surplus, after the payment of charges, was $2,572,219, out of which $1,906,286 was distributed in dividends.

The operating expenses were $11,726,392, an increase of $331,737. Improvement was shown in several important items, but the charges for maintenance of track and equipment were larger than the previous year. Portions of the elevated structures were reinforced and trolley tracks rebuilt. A total of 4.8 miles of new track were added, increasing the mileage to 606.

Under the pension fund established this year twenty-six employes were retired. The combined expenditures for damage suits and legal expenses decreased $207,858. Damage settlements and judgments were 2.66 per cent. of the gross earnings. The legal and claim department expenses were 1.43 per cent.

CONFER ON SUBWAY CLAIMS.

Arbitration Resumed of Contractors' Bills for $6,000,000 Extra Work.

It was learned at the office of the Public Service Commission yesterday that conferences are under way for the settlement of the claim for some $6,000,000 against the city for extra work on the Interborough Subway. The claimants are John B. McDonald, the original contractor, and the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company, which took the work over. Under the provisions of the original Subway contract elaborate provision was made for the arbitration of disputed claims for extra work, when the city and the contractors could not agree.

The extension of the Broadway branch to 242d Street or Van Cortlandt Park was an extra under the original agreement, and there have been many extras since. One now in progress is the lengthening of the station platforms, for which $1,000,000 has been appropriated by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and $500,000 for a contract which extends from Brooklyn Bridge south to South Ferry and to Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn.

FLEET LEAVES NEWPORT.

Crowds Cheer the Battleships as They Sail for Their Battle Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—The Atlantic fleet put to sea late this afternoon for battle practice off the Virginia coast as a preliminary to the Fall target practice. The shore was crowded with spectators and dozens of pleasure boats escorted the fleet out of the harbor. Aboard the battleship North Dakota, a party of guests and her crew waved adieu to the departing ships as they steamed away, led by the flagship Connecticut.

There was no time to-day for the officers and enlisted men to enjoy any more of the hospitality of Newport and its Summer visitors. Every moment was used for preparations for sea and the taking in of stores. As the fleet passed out Jamestown with its Summer residents gave the sailors a hearty send-off, Mrs. Schroeder leading the women in waving flags. Very few men overstayed their leaves, and their conduct ashore during their stay was admirable.

The North Dakota sails on Wednesday. She will make a short cruise for the shaking down of her crew and will later conduct her official speed trials.

BACK FROM EUROPEAN CRUISE

Squadron Which Took Midshipmen to Foreign Ports In Chesapeake Bay.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 22.—The naval practice squadron from Annapolis, composed of the battleships Iowa, Indiana, and Massachusetts, passed in the Virginia Capes early to-day from an all-Summer practice cruise in European waters, with the midshipmen aboard, for whom the cruise was made. After anchoring in Lynn Haven Roads for forty-five minutes the squadron proceeded up Chesapeake Bay for Annapolis.

A wireless dispatch from the Iowa announced the death of Midshipman Richard R. Landy from peritonitis. Midshipman Landy entered the Naval Academy a year ago from Tennessee.

BOBBY BURNIT LIKED AS A STAGE FIGURE

EDDINGER LEADS GOOD CAST

A Story-Book Play Well Made by Winchell Smith from George Randolph Chester's Popular Novel.

BOBBY BURNIT, a comedy, in four acts, by Winchell Smith, from a novel by George Randolph Chester. Republic Theatre.

A Young Woman.....Frances Savage

It was inevitable that so popular a hero of fiction as the Bobby Burnit of the George Randolph Chester stories would ultimately settle upon a stage career, only time, place, and general conditions remaining at to be determined. And so last night at the erstwhile Belasco Theatre, now once again The Republic, Bobby Burnit in the very agreeable person of Mr. Wallace Eddinger proved that, contrary to all the copy-books, luck does play an awful part in business.

Mr. Winchell Smith, in turning the stories into a comedy, has at least not erred in making one of those startling changes in character which suggest a pantomimic transformation. And though Bobby Burnit must ultimately make a success, in order to preserve the general interest and to win his sweetheart, he is pretty much as cheerful an idiot in business at the finish as at the start. However, through a fortunate combination of circumstances, and one stroke of melodramatic genius which no business man could possibly have thought of, and would not have taken advantage of if he had, Bobby Burnit finishes with flying colors, to the eminent satisfaction of all his friends and the discomfiture of his enemies, of whom at least three are as march-conspirators as anybody could ask for in comedy-drama.

Mr. Smith's new play belongs to that old form and is about as plausible. A story-book play it is, in fact. And it suggests one of the admirable conveniences of this busy modern life, when so many people haven't time to read current fiction. Nor is it necessary. For, like Bobby Burnit, all of the best sellers are sure to get to the stage eventually.

Obviously, in a play of this sort which runs for four acts, there must be thin spots, but the general effect is agreeable enough, and there are several adroitly managed scenes. Bobby's sudden departure to play polo at the very moment when he has announced his intention of settling down earnestly to work brings an amusing tag for the first act, and though the second, with its business meeting, in which Bobby is finally made to realize just what a fool he is, ends rather tamely, there is a good melodramatic force to the third. Here the play approaches burlesque in a scene in which Bobby turns the tables on one of his enemies by forcing him to believe that he has killed a man, but the earnestness of the actors carries it to success.

Of these Mr. Wallace Eddinger, the featured member of the cast, shows not only a remarkable amount of boyish charm and enthusiasm, but is able to get comedy values through delicate readings, and the serious note, when necessary, through a well simulated sincerity. Mr. Eddinger's suggestion of nervousness and forced courage, in the presence of a man whom he fears in fact, and before whom, if he dared, he would tremble, is quite a remarkable bit of acting and is admirably sustained.

The scene gets an added value from the tensity and directness of Mr. Thomas Findlay's playing.

The situation involves the visit of Sam Stone to Bobby Burnit's room after the boy has threatened to publish the man's record in his newspaper. A large share of Burnit's losses have been due to Stone's crooked deal with him, but the man has a political pull and no one has been able to reach him. He prefers to stop the story and offers to compromise with the boy, but is met with a stern refusal. This scene, leading up to a later visit from another of the men who has been a party to the fleecing of young Burnit, brings the melodramatic relief to a story which is otherwise rather placid, though amusing.

When all is said and done, the story of Bobby Burnit is just another slaughter of the innocent until the playwright helps him out. Bobby is, in fact, a variant of the Bertie the Lamb type of "The Henrietta" and various other plays, but he is distinct enough in drawing and acting to be interesting and enjoyable.

Mr. Smith, who if he keeps on at the present pace will have plays in most of the theatres in New York, has done his work excellently, and the manner of the introduction of the various letters of Bobby's defunct father is a little stroke of genius. Each one marks a laughter point.

In the cast, which is generally even and satisfactory, John Webster and George A. Wright are conspicuously excellent, while Fred Strong, John D. O'Hara, Charles Lane, Henry Carlin, and Ruth Rose do the lesser parts very nicely. Miss Ethel Clayton is a pleasant but rather insincere heroine whose speech needs training.

SOCIETY AT HOT SPRINGS.

Special to The New York Times.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Aug. 22.—Mrs. Benjamin C. Tilghman of Philadelphia gave an al fresco tea at the Casino this afternoon, assisted by Mrs. Walter McMichael. BEALS WRIGHT BEATS M'LOUGHLIN EASILY California Tennis Crack Driven Back from Net by Veteran's Hard and Deep Smashes.

STRAIGHT SETS FOR VICTOR

Ex-Champion Never Permits Westerner to Engage in His Short Game, at Which He Is Best.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—Driven back from his favorite and invincible position at the net, Maurice E. McLoughlin, the phenomenal California tennis player, bowed to the superior skill of his older rival, Beals C. Wright, ex-champion and internationalist, who defeated him in three straight sets, 6—3, 6—3, 6—2, to-day in the sixth round of the thirtieth all-comers National lawn tennis championship tournament on the turf courts of the Casino. At no stage was the young Californian allowed to even attain a semblance of his game by Wright. The latter worsted him at every turn by a strategy that was new and baffling to McLoughlin. At the back of his court McLoughlin was powerless. His game, so fast and brilliant a year ago, had recently been sacrificed to the coaching of another who had not imparted enough skill to the Californian to make amends for the lack of aggressive quickness.

Except for its display of marvelous forcing play on the part of Wright the match was relatively poor tennis. McLoughlin was never allowed to play the game that made him the sensation here a year ago. On the other hand, Wright surely revealed the possibilities of the old champion coming back, and he is hailed as the challenger of William A. Larned, the five-times holder of the National title, by the followers of the game, in which respect he duplicated his record of 1908. By a masterful showing of skill he reversed the defeat that McLoughlin administered to him at Longwood a month ago.

In the other matches by which the original field of 181 competitors that started a week ago narrowed to four survivors, William B. Cragin, Jr., of Long Island champion, surprised many by taking a set from the only remaining Californian, Thomas C. Bundy. The final score was 4—6, 6—4, 6—3, 6—3, Cragin's lobbing and his fast drives at times proving disconcerting to Bundy, whose steadiness and rapid net play finally allowed him to win. E. H. Whitney, the Harvard interscholastic winner, coupled with Wright, as he won in straight sets, as did Frederick C. Colston of Maryland, who for the second time in two weeks defeated Dean Mathey of Princeton, 6—4, 8—6, 6—4.

The conditions could not have been improved upon for the test of the old champion of the East and the young master of the West, for the court was lightning fast and there was no breeze to carry lobbs sailing in directions not intended. Still, the method by which Wright was to overwhelm his opponent did not necessarily take account of these. Wright played a continual forcing game. How well he managed it may be revealed by the fact that under the merciless drives and changes of pace McLoughlin's errors of outs and nets mounted up to proportions doubling Wright's figures. It was only at placement that the Californian surpassed his famous adversary. For the three sets Wright's outs totaled 22 to McLoughlin's 45, while his nets were 15 to 34. McLoughlin score 23 placed shots, to 14 for Wright, and relatively these show the times that he attained to those flights of skill and speed which made him the sensation of last season.

McLoughlin started the service and as he came up to the net for two of his powerful smashes for the first two points the crowd believed that he would again revel in one of his smashing games. Those two smashes steadied Wright. Lobbing high and driving perfectly for deep shots thereafter Wright made it impossible for McLoughlin to get within smashing range. In addition the ex-champion covered his court on the run and kept up an ever changing pace, so that as McLoughlin wavered under the rapid fire and movement Wright led by 3-love. Unable to play his smashing game at the net McLoughlin was at sea at deep court. That indeed was the whole story of the match. Compelled to attempt an unfamiliar game the California pluckily kept on, but his outs and nets piled up against him and swamped him.

The surprising thing was that the Californian's service, once so terrible, possessed no terrors for Wright. He handled it almost as he wished. On the other hand Wright broke through almost whenever he pleased, while the Californian scored against the ex-champion's service but once in the first set and twice in the second. From beginning to end Wright by his strategy held his young and brilliant rival at his mercy. He played out the match in superior form at every turn. McLoughlin was always worsted, for his speed was snuffed like a candle whenever it threatened to flash.

The star match of the semi-finals tomorrow will bring Bundy, the last of the Californian group surviving in the tournament, against Frederick C. Colston of Maryland on the grand-stand court. On the stretch of turf beside the Racquets Building Wright will meet E. H. Whitney, the youthful expert, who won the National inter-scholastic championship honors for Harvard, and both are scheduled for the morning. During the day William A. Larned practiced for his defending of the championship against Carlton R. Gardner and others. The summary:

All-Comers National Championship Singles.—Sixth Round—E. H. Whitney defeated C. E. Cutting, 6—2, 6—3, 7—5; Beals C. Wright defeated Maurice E. McLoughlin, 6—3, 6—3, 6—2; Frederick C. Colston defeated Dean Mathey, 6—4, 8—6, 6—4; Thomas C. Bundy defeated William B. Cragin, Jr., 4—6, 6—4, 6—3, 6—3.

COLUMBIA OPENS SEASON.

Billy Watson and "Girls from Happyland" Applauded.

The second season of burlesque and vaudeville began at the Columbia Theatre yesterday, with Joe and Lou Hurtig's "Girls from Happyland" company in two burlesques. This organization is headed by Billy W. Watson, a comedian of unction and a manner of making his jokes count, who is assisted by several other comedians and a group of singers and dancers better trained and better dressed than is usual in burlesque shows.

The two main sections of the entertainment consisted of a one-act musical comedy, called "Two Hot Knights," which title had nothing whatever to do with the antics of the company, and a three-scene burletta, entitled "The Gay Modiste." In the first part comedy scenes seemed to be introduced for the purpose of allowing the chorus members to change their costumes, but the audience enjoyed the comedy and applauded it heartily. The second section told a consistent story, interspersed with singing and dancing.

Between the halves five vaudeville turns were given—a juggling act by the three Bannans, singing and dancing by Margie Austin and Mabel Blake, a musical act by Garden, Sommers, and Nicodemus, an acrobatic turn by two girls calling themselves Black and White, and a dancing turn by the Freeman brothers.

"The Nigger" to Go on Tour.

William A. Brady has arranged with Lee Shubert and Winthrop Ames, representing The New Theatre, for the touring rights to Edward Sheldon's play, "The Nigger." Guy Bates Post will play the rôle he originated with The New Theatre company last season, and Florence Rockwell will have the character taken by Annie Russell. The tour will include the South and West and those cities where The New Theatre company did not appear last Spring.

Jimmy Valentine in Town Again.

"Alias Jimmy Valentine," with his criminal associates, his reforming sweetheart, and the rest of the characters of the Paul Armstrong play, returned to Wallack's Theatre last night to resume the run interrupted by hot weather. The audience, that had almost a "first-night" appearance, welcomed H. B. Warner and the other members of the cast, who were almost without exception friends of last season, and the play moved smoothly to its exciting finish. The present stay at Wallack's is indefinite.

MRS. WEST'S NEW PLAY.

Charles Frohman to Present Piece by the Former Lady Randolph Churchill.

Mrs. George Cornwallis West, who was Lady Randolph Churchill, is to have a play produced in America this season under the auspices of Charles Frohman. Mrs. West cabled to Mr. Frohman yesterday that she had a play of New York life and asked him to produce the piece for her.

The name of the play has not been chosen, but the theme is that of a husband and wife who go into the world to help humanity and neglect their own fireside. The home is made miserable and the man and woman unhappy by the neglect. In its climax the piece is said to resemble the conclusion of Pinero's "Mid-Channel." It is Mrs. West's intention to follow the production of the play by a lecture tour of the United States, in which she will speak on the subject she has treated dramatically.

She is now at Coombe Abbey, England, the Summer home of the Countess of Craven, revising the play. The manuscript, it is expected, will arrive in America early next month, and Mr. Frohman will then decide about the production. He assisted Mrs. West in the production of her first play, "His Borrowed Plumes," that had a brief run at the Hicks Theatre, London.

Mrs. West was known to old New Yorkers as Miss Jennie Jerome. She married Lord Randolph Churchill, the well-known English statesman. Several years after his death she became Mrs. George Cornwallis West. Winston Churchill, the English author, soldier, and Home Secretary in the British Cabinet, is her son.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Pain's annual "Carnival of Fire" will be given at Manhattan Beach to-morrow night.

Harold M. Cheshire has been engaged by Liebler & Co. to play the part of Powell in "The Fourth Estate" this season.

Harold Howard has been engaged by William A. Brady for the part of Willie Stoneman in "The Dollar Mark," opening in Chicago on Aug. 27.

Walter Hale, who has just returned from an automobile tour of Europe, will appear with John Mason in "The Witching Hour" the early part of this season, later originating a role in an important Shubert production.

Joseph M. Weber has engaged John McClosky to play the role of Pierre Le Peche in George V. Hobart's English version of "Alma, Wo Wohnst Du"? opening at Weber's Theatre on Sept. 26.

At Atlantic City last night Frances Starr began her third season in "The Easiest Way." After a week's stay there, she will go to Los Angeles for a Pacific Coast tour.

A trial performance of Margaret Mayo's farce, "Baby Mine," will be given at Hull, England, to-night, by Engiebach Greet, who control the British rights to the piece. This production will be coincident with the first New York performance of the farce.

A cablegram was sent to Kyrle Bellew in Calcutta yesterday, calling him to New York to begin rehearsals of his new play, "The Scandal." Mr. Bellew has been touring the Continent since May, and has been spending the last month in Calcutta, where he was born.

Charles Frohman announced yesterday that he would produce this season Louis Benlere's comedy, "Papillon," that has been running at the Theatre Antoine for the last nine months. A London production of the same piece will be made by Cyril Maude.

"The Aviator," James Montgomery's comedy of aviation, with Edward Abeles as the star, will be presented for the first time at the Apollo Theatre, Atlantic City, next Monday night, under the direction of Cohan & Harris.

Margaret Anglin and her company, who have been playing "The Awakening of Helena Richie" in the Northwest, will suspend their tour at Billings, Mon., for a few days, in order to make a trip to Yellowstone Park. The company will reassemble at Winnipeg on Labor Day for a tour through the South.

Ida Brooks Hunt, last season with "The Chocolate Soldier," has been engaged to appear in "The Love Waltz," which is to be Shubert's musical production this season.

A satire on the bobble skirt was introduced into "The Follies of 1910," at the Jardin de Paris last night by George Bickel, Harry Watson, Bobby North, Billies Reeves, William C. Schrode, and Arthur McWatters.

The part of a small country boy in "The Upstart," to be presented by Bertram Harrison at Maxine Elliott's Theatre on Sept. 5, will be played by Douglas Jose.

GEORGE L. PEABODY BETTER.

His Marriage to Miss Edith Deacon to Take Place, as Arranged, on Sept. 15.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—Arrangements for the marriage of Miss Edith Deacon and George Lee Peabody of Boston, which were temporarily suspended on account of the latter's illness, have been resumed by Mrs. Charles H. Baldwin, Miss Deacon's grandmother.

The wedding will take place at Mrs. Baldwin's residence, Snug Harbor, in Bellevue Avenue, on Sept. 15, the original date, but will be a small affair in point of attendance.

Mr. Peabody is now recovering rapidly, and no longer requires a trained nurse, and the wedding will be carried out as originally planned. Miss Deacon will come here shortly to complete the final arrangements.

WIDENERS AMUSE CHILDREN.

Minstrels and a Circus in Honor of Fifi Widener's Eighth Birthday.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Widener gave the largest children's party of the Summer this afternoon on the lawn of the Pinard Cottages in honor of the eighth birthday of their daughter, Fifi. Forty children from the colony were invited and three tables were set on the lawn for luncheon. At each plate were favors for the guests—airships for the girls, and baseball bats for the boys.

The children were treated to an elaborate entertainment. Colored minstrels sang, an orchestra played popular airs, and a two-ringed dog and pony circus with three trained ponies and several clowns were very popular. Harry Wilson, a conjurer, succeeded in completely mystifying them, and Pete, a trick mule, made a big hit.

AT NARRAGANSETT PIER.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 22.—The Gymkhana races on the beach for four silver cups attracted a large crowd to the promenade and bathing pavilion this morning.

The first event, a dress-suit case race, was won by Robert Sullivan, who took the Casino cup. The imperial cup in the apple and bucket race was won by R. P. Smith, and the egg and spoon race was won by Wistar Randolph, who received the Mathewson cup. Master Randolph also took the Elm Cottage cup in the thread and needle race. John R. Fell won the one-quarter-mile dash sweepstake and the quarter-mile open race was won by Scudder Mersman of St. Louis.

Among those entertaining at luncheon in the Casino to-day were Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Varnum of New York and Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Mersman.

Registered at the Casino are: Rowland Hazard, Mr. and Mrs. Sturgis, T. R. Hazard, Mrs. Bishop, Miss Bishop, Providence; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Wilmot, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Cutter, Cleveland, Ohio; Dr. F. E. Jones, Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cooper, Quincy, Mass. Philander C. Knox, Secretary of State, and family of Washington, D. C., are at the Imperial.

Late arrivals at the Gladstone are Henry Spies Kip and Leavitt J. Hunt of New York.

WEEK'S OFFERINGS AT THEATRES

Corse Payton's stock company began its last week at the Academy of Music yesterday afternoon, offering "The Sporting Duchess" with elaborate scenery and many extra people. Minna Phillips acted the title role and Claude Payton had the part of the Earl of Desbrough.

At the City Theatre, on Fourteenth Street, the week's attraction is "The Girl from Rector's," with Edith Proctor Otis and a number of the original company in the cast.

The Alhambra Theatre opened for the Winter season yesterday afternoon with a special programme. The bill was headed by the spectacular pantomime, "The Carnival of Roses." Morton and Moore appeared in eccentric songs and dances, and the other numbers included E. Frederick Hawley and company, Avery and Hart, Charles and Fannie Van, the Four Melody Monarchs, Clark and Bergman, Max Yorke's dogs, and the Woods Trio.

Victor Moore, assisted by Emma Littlefield, was the headliner at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre yesterday, offering an old sketch called "Change Your Act." Al Kaufman, a heavyweight pugilist, appeared in a bag punching and sparring exhibition, and others on the programme were "The Maid of Mystery," Harry Breen, the Bellclaire Brothers, Martinetti and Sylvester, Coleman's animals, Frank and Edith Raymond, and Morton and Moore.

Barney Bernard and Lee Harrison, in a sketch called "Cohen from Bridgeport," were the headliners at Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre. Dr. Herman gave an electrical exhibition and Elizabeth Brice and Charles King offered their sketch, "A Bit of Musical Comedy." The programme was completed by the Bird Millman trio, George Austin Moore, Edna Phillips and company, Knight Brothers and Sawtelle, and Vittorio and Georgetto.

At the American Music Hall Julian Eltinge began a farewell visit to vaudeville, presenting a number of new female impersonations. Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, a pugilist, gave exhibitions of bag punching and sparring, and "Cleopatra en Masque" began a second week's engagement. Others on the bill were Harry and Spring Cooper, Count and Countess Chilo, Josephine Sabel, Fred Bowers and company, Sherman and De Forest, the Four Johnsons, the Chartres Sisters and Halliday, and Fred Rivenhall.

At the burlesque theatres the week's attractions are Al Reeve's "Beauty Show," at Hurtig & Seamon's Music Hall; "The Jersey Lillies," at the Metropolis; Sam Howe's "Love Makers," at the Murray Hill; "The Big Banner Show," at the Olympic; "The Bohemians," at Miner's Bronx Theatre; "The Cozy Girls," at Miner's Bowery, and "The Imperials," at Miner's Eighth Avenue.

Carrie De Mar in a new singing act headed the programme at the New Brighton Theatre yesterday. Joseph Hart's "Bathing Girls" was another feature number, and the others who contributed to the entertainment were the Sheldons, Hocy and Lee, Wilbur Mack and Nella Walker, the Six Singing Hoboes, Mons. Marseilles, the Ford-Eltinge Troupe, and the Three Duball Sisters.

At the Brighton Beach Music Hall Charmion, a trapeze performer, was the principal feature of the bill. The Jack Wilson Trio appeared for a return engagement and the Four Huntings presented a sketch. The remainder of the programme included Edmund Stanley and company, Corinne Francis, J. Huxter Wilson, Effie Pearson, and others.

Bases on balls—Off Warhop, 7; off Summers, 3; off Willett, 3; off Manning, 2. Hit by pitcher—By Warhop (Moriarty, T. Jones.) Balk—Warhop. Hits—Off Summers, 7 in 7 innings; off Willett, 1 in 2 innings; off Warhop, 10 in 8 innings, (none out in ninth inning;) off Manning, none in ninth inning; off Fisher, none in 1 inning. Time of game—Two hours and thirteen minutes. Umpires—Messrs. Perrine and Dineen.

The Yankees crumbled in the ninth inning on the hilltop yesterday like sand pouring through a sieve. Up to that time they sailed along ahead of the Detroits. Then suddenly the squall came up, and smash they went against the rocks. There has never been such a wreck since the Hesperus. Detroit won, 8 to 5. Without any warning Warhop started the last round as wild as a Comanche. With two gifts and a hit he filled the bases. Then he made a balk, which sent Ty Cobb smiling over the plate with the tying run.

The remaining facts of the inning are like a dyspeptic's revel. Manning was trotted out as a life-saver, and he was worse than Warhop. He passed two men and forced in a run. Then he hit a batsman and forced in another count. All the time Tigers crouched on the sacks, with Jennings dancing up and down like a jumping-jack, screeching frantically and leading the Yankees' goat all around the lot. Manning was derricked and Fisher went in, with the bases full and no one out. Sweeney then dropped the ball on a force-out at home and another run splashed in.

In his day Jennings has received many floral horseshoes, and gets socks full of gifts every Christmas, but never did he receive such a bountiful present as yesterday's game. Oh, buckets of sadness! A crowd of 8,000 lent sympathy to the occasion.

Sam Crawford was the wall-smasher of the matinee. Two humming triples, a double, a single, and a base on balls were his lot. He flattened one ball and made two others look like Easter eggs.

The Tigers had Warhop gasping for oxygen even in the first inning. McIntyre singled to left field, and the ball went through Roach, so the runner kept right on to third base. He scored on Delehanty's single to left. Jimmy was caught stealing. Cobb grounded out and Crawford hit to right for three bases, scoring when Chase made a bad throw to Sweeney on the relay in. Warhop hit Moriarty and walked Bush. Jones forced Moriarty at third.

The Yanks tied the score in the same inning. Daniels walked and stole second. Stealing bases, by the way, was a cinch, for Schmidt's arm seemed tied behind his back every time he pegged to second. Six Yankees purloined bases on him. Wolter's single scored Daniels and Wolter went to second when Crawford fumbled the ball. Wolter was caught trying to get to third. Chase singled, stole, and scored when Moriarty foozled Knight's grounder and booted it out of the diamond. Then he put up a "holler," saying Chase did it.

With two down in the second inning Warhop hopped a hot one through Bush. Daniels walked. Wolter singled, scoring Warhop. Wolter then started to steal and kept the Detroit team busy while Daniels scored. Delehanty walked in the third, went down on Cobb's out, and scored on Crawford's single. Knight's single, a sacrifice, and Roach's jolt scored another for the Yanks in the sixth inning. Detroit was threatening all the time. In the seventh inning Crawford doubled and Moriarty sent him home with a single. Going into the final inning the Yanks led, 5 to 4. Looks easy.

Cobb was the first man up in the ninth inning. He hadn't hit a thing all day. He didn't have to, for Warhop got out his Christmas tree and the Tigers walked up one by one and got their little present. Ten men faced Warhop, Manning, and Fisher in that inning. One punky single, a balk, four bases on balls, a hit batsman, and an error did the trick.

Naps Errors Help Athletics.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—It took twelve innings for Philadelphia to beat Cleveland today, 7 to 6. Both teams batted hard, but the Naps' errors were all costly. Dygert forced in two runs in the tenth by his wildness, and the Quakers came back and batted out enough to tie the score. A pass and two singles netted victory in the twelfth. Land's all-around work featured. Score:

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 22.—The New York Giants lifted to-day's game with the St. Louis Cardinals, 11 runs to 4, and did it easily. Drucke, who pitched for the Giants, was in fine form for four innings, when he weakened and gave way to Crandall. Zmich, the four-thousand-dollar left-hander, who made his début as a Cardinal player the last time the Giants played here, went to the mound for the Cardinals. He lasted nearly five innings, and was benched after everybody on the visiting team had hit him to the four corners of the lot for a total of nine runs in two innings. Then Harmon went in and finished the fifth inning. In the sixth Bresnahan sent Padden, a former Omaha player, to the mound.

Manager McGraw, who is suspended, saw to-day's game from the grand stand. A fair-sized Monday crowd, including many visiting Eagles, who are here attending the National convention, was out.

In the fourth inning the visitors solved Zmich. Snodgrass struck out. Bridwell was hit by a pitched ball. Murray got a single, and he and Bridwell pulled off a double steal. Both scored on Devlin's single to centre. Devlin took second when Oakes fumbled the ball and stole third. Merkle tripled to the left-field fence and Devlin scored. Meyers sent a long sacrifice fly to Ellis, and Merkle scored after the catch, bringing in the fourth run. Drucke retired the side with a liner to Ellis.

The Cardinals came back with two runs in their half. Huggins hiked on a hit, and went to third on Ellis's single to right. Mowrey hit into a double play, Doyle to Bridwell to Merkle, Huggins scoring. Doyle to Bridwell, Oakes hit through Merkle for a double, and Bliss scored on Murray's wide return. Neither side scored in the remaining three innings.

McIntire "Wins His Own Game."

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Chicago drove Mattern from the box in the second inning to-day, winning the opening game from Boston 7 to 0. McIntire had the visitors at his mercy, and drove in three runs with a homer, and also made a single. Catcher Harry Smith of Boston was injured by a foul tip and was forced to retire in the sixth. Pirates Bag a Doubleheader.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 22.—Pittsburg to-day won two games from Philadelphia by timely hitting. In the second game Pittsburg made three home runs in one inning, which has never before been seen here. The pre-eminent feature was the batting of Wagner, who made seven hits in the two games for a total of sixteen bases. His feat of a total of ten bases in the second game equals the record of the season in individual batting. Scores:

CHERRYOLA TAKES VASSAR STAKE

Western Filly Scores Easily in Feature Race at Saratoga Course.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 22.—For a feature race this afternoon the offering of the Saratoga Association was the Vassar, a selling stake for three-year-old fillies. It resulted in a first-class contest, in which John T. Ireland's Western filly Cherryola proved easily the best, winning by a length and a half from Jacquelina, with the sprinter Follie Levy third.

The day was bright and the track fast, conditions that helped bring out a large crowd, and from the first race to the last the sport was excellent. Some of the winners furnished surprises, and the start in the first race marred its running considerable when Hill Top and Live Wire were almost left at the post, but these untoward incidents did not prevent a thoroughly interesting day of sport.

A race that was really of more interest than the Vassar was a mile and a furlong handicap, which went to Superstition, a horse which has been giving a good account of himself over heavy tracks when it was believed that he did not like the going. To-day the footing was hard enough to please the son of Aldine, and after he had raced with all the pace he came away with ease at the stretch and won by half a dozen lengths. Bob R., which was a slight favorite in the field, met with some misfortunes in the running, and was second, easily beating Cheek to the finish.

Cherryola had to outfoot Follie Levy and Mexoana, the starter from the stable of Richard T. Wilson, Jr., to win the Vassar Stakes. The pair went into a long lead in the first furlong, and they raced like a team almost to the stretch. There both tired, and it was then that Van Benschoten made his move with Cherryola. All through the early stages the Ireland filly had been lengths away from the pace, but when she was urged she closed with a great rush, and Jacquelina, which had failed to keep step for the first six furlongs, was the only one capable of giving her the semblance of a contest at the finish.

The steeplechase for hunters proved a two-horse race from end to end, when Tim Donohue rode O. K. with such vigor that he was able to go along close to Prince Hampton, the favorite, for the entire trip. Prince Hampton always had it on O. K., but the Pfizer horse was right with him to the last three fences. There Prince Hampton came away as Jockey Lynch pleased, and at the finish he had plenty of reserve. Only five horses started, and Indiola was third only because Sam Ball unseated Jockey Patterson four jumps from the finish. Patterson escaped with some slight bruises and a shaking up.

There was another fall during the day when May Amelia was jostled and fell at the start of the fifth race. King was riding, but he escaped serious injury. The summaries:

New Yorkers Sixth in Shoot.

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Aug. 22.—The United States infantry rifle team which took the lead this morning on the first (200 yard) stage of the National match, increased it by three points this afternoon on the 600-yard targets. It has scored 1,095. Service teams are second and third—the cavalry and navy—then comes the leader of the militia teams, Massachusetts, which took third honors last year, and crowding it are the Annapolis cadets. New York, thrice winner of the National Trophy, ranks sixth by reason of her 600-yard world's record score of 569. On the basis of the classification of 1909 the leaders to-night in Class B are: District of Columbia, eleventh, 1,067; Texas twelfth, 1,065; Oklahoma thirteenth, 1,065, and New Jersey, fourteenth, 1,063.

$60,000 FOR DALMATIAN.

Louis Winans Buys S. C. Hildreth's Great Colt for Racing Abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Samuel C. Hildreth to-day sold his great three-year-old colt Dalmation to Louis Winans and he will be shipped to England shortly for racing. The purchase was made by F. Vivian Gooch for Mr. Winans and it was reported that the price paid was $60,000. Winans purchased Sir Martin and Edward from John E. Madden at the close of their two-year-old season.

Dalmatian is a son of Ethelbert and Ionis and has proven himself the best three-year-old of the year. Until his defeat in the Merchants and Citizens handicap last Saturday he had a remarkable list of victories that included the Empire City handicap from older horses. His best race at Saratoga was the winning of the Travers stakes. Other races that he has won are the Coney Island Jockey Club stakes, Brooklyn Derby, Sea Gate, Iroquois, and Yonkers handicaps.

Dalmatian was shipped to New York to-night, and will be sent to England within a few days.

OPEN GOLF AT DEAL.

Forty-nine Entries for Metropolitan Championship Competition.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Decline; Trading More Active—Call Money Rates, 1¼@1½ Per Cent.

MORE CASH SHIPMENTS

Transfers Made to the Interior and a Cash Loss Shown on Banks' Operations with the Sub-Treasury.

Losses of from 1 to 3 points occurred yesterday in all the active stocks, the recession in prices being the most general that the market has experienced since the recent upward movement was checked. The market was under the influence of the selling movement practically up to the closing of trading, and in only a few cases were the final prices more than very small fractions above the day's lowest. On this decline there was some increase in activity, the trading during the five hours' session yesterday amounting to between three and four times the meagre total recorded on Saturday. A search of the day's incidents revealed as the only factors bearing adversely on the securities markets a still further advance in foreign exchange rates, which brought demand sterling up to mint parity, and further shipments by the local banks to interior points, in response to the demand which arose last week and which was reflected in the unexpected decrease in the reserves of the banks reported on Saturday. That loss, while unexpected, for the reason that the preliminary estimates had indicated a gain, and not a loss, in cash holdings, is in entire keeping with the usual course of money market affairs at this date. The recent accumulation of reserves by the New York City banks was undertaken with the specific purpose of providing for demands such as are now making their appearance, and the occurrence of these demands should cause surprise only to those who may have indulged in the unwarranted hope that no call will be made by the interior upon the reserves at this centre, recently increased to an unusually large figure. Yesterday another transfer was made through the Sub-Treasury to New Orleans, and the banks reported a continuance of the shipments which brought about last week's reduction in reserve and in surplus. Moreover, the banks in their operations with the Sub-Treasury showed since Friday a loss of $372,000, compared with a gain of over $2,300,000 during the corresponding days of last week. The local money market reflected yesterday neither the loss in reserve reported on Saturday nor the further cash demands which the banks were called upon to meet yesterday. Call money again ruled at its recent minimum, and time money rates were unchanged.

There was an advance yesterday in the cotton market, but the only option in which the upward movement was decisive was the month of August, now rapidly drawing to a close. For this reason the rise of over 40 points in that option was accepted as indicative of the technical position in that option rather than of any impairment in the cotton outlook. The maximum net advance in any of the other options was 8 points. Hot weather was again reported in Texas, but advices from that section failed to indicate any general belief there that any further impairment of the crop in that State has yet resulted.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Monday.

The market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange slowly sagged throughout the day. Liquidation in moderate volume, but persistent, was in evidence. The heavy floor short interest carried over from last week was apparently nervous regarding its position, more because of its unwieldy size than because of any action of the market itself. There was large covering to secure bearish profits, particularly at the lower levels, this imparting relative firmness at times, compared with New York Stock Exchange quotations. Sales totaled 75,340 shares, with forty-nine different stocks making up the list.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

AMERICAN SECURITIES and FOREIGN INVESTORS
Our continued prosperity depends upon access to the world's supply of capital.
This we cannot have unless the foreign investor has confidence in our business methods and the fairness of our laws relating to railroads and industrial corporations.
How we may counteract the influences to undermine this confidence is described in the new book:—
Confidence or National Suicide?

More Cash Loss by Banks.

Following the outflow of cash at the close of last week, which caused the banks in their actual statement to show a loss in cash, whereas the preliminary estimates of the currency movement had indicated a very substantial gain in reserve, further demands were made upon the banks here yesterday, and several direct shipments of currency were made to the interior in addition to another transfer of $100,000 to New Orleans through the New York Sub-Treasury. In addition to the money which they lately received from the interior the banks had also been gaining largely in their dealings with the Sub-Treasury owing to excess of payments by the Government, but this situation, too, has changed, and since last week's bank statement was made up the New York banks, instead of gaining a further amount from this source, have had to make payments to the Sub-Treasury on balance. In this way they have lost since last Friday $372,000, whereas for the same days last week they gained $2,313,000.

Jump in August Cotton.

The August cotton option yesterday jumped considerably more than half cent a pound from Saturday's closing prices, showing an advance of more than $2.50 a bale, only part of which was lost in the selling which occurred before the close. The net advance in this option for the day was 45 points, suggesting apparently a shortage of cotton for delivery against this August option. This sharp upturn in August was only meagerly reflected in the other options, however, for none of these at the highest point of the day showed a larger advance than 12 points, and the maximum net gain in any of them was 8 points. This discrepancy between the movement in August and the other options was accounted for by the fact that the movement in the former was influenced by the necessity that sellers of this option must deliver cotton against their sale contracts before the close of the month, which is now not far off.

Profits from Rate Increases.

The Trunk Line Association on the authority of a statement made to the association by an official of the Inter-State Commerce Commission put out a denial yesterday of the report that estimates which had been compiled by the Inter-State Commerce Commission showed that the railroads would profit to the extent of $500,000,000 a year were they allowed by the commission to put into effect the rate increases which they are now seeking. This estimate was considered preposterous when it was first published, and a representative of the commission was quick to point out that no such estimate could have been made for the reason that it amounted to perhaps ten times the maximum increase in earnings under the highest estimate possible. Indeed, a spokesman for the commission placed the probable increase at closer to $30,000,000 than $50,000,000. The denial put out by the Trunk Line Association merely serves to emphasize the denial previously made by a representative of the Inter-State Commerce Commission that the latter had figured the prospective increase in the earnings of the Eastern railroads at anything like the staggering figure named.

No American Bid for Gold.

Cable advices from London received in the financial district yesterday contained the seemingly superfluous statement that no American bid was made for the gold which arrived in London yesterday. With sterling exchange rates advancing steadily here for the past week or more and with demand sterling quoted in New York yesterday at the mint parity it was very clear that there would be no American demand for gold in London yesterday, though our bankers would gladly have taken a share of the gold if circumstances permitted!

The Increase in Pig Iron Capacity.

Since the first of the year, or rather since February, when the production of pig iron reached its maximum, the steady curtailment brought about by the declining price has reduced the average daily output from 85,616 tons to 69,111 tons, which was the daily average for July. Steel trade authorities do not look for any further additions to the list of idle furnaces this month, because the large shipments of steel by the United States Steel Corporation for the current and past months indicate a substantial reduction in pig iron stocks. This phase of the pig iron situation would be a source of greater encouragement were it not for the constantly increasing capacity of the pig iron furnaces. Figures just made public by the American Iron and Steel Association show that, notwithstanding the necessity for curtailing output since February, there has been no halt in the potential capacity of the iron makers. On June 3 the approximate annual capacity of the contry was 38,144,900 tons, but there were sixteen additional furnaces with a capacity for 2,083,500 tons in course of erection on that date.

Georgia Railway Earnings Increase.

The annual report of the Central of Georgia Railway issued yesterday shows increases of $866,615 in gross and $284,699 in net earnings. The balance, after the payment of fixed charges and after charging $1,247,678 for renewals and betterments, was $1,216. Bonds to the extent of $60,000, which matured, were paid off and charged against the year's income. Thus the balance over charges was practically all consumed by expenditures for renewals and improvements and for the reduction of capital obligations. The company paid under protest a Federal corporation tax amounting to $43,645.

AMERICAN BANK FOR RUSSIA.

Plan Now Under Favorable Consideration of Financiers Here.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The establishment of an American banking institution in Russia is being seriously considered by a group of bankers of this country. It is understood that inquiries as to the demand for such an institution, as well as its chances for success, have been made by American commercial interests in Russia and Siberia. The cotton trade between American growers and Russian mill owners alone could be increased to $100,000,000 a year, nearly double what it is now, it is said, with the aid of an American-owned and managed banking house to finance the transactions which now are indirect and go through Berlin or Paris.

Such an institution would not be limited to ordinary banking transactions. The financing of the Government, railroads, municipalities, and the development of the natural resources of Russia would be undertaken. One of the plans advanced is to make an alliance with an established Russian financial house in order to insure local confidence, and combine with it American capital and methods.

The same group of men which has been looking favorably toward the establishment of a chain of Pan-American banks in South America, is understood to be investigating the possibilities of the situation.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—Money was in fair demand and discount rates were firm today.

Trading was exceedingly quiet on the Stock Exchange. Consols and other gilt-edged securities were steady, Kaffirs and home rails quiet, and copper shares dull. The foreign section was generally weaker.

American securities opened steady and a fraction above parity, but business was very quiet and prices slowly declined. Later New York selling orders further depressed values and caused an easy closing.

There was no American demand for gold in the open market. Out of the $2,440,000 of gold available, Germany took $1,000,000, probably destined for Russia. India and the smaller requirements for the Continent swallowed up the rest. The price was unchanged at 77s 9d.

Bar silver steady, 24⅝d per ounce.

Money, 1½@1¾ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2⅝ per cent.; for three months' bills 2⅞ per cent.

Gold premiums are quoted as follows: At Madrid, 7.85; at Lisbon, 5.50.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—Prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 97f 32½c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 23c for checks.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—Trading was dull, but prices were steady on the Boerse today.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 46½ pfennigs for checks.

TIMES SQUARE REALTY DEAL.

Sol Bloom Pays $500,000 for 42d Street Lease—To Build 12-Story Structure.

One of the largest realty deals in the Times Square section for several weeks was put through yesterday by Sol Bloom, the music dealer, who leased from the Charlotte M. Goodridge estate four old dwellings in Forty-second Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, for twenty-one years with privilege of several renewals. It is Mr. Bloom's intention to improve the plot with a twelve-story commercial building.

The property involved is that at 236, 238, 240, and 242 West Forty-second Street, adjoining the Liberty Theatre. According to the terms of the lease, Mr. Bloom obtains the plot, which has a frontage of 80 feet and a depth of 98.9, for the first twenty-one years for some $500,000.

Including the cost of the new building, for which ground will be broken next Spring, the operation involves about $1,000,000. Mr. Bloom will occupy part of the ground floor as a branch store.

The new building will be the first of its kind in this block, which has the distinction of having seven theatres in it.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

The wheat market was under pressure in the early trading, with news factors of a bearish character. Less uneasiness was felt regarding the foreign supply situation, and this was reflected in advices from abroad. Cables from all markets were disappointing, and declines in the foreign markets were accelerated by reports of an improvement in the quality of Russian wheat over what was earlier expected, large world's wheat exports, and to a general absence of demand. At the decline, however, there seemed to be but little wheat offering, and bears were not aggressive. Receipts continue liberal, and, although they are behind those of last year, they are large in proportion to the export and cash demand, which results in rapidly accumulating stocks. This was indicated by the increase in the visible supply yesterday, which amounted to over 3,800,000 bushels. On the issuance of this statement prices again developed heaviness, but reports of an improved flour demand caused short covering and some new buying. Prices advanced in the late afternoon to the best of the session, with other factors toward firmness being reports to the effect that France was making inquiries in regard to soft Winter wheat in the Southwest and on some poor threshing returns received from parts of North Dakota and Northern Minnesota. These threshing returns, however, are expected to be irregular, and the poor ones, therefore, would occasion but little surprise, whereas the good ones are the unexpected ones. Cash wheat was quoted: No. 2 red Winter, $1.06½ nominal, to arrive, cost, insurance, and freight; No. 2 red, spot, nominal, new, $1.06½, free on board afloat for export; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.20⅜ nominal; No. 2 hard Winter, new, $1.06⅜, and No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.13¼. Sales included 32,000 bushels Manitoba outports, 32,000 bushels red Winter from Philadelphia, and 150,000 bushels red Winter, Toledo direct.

Corn was easier at the outset, due to favorable conditions prevailing over Sunday. The technical position, however, seems to have been greatly improved as a result of the recent decline, and prices rallied quite sharply from the low. The advance was attributed to the weekly prediction of cooler weather throughout the West, which created apprehension of frost. The average frost date in the West is from Sept. 15 to Oct. 1, and in the East from Oct. 1 to the 15th. It can therefore be readily seen that, considering the lateness of the plant, a frost would do considerable damage. It is this fact that restrains selling and creates a waiting attitude among traders. Cash corn was quoted: Western No. 2, 60¼c nominal, elevator to arrive, cost, insurance, and freight, domestic basis, and steamer nominal, elevator, export basis.

Oats opened quiet, with short covering imparting a steady undertone to the market, but following little rallying power was noted, notwithstanding the better tone in other markets. Pressure was the result of the increase in the visible supply, and on a slackening of the cash demand, while receipts continue liberal. Sentiment is generally bearish. Cash oats were quoted: Standards, 39½c; No. 2 white, 39½c; No. 3 white, 39c; No. 4 white, 38½c; natural white, 39@40¼c; white clipped, 41@43½c.

Provisions were firmer, due to the improvement in the live hog market. Predictions are made of lighter receipts, and there was good buying by large interests. Later profit taking resulted in a substantial reaction.

COTTON.

The situation in cotton continues to be dominated largely by developments in the old crop positions. There is little inclination on the part of operators to take to the bear side of the market while the strength in these months continues so pronounced, and the comparatively high levels and generally favorable crop reports discourage a position on the long side, hence the dullness in commission house business. The opening was firm, at 5 to 18 points advance, with the greatest strength exhibited in the August options. There was heavy buying of this month by the Liverpool shorts, and although the South sent selling orders, they were not large, and it was not until the bulls were disposed to sell that a reaction came about. The decline extended to below the previous night's finals, but at this level the pressure again became light and a steadier undertone developed. New buying was the result of reports of hot, dry weather in sections of Texas, and to the general absence of selling orders. Crop advices are mixed. Reports from a great many sections in Texas are favorable, but there are still some complaints coming to hand from Central Texas which, it will be remembered, constitutes approximately 38 per cent. of the entire Texas crop. A prominent Southern crop expert, whose views are generally conceded to be of a conservative character, wired that his reports indicated that developments the last week had been favorable over 90 per cent. of the entire belt. Trade conditions are reported as showing an improvement, and some authorities assert that mills have already been heavy buyers of cotton for Fall shipment. It is said that this cotton has been sold to a large extent by cotton shippers who are taking the chance of procuring it at lower levels later in the season.

COFFEE.

Coffee was broad and more active, total sales amounting to 77,500 bags, and prices were firmer, closing at a net advance of 13 to 15 points. There was also some buying credited to foreign account, and there were some foreign selling orders at slightly above current quotations. The movement was due largely to very strong cables. Havre was 1¼@1½f higher, Hamburg showed an advance of 1¼@1¾ pfennigs, and in Brazil Rio was unchanged, and Santos was 150 to 200 reis higher. Firm offers from Brazil were above a working basis, being about 50 points over last week's quotations. The weather report from Brazil showed very cold conditions in three districts, although the minimum temperature was 48 1-5. Warehouse deliveries of Brazilian coffee at United States ports last week were 223,575 bags, compared with 153,594 the previous week and 132,853 last year.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Sol Bloom Leases Eighty-Foot Site in Times Square Section —$1,000,000 Involved—New West Side Apartment To Cost $350,000—Sale in Old Manhattanville.

Details of the leasing of 236, 238, 240, and 242 West Forty-second Street, adjoining the Liberty Theatre, by Sol Bloom for twenty-one years with the privilege of several renewals will be found in another column.

New Building for Liberty Street.

The Church-Liberty Leasehold Company has taken a twenty-one-year lease with two renewals of the northwest corner of Church and Liberty Streets, known as 105, 107, and 109 Liberty Street. This property is owned by George N. Robinson, who has owned 109 Liberty Street for several years and who recently acquired 105 and 107 from John L. Cadwalader.

The plot has a frontage on Church Street of 100.8 feet and about 60 feet on Liberty Street. Architects Herts & Tallant are preparing plans for a nine-story building to be erected on the site, to be ready for occupancy about April 1, 1911. The lease was negotiated by the Fernando W. Benner Company and the George W. Elder & Steinmetz Company.

Rumor of Crocker House Sale.

There was a rumor afloat in real estate circles yesterday to the effect that negotiations were pending for the sale of the residence of the late George Crocker for $800,000. The Crocker house is a four-story and basement residence covering a plot 30.9 by 110 at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Sixty-fourth Street, adjoining the home of Orme Wilson and facing the residence of E. J. Berwind on the southeast corner. On the Fifth Avenue side of the block are the homes of Frank Jay Gould, the Wormsers, and William Watts Sherman.

The late Mr. Crocker willed that this house together with his country home, comprising 1,100 acres at Darlington, N. J., be sold and the proceeds given to Columbia University, the Trustees to use the money to establish a fund to be applied in the prosecution of researches as to the cause, prevention, and cure of cancer.

The estate at Darlington was sold in July to Emerson McMillan, a local banker, for about $1,000,000.

85th St. House Sold for Occupancy.

Slawson & Hobbs have sold for George H. Rockwood 326 West Eighty-fifth Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, on lot 16.8 by 102.2, between West End Avenue and Riverside Drive. The buyer will occupy the house.

Sale in Old Manhattanville.

The Geraldine Realty Company has sold 640, 642, and 644 West 131st Street, old frame buildings, on a plot 75 by 99.11.

The property, which is in the heart of Old Manhattanville, is located 125 feet east of Twelfth Avenue and is said to have been acquired by a Western bottling concern. The abutting lot, 25 by 99.11, at 643 West 130th Street, was transferred recently to Frederick F. Sampson, who is understood to be acting for the same purchasers. A two-story building is projected for the combined site.

Bronx Sales.

George J. McCaffrey has sold for Rosa Solner the plot of ten lots on the west side of Brunner Avenue, 450 feet south of Nereid Avenue. R. Elkan was interested as broker.

Partition of Clark Estate.

By a series of transfers recorded Saturday there was effected a partition of interests in many properties on the west side and on Washington Heights owned by the Clark estate.

The properties were conveyed by James A. M. Johnston and others, executors of the estate of Elizabeth S. Potter, to Edward S., Robert S., Frederick A., and Stephen C. Clark. Each of these grantees gets a one-quarter interest in Mendelssohn Hall, at 113 to 119 West Fortieth Street, and in the Clark mansion, at Riverside Drive and Eighty-ninth Street. Other parcels covered by the deeds are the northwest and southwest corners of Broadway and 176th Street, the northeast corner of Broadway and 122d Street, 80.11 by 100; the entire block bounded by Broadway and Fort Washington Avenue, 170th and 171st Streets, and many dwellings on the west side of Seventy-second, Seventy-third, and Seventy-fourth Streets.

New 37th Street Loft.

The Realty Holding Company of 907 Broadway will erect a twelve-story loft building on the north side of West Thirty-seventh Street, 195 feet west of Fifth Avenue. The front will be of brick and limestone, with terra cotta trimmings. The architects are Neville & Bagge and the cost is estimated at $350,000.

$325,000 West End Av. Apartment.

A twelve-story apartment house, to be occupied by twenty-five families, will be erected at the northeast corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-ninth Street, according to plans filed by Schwartz & Gross, architects for the West End Construction Company, in the Building Bureau of the Borough of Manhattan yesterday. The cost is estimated to be $325,000. The front will be brick and stone, with terra cotta trimmings.

To Enlarge Y. M. H. A. Building.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association, at the corner of Lexington Avenue and Ninety-second Street, filed plans yesterday for an extension to its clubhouse. It will alter the two buildings next door in Ninety-second Street and combine the three buildings into a clubhouse. James & Leo, the architects, estimate the cost at $25,000.

Rockaway Sale Brings $199,647.

A total of $199,647 was realized at Joseph P. Day's auction sale on Saturday of a number of lots and houses at Elstone Park, Far Rockaway. The fifteen furnished houses brought an average of $8,000 each. For the thirty building sites an average of $2,200 was obtained.

"An Established Development of Distinction."
Jamaica Estates
THE inauguration of the Pennsylvania-Long Island Railroad System from Herald Square to Jamaica in 18 minutes has been officially fixed for September 8th. Shortly following that date the price of our property will be advanced. The time left for purchasing at present prices is therefore short, and each day lessens the opportunity for selection. We strongly advise those who are already familiar with our property to quickly make their choice; and we urge those who would be interested in complete information about THE ONLY REAL RESIDENTIAL PARK IN NEW YORK CITY to communicate with us at once before any advance is made. Beautiful plots can now be purchased as low as $2,000, including permanent sewers and all City improvements, and convenient terms can be arranged. The New York Times:
Having read your announcements regarding the reliability of your Want advertisements, and as the occasion arose for us to secure "competent help," we inserted an advertisement in your Sunday issue, and were surprised and gratified to receive more than 75 replies, and the position has been filled by one of The Times applicants.
This is the first time in many years that we have advertised in a newspaper for Help, but we should not hesitate to use your reliable columns at any time.

SURROGATE CITATION.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW York, by the grace of God free and independent, to HENRY H. BUCKINGHAM, CHARLES L. BUCKINGHAM, Jr., OLIVER N. HIETT, general guardian of Charles L. Buckingham, Jr.; A. A. HOPKINS, GEORGE BUCKINGHAM, MRS. GEORGE BUCKINGHAM, (whose Christian name is unknown,) and JOHN C. SANDERS, send greeting:
You and each of you are hereby cited and required personally to be and appear before our Surrogate of the County of New York at the Surrogates' Court of said County, held at the Hall of Records in the County of New York on the 27th day of September, 1910, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend a judicial settlement of the account of proceedings of Central Trust Company of New York, as Executor of the last will and testament of Charles L. Buckingham, deceased; and such of you as are hereby cited as are under the age of twenty-one years are required to appear by your guardian if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed; or, in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.
In testimony whereof we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed.
Witness, the Honorable Abner C. Thomas, a Surrogate of our said County, at the County of New York, the 1st day of August, in the year of our Lord One thousand nine hundred and ten. DANIEL J. DOWLNEY, [Seal.] Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.

It is the aim of The New York Times to maintain its Want column as a standard for small advertisements.—Adv.

Chairman Willcox Explains That the Service Commission Didn't Cause Delay in Advertising.

LEGAL OPINION WAITED FOR

Tri-Borough Contracts at Last Completed In Form—Fourth Avenue Construction Ahead of Schedule.

William R. Willcox, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, made a statement yesterday of the delay in advertising for bids for the tri-borough subway. The matter is at present in the hands of the Corporation Counsel, he said, and as soon as he has given his formal approval to the forms of contract the advertising would begin.

It is proposed to advertise for two alternative methods of construction, one for the construction, equipment, maintenance, and operation of the entire system under one contract, and by private capital. The Bradley-Gaffney-Steers Company has declared its intention to put in such a bid, and representatives of the company have repeatedly stated that at the proper time the company would demonstrate its ability to produce the means necessary to undertake the enterprise. The other method is the construction of the various subways and elevated extensions in the system with city money, and by sections, leaving operations to be arranged in the future.

A large number of contractors are known to be figuring on getting slices of the work, no matter which method is adopted.

The delay in getting the work started has been extended so often and criticism of the Public Service Commission has of late been growing in frequency and virulence. In these circumstances Chairman Willcox decided yesterday to make some remarks. At the same time he wished to have it made clear that he was not undertaking to criticise any officials in the City Government. The commission, he said, had consistently followed this policy. Mr. Willcox said:

"The plans, specifications, and forms of contract for the tri-borough system of subways have been completed for three or four weeks and ready for advertising, so far as the commission is concerned. As soon as the Corporation Counsel has approved the form of contract, as required by law, bids will be asked upon these contracts.

"The routes embraced in the tri-borough system have been approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and the work of preparing the plans and specifications has been going on for many months. Nothing had ever been done upon these plans by our predecessors. The work of preparation has been enormous, as any one at all familiar with the subject knows."

In the tri-borough system, as at present planned, there are to be 133 miles of railroad track on 44 miles of roadway. The present Subway has 81 miles of track on about 25 miles of road.

Certain portions of the system were laid out by the old Board of Rapid Transit Railroad Commissioners, but even the system is new as an entirety. Thus the Broadway-Lexington Avenue plan now provides that the road shall leave Broadway just below Tenth Street, proceeding thence, partly under private property, (unless Irving Place is extended, as the commission has recommended,) to Fourteenth Street, and northward under Irving Place, Gramercy Square, and Lexington Avenue, to the Harlem River. Under the original plan the road left Lexington Avenue in the vicinity of Thirty-fourth Street, and there was thus a right-angle there, and at Broadway an angle even worse, which would materially reduce the speed of trains.

But aside from the changes thus made in the routes of various lines, no such thing as detailed plans had been made in the days of the old commission. Mr. Willcox also calls attention to the fact that the law which made the Constitutional amendment relating to the debt limit effective by exempting bonds issued for works that produce adequate revenue did not pass until late in the Spring, and it was some time in June that the Controller made application to the Appellate Division in accordance with the provisions of that law.

The Chairman remarks also that work on the Fourth Avenue Subway, Brooklyn, was not begun for more than a year after the Public Service Commission had awarded contracts. These awards were made subject to approval by the Board of Estimate, and the Chairman remarks that it was more than a year "before the Board of Estimate found it possible to approve the same."

"On June 10," Mr. Willcox says, "the commission asked the Corporation Counsel to begin these proceedings regarding certain easements necessary on Fulton Street, and the Corporation Counsel has duly advertised such application before the court, but the same will not take place until the first week in September. As soon as the Commissioners are appointed and their oaths of office filed the property vests in the city and work can at once be begun.

"So far as the work on Ashland Place is concerned, it can be said that after several hearings it was determined to change the line in the Ashland Place portion of the Subway about ten feet. The commission took this action on the 19th of May and communicated with the Board of Estimate for its concurrence. Owing to the very great amount of work which that board had to dispose of before its adjournment, no action was taken in June, but at the meeting of that board on July 20 approval was given to this change. The commission then communicated with the Corporation Counsel asking that condemnation proceedings be begun."

As to the Centre Street Subway, the Chairman says that this is now nearly complete, but that it was delayed at the request of Mayor McClellan, on account of the foundations for the new Municipal Building.

The tri-borough forms of contract include engravings of more than 1,000 drawings, and there was some delay because the printer had not secured the necessary paper, long and of proper quality. That is all over now. The books containing the forms of contract weigh some twenty-three tons.

SLEPT BY SISTER'S GRAVE.

Homeless Boy and Girl Knew of No Other Welcome Place.

Knowing of no other place where they thought they would be welcome than beside the grave of their sister, who died recently, Mary Bishop, 14 years old, and her eleven-year-old brother, John Bishop, weak with hunger and worn out after walking the streets of two cities in quest of their mother, were found asleep in the hall of an apartment at Ninth Avenue and Warren Street, East Orange, N. J., Sunday night.

Thursday the family was evicted from its rooms, at 374 Main Street, East Orange, and the mother sent the two children to a friend in Newark. After two days at this home they were sent to another friend, where they remained until Saturday night. On that evening, hand in hand, and without having had any supper, the two children walked three miles to the Cemetery of the Holy Sepulchre, Central Avenue, East Orange. Here they slept beside the grave of their dead sister.

All day Sunday they remained near the spot, and, although hundreds passed the place, no attention was paid to the little ones, who busied themselves gathering flowers from a neighboring field to place on the mound under which the body of their sister lay. Yesterday Chief of Police Bell turned the children over to the Catholic Children's Aid Society of Newark. Just as they were about to bring them from the police station the mother arrived, but custody of the children was refused her.

WOMAN LIVED IN CORNFIELD.

Jersey Farmer Finds Her and a Little Girl Asleep.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Aug. 22.—The case of a woman found with a 10-year-old girl living in a cornfield with no shelter but a blanket and raincoat is puzzling the police. Their hiding place was discovered by Edward Marter, who found the tracks of a woman's shoes on his farm and followed them until he came upon the pair, wrapped in the blanket and with suitcases for pillows.

Awakening to find their hiding place discovered, the woman aroused the girl and made for the highway. Not a word would she answer to Marter's questions.

Marter said the woman was of evident refinement and her clothing bespoke former wealth. Before Marter could summon his wife the strange pair had disappeared.

HIS LIFE'S SAVINGS STOLEN.

Shoemaker Was About to Sail for Italy When Burglars Came.

On the eve of his departure for Italy Michael Mazza, a shoemaker of 306 West Kinney Street, Newark, N. J., awoke yesterday morning to find that he had been robbed of $1,168, his life's savings.

Mazza found that a rear window had been forced. On the sill was a large knife with the hilt pointing inward. The shoemaker, who is a Sicilian, told the police that the knife was left thus to inform him that if the money had not been found he would have been killed.

Mazza had kept the money in a bag in the bottom of a trunk until Sunday, when he and his family attended an Italian feast day celebration and he put the money in his pocket. He told the police it was there when he retired.

IN NEW JERSEY.

In Jersey City the body of ten-year-old John Kutzanski was found yesterday at the bottom of an airshaft next to his home, 114 Essex Street. The boy had been missing since last Saturday, when he went to the roof of his home, a six-story flat house, to fly a kite. A broken railing around the shaft disclosed how the boy met his death.

In Newark the Committee on River and Navigation of the Newark Board of Trade decided yesterday to consult with Col. William T. Russell of the New York Harbor Line Board, with reference to the proposed ship canal in Newark, and whether the Government would aid in paying for it. The committee was satisfied with the progress made by the municipal authorities.

Telegraphing to Newark from his Summer home in Blowing Rock, N. C., the Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, rector of the North Reformed Church, declared he would accept a call to the First Presbyterian Church of Nashville. On his return to Newark from his vacation he will offer his resignation. Dr. Vance has been pastor of the North Reformed Church for more than ten years. At the General Synod of the church last June he was elected moderator.

In Newark the body of Otto Hahn was found hanging from a rafter in the attic of his home, 225 Bloomfield Avenue, yesterday. It had been there for five days. Hahn is believed to have taken his life because he was suffering from an incurable ailment and was unable to get employment.

In New Providence the annual reunion of the Totten family was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Totten. Their guests included five sons and five daughters and their families, numbering eighty-four.

In East Orange, while leaving the home of Louis O. Hedden at 52 South Maple Avenue, yesterday, two men were arrested by Policemen Reed and Rydberg. The men had stolen a double-barreled shotgun which Recorder Nott said was worth $400. The gun has been in the Hedden family for years, and its value is due to the fore end and stock being inlaid with pearl.

In Beverly, while eating supper, Rose, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Fogarty, choked to death yesterday when a bread crumb lodged in her throat. Despite the efforts of the father and mother to dislodge the obstacle, the child expired in a few minutes.

In Branchville, the annual family reunion and celebration of the ninetieth birthday of Benjamin Cole of Walpack Township, was jointly celebrated yesterday. Mr. Cole has cast the greatest number of ballots in the county. For sixty-nine years he has been absent from the polls on Election Day only once, when he was sick in bed. He cast his first Presidential vote for Fremont.

In Atlantic City plans to obtain uniform legislation governing the fraternal organizations of the country will be considered by the convention of the Associated Fraternities of America, which began yesterday. Three hundred delegates, representing fifty-two fraternal insurance societies with an aggregate membership of 3,000,000, are attending.

IDENTIFY DEAD MAN BY FINGER PRINTS

BULLET HOLE IN FOREHEAD

Friend Fears Soldier Was the Victim of Foul Play, as He Always Carried Money.

The body found floating in the Hudson River off Fort Lee, N. J., on Aug. 13 was identified yesterday, nine days after its discovery, as that of Corporal Richard J. Farrell, Sixth Recruiting Regiment, U. S. A., stationed at Fort Slocum. There was a bullet wound in the forehead of the body, and because Farrell's friends say that he never carried a weapon when not on duty it is believed that he was murdered.

Farrell served with honor in the Spanish-American war, and was regarded as a model soldier. He had been on a twenty-four-hour leave of absence at the time when his body was found floating in the water, although, as it was not known then that the body was his, Farrell was sought for by his officers for having overstayed his leave.

The identification was brought about through the records of finger marks which the army keeps of all its soldiers. Detective Blauvelt, suspecting from the first that the body was that of a soldier, left here for Washington on Friday to interest the Government officials in the case to the extent of having them open to him the finger-print records. The officials did more than this, notifying the Coroner in Fort Lee to hold the body until Government agents could reach Fort Lee and take impressions of the dead man's finger tips.

These agents reached Fort Lee on Sunday, and immediately took several impressions of the fingers, paying particular attention to the impressions of the thumbs. These were forwarded to Washington immediately, and yesterday word was received from Adjt. Gen. Ainsworth that the finger prints corresponded to those of Corp. Farrell.

Instructions accompanied this message for the body to be sent to Mrs. Mary Farrell, the young soldier's mother, in Tompkinsville, Conn., where it would receive military burial.

A young man who had been a friend of Farrell's called at the Fort Lee Morgue last night and made a second identification of the body. This man said that Farrell had always saved money, and never drank or gambled. He said that he was accustomed to carry fairly large sums of money with him.

"Farrell was robbed and murdered," said this man. "The fact that there was no money found in his pockets and the location of the bullet wound, coupled with the fact that he never carried a gun, convinces me that he was set upon, robbed, and killed and his body then thrown into the river.

"Farrell, to my knowledge, had no friends in Jersey and so far as I know never crossed the Hudson River. This makes me think that the robbery and murder were committed on the New York side and that Farrell's dead body then was thrown into the water, where the action of the currents washed it up on the Fort Lee shore."

Coroner Tracey of Hackensack, who has handled the case, says that he intends to ask the police of New York to make an independent investigation.

ADVANCES IN WAGES.

P. R. R. Telegraphers and Lake Shore Engineers Get Pay Raised.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—Telegraphers on the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad obtained a further increase of 6 per cent. in wages at a conference today between a committee representing the men and the management of the railroad. The increase will date from Aug. 1, and makes a total of 12 per cent. increase in wages of the telegraphers since the first of the year. Nineteen thousand men are affected.

Other questions which had been submitted to the management by the telegraphers last May were settled to the satisfaction of the men.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 22.—William T. Colter, Chairman of the General Committee representing the engineers, to-day announced that a wage increase to 1,300 engineers on the Lake Shore Railway between Chicago and Buffalo, aggregating $150,000 annually, has been granted by the company, following a conference in Chicago.

Youths Quarreled Over Small Debt and One Wields a Knife.

Special to The New York Times.

HOPEWELL, N. J., Aug. 22.—With dozens of knife cuts all over his body and his throat cut almost from ear to ear, Robert Fitzgerald is dying in his home here. The police are looking for John Smith, also of this village, who, they say, did the cutting.

The police said that Fitzgerald taxed Smith with owing him 15 cents, and that Fitzgerald knocked him down. Smith, the police said, drew a knife and cut the other in the neck, throat, abdomen, and back from neck to waist.

When Smith's fury subsided, the police said, he fled and has not been found since.

Liner Finland Rams Her Pier.

Through having too much headway when she swung into her dock yesterday afternoon, the big Red Star liner Finland hit the stringpiece on the south side near the end of the pier, tearing the timbers and making a cut three feet deep. The vessel's bow plates were undamaged, and passengers standing on deck waving to their friends never knew it had happened. Lady Frances Cook was a passenger on the Finland. She said that she had come over to give suffragette lectures next season.

TO GUARANTEE COTTON BILLS

American Express Co. Sounds Foreign Bankers on the Subject.

The American Express Company, it was learned yesterday, has addressed circular letters to bankers abroad inclosing a form of cotton bill of lading guarantee which the express company may give on cotton bills handled by it. An officer of the company said yesterday that the company has not yet definitely agreed to give such guarantees and that its letter was really for the purpose of determining whether the form of guarantee suggested would be acceptable to foreign bankers.

Meanwhile the express company has obtained from a number of financial institutions in the South, for which it has handled cotton bills, a written guarantee of all such bills which the company may purchase from these concerns. Most of the institutions are trust companies and the rest are private banks.

The decision of foreign bankers reached at a meeting held in London last month to insist upon a guarantee of all cotton bills has been threatening a breach between the National and State banks on one hand and the trust companies and private bankers on the other for the reason that the former are not in a position to give the guarantees, and the banks have been fearing that the trust companies and private bankers might by giving these guarantees make serious inroads into the foreign exchange business of the banks, particularly the National banks, some of which have built up a very large business in foreign exchange.

The American Express Company, one of its officers said yesterday, will not assume any attitude of antagonism toward the banks, and it is not disposed to guarantee cotton bills unless all other banking concerns in a position to do so decide to give such guarantees. Already it is said that several of the leading private banking houses have signified to their foreign correspondents their willingness to guarantee the cotton bills which they handle, and one or two of the large trust companies are favorably inclined toward giving guarantees.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The railroads which handle cotton will begin to issue validation certificates for cotton shipments on Sept. 1. Under the new rules bills of lading will be delivered only for cotton actually in the hands of the carriers, and no duplicates will be issued.

INSTRUCTION. NEW YORK—Manlius.

Manlius School

MANLIUS, N. Y.

DESIGNATED by the War Department as "Distinguished Institution 1904-'05-'06-'07-'08-'09-'10," this being highest honor paid by U. S. Government. Most successful application of military principle to preparation for college or business, because this high grade of military work is attractive and thoroughly stimulates and produces results in honor system, building of character and habits of study not attained in such degree by most military or civilian schools.

Gen. WM. VERBECK, President
